WEDDING OF MISS LANGHORNE SOCIETY EVENT OF THE SEASON

Elaborate Preparations Being Made for the Marriage, Which Will Take Place at the Brandon in Basic City.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR GROOMSMEN

Six Bridesmaids and Fourteen Ushers, the Latter Chosen from the Groom-Elect's Old College Chums While He Was at Harvard.

Though much disappointment is felt in this city that the marriage of Miss Phyllis Langhorne will take place at the "Brandon," Basic City, instead of St. Paul's, here, still there is not an event looked forward to in the social world of Virginia and New York with more anticipation or interest than that which will take place on November 14th.

Miss Langhorne's beauty and fame have a wide reputation, and her fiancé, Mr. Reginald Brooks, of New York, is quite as prominent as his bride-to-be, being the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Brooks. Through his mother he will inherit a great fortune, but apart from this, he is an expert yachtsman, a crack golfer and an accomplished polo player.

The main hall of the "Brandon" will be the scene of the brilliant wedding tableaux, this hotel having been leased for the occasion, at which place all the guests of "Mirador" will assemble in a large house party the day before.

THE BRIDESMAIDS.
Six fair maidens will attend this popular bride, two of them being from this city. They are Miss Helen Christian and Miss Atkinson. The others will be Misses Christian and Atkinson, of Baltimore; Miss Langdon Rives, of Castle Hill; and Miss Gladys Brooks, of New York, sister of the groom.

Mrs. Robert Shaw, of Boston, formerly the popular Miss Nannie Langhorne, will be her sister's matron of honor.

The nuptial knot will be tied by Rev. Mr. Neaves, assisted by Bishop Robert A. Gibson, of this city.

The ushers, who will seat the guests will be fourteen old college chums and classmates of Mr. Brooks, from Harvard. They will come on a special train.

Mr. James Stillman, of New York, will be the groom's best man.

This will also be a day that will leave its mark upon her sister Nannie's life, who, until quite recently, was in the school-room, for she will make her first bow to society at the notable wedding. It will be remembered that her carriage received the first prize two weeks ago at the floral parade which was given in Lynchburg.

TYPICAL SOUTHERN BEAUTY.
Miss Phyllis, who is the center of so much interest just now, is a typical southern beauty, possessing glorious blue eyes, clear, fair complexion, and a wealth of dusky tresses, which only accentuate her fairness, and, added to this, she is a gracious companion. Men and women seek her society wherever she is. She is bright and has a lovely disposition.

She, like all her other sisters, is at her best in the hunting-field, and much respect was felt here during the Horse Show at the accident to her horse, "Genesta," therefore making her unable to show her skill as a horsewoman, and losing her chance of the handsome silver cup, but she was here the guest of several box parties and luncheons.

The southern beauty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Langhorne, first of Lynchburg, then of this city, but more recently of "Mirador," Greenwood. Her father is a celebrated wit, and is known as the Chauncey Dewey of Virginia, and one of the best post-prandial speakers. Her mother was the famous beauty, Miss Kean, of this city.

HER FIRST APPEARANCE.
The first chapter of Miss Phyllis' social life was commenced under the title of "One of the Gibson Sisters." The scene was laid at St. Paul's Church, in the autumn of 1895, when her beautiful sister, Miss Irene, became the bride of the distinguished New York artist, Charles Dana Gibson. Though then a school girl, in spite of her youth, it was her first introduction to the social world, and by the right of every Langhorne she immediately became a belle.

The second chapter in her life is commenced two years later, when at the old historic home of "Mirador," her next eldest sister, Nannie, was made a bride. It was at this wedding that she became known as the great Virginia beauty.

Mr. Robert G. Shaw, a son of a well-known Boston millionaire, was the proud groom on this occasion.

Shortly after this Miss Phyllis made a tour abroad and to other parts of America, where she was welcomed first as the sister of Mrs. Moncure Perkins of Richmond; then of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, who had been presented in England and feted by the Royal Academicians; and then as the sister of Mrs. Robert Shaw, of Boston; and last, but not least, for her own beauty and charm of manner. In this chapter is also related the numerous conquests she made and finally succumbed in the early part of last summer to Mr. Reginald Brooks.

She, like her sister, Mrs. Gibson, has been a belle ever since her debut, when she, in company with her sister, Miss Nannie, clad in a soft gown of chiton, with a large Gainsborough hat of white soft, came in still superbly seated, breathless, glowing, enthusiastic, radiant—such a vision of beauty that her fame spread in a few minutes from Hempstead to New York.

The story of the Meadowbrook hunt, though oft told, will bear repeating. As Miss Phyllis tore fearlessly across the fields after the hounds, her high hat caught in a low-hanging branch and was lifted off her head. Her hair became loosened and tumbled luxuriantly about her ears. On and on she rode, unconscious of all save the "fox." At the finish she came in still superbly seated, breathless, glowing, enthusiastic, radiant—such a vision of beauty that her fame spread in a few minutes from Hempstead to New York.

TO TALK ABOUT THE CITY LIMITS

Special Committee Will Meet To-morrow Night.

