

RANGE OF THERMOMETER. The thermometer ranged as follows at the Times office yesterday: 9 A. M., 42; 12 M., 43; 3 P. M., 46; 6 P. M., 51; 9 P. M., 56; 12 midnight, 63. Average, 51 1/2.

VOL. 17, NO. 45. TEN PAGES

SCENES OF DISSENSION IN OLD BRUTON CHURCH

Factional Fight for and Against Rector. THE TWO BALLOT BOXES Two Sets of Vestments Elected and Now Unsettled.

WILL APPEAL TO THE BISHOP Highly Probable that Matter Will Have to Be Settled by the Episcopal Council. The Anti-Roberts Faction Are Determined to Fight to the Bitter.

(Special Dispatch to The Times) WILLIAMSBURG, VA., March 31.—The vestry election that took place in Bruton Parish Church to-day was perfectly in consonance with the stormy March day that witnessed it, and all loyal Episcopalian felt intense mortification that the old church should have been the scene of such a stormy gathering.

The election was scheduled to take place from twelve to two and the voters usually file in, depositing their ballots and then go out, but to-day all gathered promptly at twelve and all stayed until two.

The feeling in town, openly shared by all denominations by the way, for it was more of a town affair and less exclusively Episcopalian than outsiders might think, has been gathering and crystallizing for some time, but lines were not tightly drawn until one day last week when the vestry met to select judges. The sentiment of the vestry of nine of something like this: Four support Rev. Mr. Roberts in everything, three oppose him in everything, while the other two are trying to perform the very impartial duty of being impartial.

Of these two, one is apt to go against him, and one is apt to go against him. It can be seen that Mr. Roberts has a very insecure majority of one, while the other side can always hope for a majority of one.

NO SILENT MEETING. It has been assumed that the election to-day would relieve the tension and the real sentiment of the congregation be ascertained, but it has not proven so according to two of the judges.

To return to the election of judges of Bruton Parish Church, the vestry met, Mr. R. T. Armistead, who shares with Mr. J. B. C. Spencer the title of most loyal supporter to the rector, moved that the vestry appoint the judges. The opposition's hoped for majority of one materialized, and the proposition was defeated. Nominations were then made and the election proceeded.

Dr. Garrett, the rector's warden, protested; the rector read from a commentary on church law, and the warden read from the Virginia canon. The rector's authority carried most weight with the vestry and the warden noted a protest in the minutes.

Following began, the rector participated. One of the two judges of election was chosen and he was of the opposition. On the second ballot the other judge was selected.

It should be remarked, by the way, that your correspondent does not pretend to say anything, except in so far as he has been informed by a member of that body. The rector's friends on the board of judges being in the majority, the opposition gathered themselves together for a real fight. Each man and woman thought himself worthy of the old-fashioned degree "D. L. C."

OPENED MEETING. The rector opened the meeting to-day, sitting in the chancel robed in his cassock, but he had only one thing to say and that was to read a canon to the effect that "the judges of election are the sole judges of the qualifications of voters." This he read over five times, increasing his emphasis each time. The opposition moved restlessly in their seats and confidently expected the canon prescribing the qualifications of voters to be read, but they looked in vain.

The rector's friends on the board of judges, produced a list of those who had promised to contribute to the parish charges for the year beginning March 1, 1902, and said no one should vote whose name was not on that list. As quite a number of the communicants had fallen rather lukewarm towards the rector when the list was carried around, there were not so many names on it. Those who were on this list, and those who were not, were called on by the rector, and the respective names were read from the list. Each man and woman who was called on, asked voters, three were the rector's supporters voted in his qualification, therein named. These questions were:

First—Are you twenty-one years of age? Second—Have you resided in the parish six months? Third—Are you a communicant or a regular contributor?

At 4:30 P. M. the House adjourned. In the Senate. (By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

MANY TOPICS WERE DISCUSSED

Sundry Civil Bill Business Before the House. TO BEAUTIFY WASHINGTON

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, Took Advantage of Latitude Allowed Depute to Discuss It—The Influence of the Senate on Legislation.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—The House to-day entered upon the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill, completing the general debate before the close of the session. Much of the speech of the day was pertinent to the bill. The speeches of Messrs. Williams, of Mississippi; Poirer, of North Carolina, and Spight, of Mississippi, were upon the proposed investigation of the Southern franchise question. Mr. Bell, of Colorado, discussed the financial bills before the House.

Mr. Payne, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, reported the Cuban reciprocity bill, and gave notice that he would call it up a week or two to-morrow. Mr. Cannon, of Michigan, discussed the sundry civil bill, explaining that that measure carried $30,223,855, being $12,554,542 less than the estimates, and $12,572,053 less than the current law. He pointed out that last year $40,000,000 of war taxes were removed and this year $70,000,000 were to be received, making a total reduction of revenues in two years of $111,000,000.

