

WICKHAM'S PLAN ADOPTED BY SENATE Will Go to the House This Morning for Concurrence.

A COMMISSION OF FIFTEEN They Are to Be Appointed from Senate and House by Presiding Officer of Each—Senate's Two Sessions. House Proceedings.

The Senate late yesterday afternoon adopted a plan for the codification of the State laws and adaptation of them to the new fundamental law.

The plan adopted was that of Mr. Wickham, of Hanover, amended in one particular by Colonel Anderson, of Richmond. This scheme provides for a committee of six from the Senate and nine from the House, who shall sit during the recess of the General Assembly and shall receive a per diem of $4.

At a morning session a bill offered by Judge Mann was passed, providing that shall be jurors in Virginia. The object of the measure was simply to clear up the doubt existing as to whether pending the new revision of voters there are any qualified jurors in the State.

The House passed two bills offered by Mr. Mathews, of Accomac, repealing certain oyster legislation which had for its object the operating and adjustment of the Bayshore and eastern or ocean side of the Accomac and Northampton. Beyond this the House did nothing of interest, having passed by the consideration of the codifying commission matter until to-day.

In the Senate. The Senate was called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Willard. No minister was present and no prayer was offered.

The first half hour was consumed in the considering local bills. One was to authorize the supervisors of Fairfax to lease to the Bank of Fairfax the old clerk's office at Fairfax. This was passed. Another was the patron. The bill of Judge Mann, regarding who shall constitute the persons eligible to serve on a jury was taken up, the rules were suspended and the bill passed.

The bill to amend the constitution to make any change in the present law, but to prevent any misunderstanding. One interesting provision is that no longer is a man who has fought a duel debarred from serving on a jury.

SPICIA ORDER. Mr. Wickham called the special order which was the resolution of Mr. Lyle and the substitute of Mr. Wickham regarding the means of adapting the laws of the State to the new constitution.

Senator Gold offered a joint resolution as a substitute for the whole to the effect that when the next Assembly meets on Friday, July 25th, it adjourn to meet November 12, 1902, and that the several committees of the two houses be authorized to meet November 11th to prepare such measures as are necessary to put the Constitution in force.

Five members constitute a quorum. The clerks of the committee are required to be in attendance on the meetings of the committees.

GOLD PLAN DISCUSSED. Mr. Gold spoke in support of his substitute. He said that he thought many of the Senators had an exaggerated idea of the work of adapting the laws to the Constitution. The Constitution says that all the laws of the State now in force shall remain in force until the Constitution shall remain in force.

Mr. Chapman, of Greene, favored the substitute of Mr. Gold. Colonel Anderson, of Richmond, spoke earnestly in favor of the substitute of Mr. Wickham. Judge Mann spoke next. He outlined what he conceived to be the difference between the substitute of Mr. Gold and Mr. Wickham. He thought that all the laws would have to be more or less revised.

Mr. Sale, of Norfolk, spoke in support of the proposition of the Senator from Hanover. Mr. Tyler, of Charles City, favored the appointment by the Governor of a commission of five of the best lawyers of the State to do this revision.

Mr. McLawne, of Petersburg, had a resolution which was similar to that of Mr. Tyler's, except that the Senate elect the substitute of Mr. Gold was voted down.

The Senate took a recess at 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock.

Afternoon Session. The Senate was called to order after the recess at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Cogbill offered an amendment to the proposition of Mr. Wickham to the effect that the commission be appointed by the Governor, and not by the Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. Kezzell and Mr. Barksdale thought the amendment implied a lack of confidence in the president of the Senate, and was a reflection on him. Mr. Cogbill replied at once with great emphasis that such a thing, and could not be put upon his motion. But he thought the appointment of the commission was not a responsibility that should be placed on the Lieutenant-Governor.

The Senate voted a resolution down, though quite a number were in favor of it.

Mr. Gold offered an amendment to the effect that the chairman of the chief committees of the Senate and House constitute the commission; down.

ANDERSON'S AMENDMENT. Colonel Anderson, of Richmond, offered an amendment to the effect that the work of the revision may be divided and allotted, and that the per diem shall be paid for the work done, whether the mission is in session or not. This amendment was accepted by Mr. Wickham and adopted by the Senate.