MAY HOLD PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Those Who Have to Deal With the Subject Are Anxious to Learn the wishes of Their Constituents—City Hall Notes.

The matter of the extension of the corporate limits of the city is attracting a good deal of attention. The special committee provided for by the City Council will meet at 8 o'clock to-morrow night. Mr. Wallerstein will be made the chairman. He is one of the most earnest and enthusiastic of the advocates of extension. It is hoped to have the report ready to be submitted to the Common Council at its meeting on the first Monday in December. The petitioners will be a meeting before the long to set on foot plans for the show next year.

Muse—Haywood.
(Special Dispatch to The Times.)
GLOUCESTER POINT, VA., October 25.—One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place the evening of the 15th at 6 o'clock at St. Paul's Church, when Miss Annie Haywood became the bride of Mr. P. J. Muse.

The procession entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. Dr. D. O. Clements, in the following order: The ushers—Messrs. W. Pointer, Oatley Hogg, Annie Rowe, Henry Willet, Clinton Hogg, J. H. Rowe, Miss Jamie Pointer acted as maid of honor and Miss Rowe as bridesmaid. The groom and his best man, Mr. Robert Muse, met the procession at the altar. The bride, attired in a going-away gown of castor cloth and carrying coesmos, came up the aisle with her father, Little Miss Mabel Heywood and Mary Muse, in gowns of white organdy, scattered pink roses. Rev. R. A. Folks performed the ceremony.

Tuesday evening preceding the marriage, at 4 o'clock, a sumptuous dinner was tendered the bride and groom.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left for Baltimore and other northern cities.

Nice Points of Law.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.)
BERRYVILLE, VA., October 25.—Depositions are being taken in a suit that is exciting much talk in Clarke county and involves some nice points for Judge Harrison of the Circuit Court, to pass upon. At the public sale last summer of the real estate of the late Peter MacPierce county treasurer, W. A. Bradford bought a tract of land on the Blue Ridge mountains, a part of said estate. In the advertisements of the sale, it was stated that "several fine streams of water" were on the property and that the land was very valuable for "grazing purposes." Mr. Bradford, the purchaser, contends that the water is not of sufficient force to be called a "stream of water" and, therefore, the land loses its value as a grazing farm, and hence refuses to take the property. The attorney of the MacPierce heirs claim that Mr. Bradford bought the property

Guard Your Health in Fall and Early Winter

A change from warm to cold is always attended with more danger than from a cold to a warm temperature; it is the greater mortality from lung and throat diseases at this season of the year, as compared with spring.

The best protection against colds is not so much in extra clothing as in good digestion.

If the digestion and circulation are good colds will be unknown.

Poor digestion causes poor circulation of the blood, and when in this condition severe colds are contracted on the slightest provocation.

People who make a regular practice of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals are free from colds, simply because their digestion is perfect, the heart strong and regular and the whole system fortified against disease.

It requires little argument to convince any one that the best safeguard against colds, pneumonia and changes of temperature is a good stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals and mingling with the food cause it to be promptly digested and assimilated; they do this because they contain nothing but harmless digestive elements, which digest meat, eggs and other food even when the stomach itself is weak and flaccid.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make people well and keep them well, and the best habit you can acquire is to keep daily use of them to make the digestive organs strong and vigorous.

with his eyes open and that the water is sufficient for the purposes required of the land and that Mr. Bradford shall take the property.

SOUTHWEST WEDDINGS.

Mr. Alderson Will Go to Arkansas for a Bride.
(Special Dispatch to The Times.)
BRISTOL, VA., October 25.—Mr. William Palmer Douglass, a young newspaper man of Jacksonville, Fla., was married to Miss Annie May Clark, the pretty and popular daughter of Mr. Wm. L. Clark, at Glade Spring, Va., this week. Rev. P. H. Gwinn officiating. The couple left immediately for the home of the groom.

Mr. W. S. Russell, a young farmer of Bracken, Neb., and a native of that State, was happily married to Miss Mary Childress, the pretty daughter of Mr. Wm. Childress, at her father's home, near here, on Wednesday, Dr. J. Albert Wallace, of Bristol, officiating. The couple will reside in Nebraska.

Mr. John W. Alderson, a son of Judge T. B. Alderson, United States attorney for the Western District of Virginia, will be married on the 30th instant to Miss Katherine Rolwege, of Forest City, Ark. The bride-elect is well known in Bristol, having been a pupil in vocal music in southwest Virginia, institute two years ago, and noted for her charm of voice.

HUNTING IN CUMBERLAND.

Cumberland is booming just now, and there is a hull, just before the tobacco season opens. Quite an addition has been made to the Cumberland warehouse; a new factory is being built for Messrs. Thomas & Adams, and P. F. Omohundro & Brother have about doubled the size of their factory. The sales here this winter promise to eclipse all former ones, which have been excellent.

Circuit Court begins here on November the 7th, Judge Hundley presiding.

Freight and express paid.

We pay freight and express charges on all mail orders of $5.00 and over to any point in Virginia and North Carolina.