With regard to the project for beautifying Washington by a vast park scheme to cost ultimately $200,000,000, Mr. Cannon said the committee had recommended the making of a total reduction of revenues in two years of $111,000,000.

CAPITOL BUILDING. Mr. Cannon also referred to the schemes for completing the Capitol building according to the original plans, with an extension on the east side and for various other improvements, involving an expenditure of over $30,000,000.

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, took advantage of the latitude allowed him to discuss the question of entering upon the improvements until Congress could see the result of the reduction of revenues.

Mr. Benton, of Missouri, expressed the opinion that $20,000,000 each for the Capitol in the District of Columbia. This statement led to some discussion and Mr. Klutz, of North Carolina, said it was not to Washington to escape taxation.

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, took advantage of the latitude allowed him to discuss the question of entering upon the improvements until Congress could see the result of the reduction of revenues.

Mr. Benton, of Missouri, expressed the opinion that $20,000,000 each for the Capitol in the District of Columbia. This statement led to some discussion and Mr. Klutz, of North Carolina, said it was not to Washington to escape taxation.

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, took advantage of the latitude allowed him to discuss the question of entering upon the improvements until Congress could see the result of the reduction of revenues.

Mr. Benton, of Missouri, expressed the opinion that $20,000,000 each for the Capitol in the District of Columbia. This statement led to some discussion and Mr. Klutz, of North Carolina, said it was not to Washington to escape taxation.

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, took advantage of the latitude allowed him to discuss the question of entering upon the improvements until Congress could see the result of the reduction of revenues.

Mr. Benton, of Missouri, expressed the opinion that $20,000,000 each for the Capitol in the District of Columbia. This statement led to some discussion and Mr. Klutz, of North Carolina, said it was not to Washington to escape taxation.

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, took advantage of the latitude allowed him to discuss the question of entering upon the improvements until Congress could see the result of the reduction of revenues.

Mr. Benton, of Missouri, expressed the opinion that $20,000,000 each for the Capitol in the District of Columbia. This statement led to some discussion and Mr. Klutz, of North Carolina, said it was not to Washington to escape taxation.

Mr. Bell, of Colorado, took advantage of the latitude allowed him to discuss the question of entering upon the improvements until Congress could see the result of the reduction of revenues.

MISS ELY AND FRANK WERE IN RICHMOND

Missing Aunt and Nephew, of Illinois, Said to Be Here. ALL DETECTIVES BAFFLED Since Disappearing in July the Country Has Been Scoured.

A LADY TALKED WITH THEM Mrs. Burgess Met Aunt and Nephew in State Library Recently—They Said They Were Travelers and Were Guarded—She at Once Recognized the Lad's Picture—Wrote Back.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

Mr. Dillingham, of Vermont, presented a strong legal argument in support of the measure, in the course of which he vigorously arraigned the manufacturers of oleomargarine for imposing, as he said, a fraud upon the people.

In supporting the pending bill, Mr. Mc-Clum, of North Dakota, expressed the belief that the farmers of the country were entitled to the protection afforded by the bill. Incidentally he advocated general pure food legislation.

Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, of the same committee, offered an amendment to the oleomargarine bill. It represents the views of the minority of the committee.

Traces of Miss Florence Ely and her nephew, Frank Ely Rogers, of Evanston, Ill., have apparently been found at last. They are believed to have been in Richmond.

There were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

MISS ELY AND FRANK WERE IN RICHMOND

Missing Aunt and Nephew, of Illinois, Said to Be Here. ALL DETECTIVES BAFFLED Since Disappearing in July the Country Has Been Scoured.

A LADY TALKED WITH THEM Mrs. Burgess Met Aunt and Nephew in State Library Recently—They Said They Were Travelers and Were Guarded—She at Once Recognized the Lad's Picture—Wrote Back.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

Mr. Dillingham, of Vermont, presented a strong legal argument in support of the measure, in the course of which he vigorously arraigned the manufacturers of oleomargarine for imposing, as he said, a fraud upon the people.

In supporting the pending bill, Mr. McClum, of North Dakota, expressed the belief that the farmers of the country were entitled to the protection afforded by the bill. Incidentally he advocated general pure food legislation.

Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, of the same committee, offered an amendment to the oleomargarine bill. It represents the views of the minority of the committee.

Traces of Miss Florence Ely and her nephew, Frank Ely Rogers, of Evanston, Ill., have apparently been found at last. They are believed to have been in Richmond.

There were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

MISS ELY AND FRANK WERE IN RICHMOND

Missing Aunt and Nephew, of Illinois, Said to Be Here. ALL DETECTIVES BAFFLED Since Disappearing in July the Country Has Been Scoured.