Mr. Tyler, of Charles City, offered his amendment that the Governor appoint the commission of five of the best lawyers of the State in law to codify the laws. He spoke with some length in support of his proposition, but it followed the course of all save that of Colonel Anderson.

Mr. Barksdale offered an amendment that the number of members of the commission be six, and fifteen from the House, instead of nine. This was voted down after argument against it by Mr. Kezzell.

Several amendments relating to the size of the commission were offered and rejected.

The original substitute of Mr. Wickham was then adopted. The proposition makes the following provisions: Six members from the Senate, nine from the House to be appointed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House, respectively, to compose a commission for the purpose of adapting the statutes of MR. GRINNAN NEXT CHANCERY JUDGE Recommended Yesterday by the Members of the Bar.

CHOSN FOR THE THIRD BALLOT Other Competitors Were Mr. Jackson Guy and Mr. G. Carleton Jackson. Only Three Ballots Were Taken.

At a meeting of the members of the Richmond bar, held yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Daniel Grinnan was nominated to succeed the Hon. James C. Lamb as judge of the Chancery Court of this city. He was chosen on the third ballot and carried a majority of eighteen votes over his final opponent, Mr. Jackson Guy.

The nomination will go now to the Governor, who has the appointment to the office for the unexpired term. It is practically certain that he will be governed by the decision of the Richmond lawyers, and there is hardly any doubt that Mr. Grinnan will be the next occupant of the Chancery Court.

CHAIRMAN ELECTED. The meeting at the Chamber of Commerce was called to order shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Judge George L. Christian was unanimously elected chairman. Mr. J. L. Leake was elected secretary, assisted by three tellers, each representing one of the candidates. One hundred and seventy-one members of the bar were present.

After stating the object of the meeting Judge Christian called for a report of a special committee as to the mode of procedure in the meeting, which report was unanimously adopted.

"First—The voting shall be viva voce and there shall be no proxies. "Second—All white members of the Richmond Bar shall be entitled to vote. All lawyers assessed with a city license tax for the year 1902 and all lawyers who have, since the first day of February, 1902, decided to establish an office in the city of Richmond during the year 1902 shall be entitled to vote. "Third—Any vote may be challenged at any time before the final result is reached, and upon such challenge the statement of the person whose vote is challenged that he is entitled to vote under the provisions of the preceding section shall be conclusive of the right to vote. "Fourth—There shall be no nominating speeches. "Fifth—A majority of all the votes cast shall be necessary to a choice. "Sixth—No nominee shall be dropped until two ballots have been taken, and the lowest number of votes received by all the nominees shall receive a majority of all the votes cast on either of these ballots, he shall be declared the nominee of the meeting. After the two ballots have been taken, if no person is elected, the lowest number of votes received by any candidate shall be again put in nomination until after at least one ballot has been then taken. After this one ballot has been so taken, the candidate or candidates who have been dropped, shall be again renominated; but no candidate who has been dropped twice shall be again put in nomination."

NOMINATIONS AND BALLOTS. The roll of members was called, and several names were added. One or two votes were challenged, but the matter was smoothed over without difficulty. The first nomination was made by Judge Leake, who presented the name of Mr. Daniel Grinnan. The nomination of Mr. Guy was seconded by Mr. Preston Cooke. Mr. Grinnan's name was placed in nomination by Mr. S. S. P. Patterson, and was seconded by Mr. W. P. Meredith. The nomination of Mr. Carleton Jackson was made by Captain George D. Wise and was seconded by Mr. O. Howard.

The first ballot resulted as follows: Guy, 61; Grinnan, 73; Jackson, 27. The necessity to a choice was shown, and there was a second ballot. The roll was called for and resulted as follows: Guy, 60; Grinnan, 69; Jackson, 26 and there was still no election. Several pairs were announced.

Judge Christian announced that the roll would be called with only the two candidates, and Mr. S. S. P. Patterson appealed from the decision of the chair. He was sustained and the name of Mr. Guy was dropped. The roll was then called for the third time and Mr. Grinnan was elected on the following ballot: Grinnan, 87.