A LADY TALKED WITH THEM Mrs. Burgess Met Aunt and Nephew in State Library Recently—They Said They Were Travelers and Were Guarded—She at Once Recognized the Lad's Picture—Wrote Back.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

Mr. Dillingham, of Vermont, presented a strong legal argument in support of the measure, in the course of which he vigorously arraigned the manufacturers of oleomargarine for imposing, as he said, a fraud upon the people.

In supporting the pending bill, Mr. McClum, of North Dakota, expressed the belief that the farmers of the country were entitled to the protection afforded by the bill. Incidentally he advocated general pure food legislation.

Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, of the same committee, offered an amendment to the oleomargarine bill. It represents the views of the minority of the committee.

Traces of Miss Florence Ely and her nephew, Frank Ely Rogers, of Evanston, Ill., have apparently been found at last. They are believed to have been in Richmond.

There were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

MISS ELY AND FRANK WERE IN RICHMOND

Missing Aunt and Nephew, of Illinois, Said to Be Here. ALL DETECTIVES BAFFLED Since Disappearing in July the Country Has Been Scoured.

A LADY TALKED WITH THEM Mrs. Burgess Met Aunt and Nephew in State Library Recently—They Said They Were Travelers and Were Guarded—She at Once Recognized the Lad's Picture—Wrote Back.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

Mr. Dillingham, of Vermont, presented a strong legal argument in support of the measure, in the course of which he vigorously arraigned the manufacturers of oleomargarine for imposing, as he said, a fraud upon the people.

In supporting the pending bill, Mr. McClum, of North Dakota, expressed the belief that the farmers of the country were entitled to the protection afforded by the bill. Incidentally he advocated general pure food legislation.

Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, of the same committee, offered an amendment to the oleomargarine bill. It represents the views of the minority of the committee.

Traces of Miss Florence Ely and her nephew, Frank Ely Rogers, of Evanston, Ill., have apparently been found at last. They are believed to have been in Richmond.

There were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

MISS ELY AND FRANK WERE IN RICHMOND

Missing Aunt and Nephew, of Illinois, Said to Be Here. ALL DETECTIVES BAFFLED Since Disappearing in July the Country Has Been Scoured.

A LADY TALKED WITH THEM Mrs. Burgess Met Aunt and Nephew in State Library Recently—They Said They Were Travelers and Were Guarded—She at Once Recognized the Lad's Picture—Wrote Back.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

Mr. Dillingham, of Vermont, presented a strong legal argument in support of the measure, in the course of which he vigorously arraigned the manufacturers of oleomargarine for imposing, as he said, a fraud upon the people.

In supporting the pending bill, Mr. McClum, of North Dakota, expressed the belief that the farmers of the country were entitled to the protection afforded by the bill. Incidentally he advocated general pure food legislation.

Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, of the same committee, offered an amendment to the oleomargarine bill. It represents the views of the minority of the committee.

Traces of Miss Florence Ely and her nephew, Frank Ely Rogers, of Evanston, Ill., have apparently been found at last. They are believed to have been in Richmond.

There were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

The photograph of the lady and the face of the lady herself did not so strongly resemble; she accounts for this on the ground that the picture was taken some years ago. But the likeness of the picture to the boy is well-nigh perfect. The description of the lady given by her friends in Evanston is borne out in every particular.

They were here less than three weeks ago. There is scarcely a doubt of it. Mrs. D. M. Burgess saw and talked with them. She did not know it, but since then photographs of both have come to her and she says that not a doubt remains in her mind that a little more than two weeks ago she talked with the infatuated aunt and her idolized nephew in the State Library building.

MISS ELY AND FRANK WERE IN RICHMOND

Missing Aunt and Nephew, of Illinois, Said to Be Here. ALL DETECTIVES BAFFLED Since Disappearing in July the Country Has Been Scoured.

A LADY TALKED WITH THEM Mrs. Burgess Met Aunt and Nephew in State Library Recently—They Said They Were Travelers and Were Guarded—She at Once Recognized the Lad's Picture—Wrote Back.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31.—During the entire session of the Senate to-day the oleomargarine bill was under consideration. Three speeches were delivered, two in support of the measure and one against it.

Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina, made an extended argument in opposition to the bill, re-enforcing cogently and interestingly points heretofore made against the proposed legislation, and adding some new and forceful arguments. This was Mr. Simmons' maiden speech in the Senate, and he was cordially congratulated at its conclusion.

Mr. Dillingham, of Vermont, presented a strong legal argument in support of the measure, in the course of which he vigorously arraigned the manufacturers of oleomargarine for imposing, as he said, a fraud upon the people.

In supporting the pending bill, Mr. McClum, of North Dakota, expressed the belief that the farmers of the country were entitled to the protection afforded by the bill. Incidentally he advocated general pure food legislation.

Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, of the same committee, offered an amendment to the oleomargarine bill. It represents the views of the minority of the committee.

Traces of Miss Florence Ely and her nephew, Frank Ely Rogers, of Evanston, Ill., have apparently been found