It had been previously provided that the election should be made unanimous and this was now done amid great enthusiasm. The meeting adjourned about 1 o'clock.

The Next Judge. Mr. Daniel Grinnan was born in Madison county, Virginia, and is 49 years of age. He is the second son of the late Dr. Andrew Glasswell Grinnan, of that county. His mother, who was a Miss Bryan, from Gloucester county, and two maiden sisters, reside at the old home on the Bank River. He attended the Louisville Academy, Hampden-Sidney College, and the University of Virginia. He then taught school for several years in this State and in Mississippi. In October, 1857, he returned to the University of Virginia to study law, in which course he graduated the following June. In October, 1858, he came to Richmond and during the next nine months was an instructor in a few classes in McGuire's school, in this city, practicing law at the same time. He has since followed his profession in this city. He has never held any office, except that of notary public, and has not heretofore been a candidate for office.

Mr. Grinnan is regarded as one of the ablest chancery lawyers in the city. He is an elegant gentleman and his popularity with the members of the bar was attested by the flattering vote he received yesterday.

Did Capt. Lamb Forget Himself? Spoke for Twenty-eight Minutes of Thirty, Half of Which He Had Agreed to Give Wallace.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.) KING WILLIAM, VA., July 22.—The feature of the court to-day was a brief, but brisk debate between Captain John Lamb and Mr. Jefferson Wallace. The crowd was not large, owing to the extremely hot weather, but nearly every man on the court green went into the courthouse to hear the speaking.

Mr. Wallace had made a proposition to Captain Lamb to have a discussion, and asked to have it begin at noon, as he was compelled to catch the early train for Richmond. To this Captain Lamb agreed, but did not return from dinner until nearly 1 o'clock, and it was then agreed, owing to the fact that Mr. Wallace was obliged to leave at 1:30, that each candidate should speak fifteen minutes. Mr. Gregory county chairman, called the meeting to order, and introduced Captain Lamb, who at once went into a discussion of his record, relating his part in the Richmond College matter, and Mr. Wallace, who replied in a very argumentative manner, and in a very energetic manner, and in a very energetic manner, and in a very energetic manner.

Plans and specifications for the erection of the monument will be laid before the Executive Committee yesterday. The meeting was held in the office of City Attorney Judge William I. Clopton, who is an able and faithful worker in the cause of the monument, and will do credit to the county. By a special act of the Legislature introduced by Hon. P. V. Cogbill the Board of Supervisors may appropriate material for the monument, and also the site for the monument, and also the site for the monument, and also the site for the monument.

A WALLACE CLUB IN MANCHESTER First One of the Campaign Formed Last Night. CANDIDATE MAKES A SPEECH Refers to His Boyhood in the City, and Thanks His Friends for Their Aid. Base-ball To-Day—Other Manchester News.

Manchester Bureau, Richmond Times, 1102 Hull Street. The first note of the congressional campaign was sounded in Manchester last night, when a Jefferson Wallace Democratic Campaign Club was formed, and a strong organization effected.

The meeting was held in the City Hall. Three assembled a body of men who represented every class of the citizens of Manchester. Mr. William M. Lipscomb was called to the chair, and a permanent organization was effected, as follows: William M. Lipscomb, president; John A. Alvis, secretary; treasurer, V. W. Chester, of B. Rudd, First Ward; A. L. Sampson, Second Ward; M. A. Rightsell, Third Ward; W. B. Bradley, Fourth Ward.

In accepting the office, Mr. Lipscomb spoke briefly, and said he considered it to be an honor to be the president of the first Wallace Club to be formed in the district, and he accepted the position with the firm intention of doing everything in his power to aid in giving Mr. Wallace a splendid majority in the city.

Mr. William Gratzkowski, who resides in Chesterfield county, but who for a long while resided in Manchester, was called on, and made a stirring speech, in which he said, Jeff Wallace would make a Congressman from whom the district would be proud.

Judge Clopton was called on, but asked to be excused, promising the club that he would take pleasure in addressing them at some future day.

Mr. Wallace was called on, and spoke briefly, and unaffectedly. It was plain that his feelings almost overcame him. He said this voluntary organization of the first Wallace Club, which he had formed, was a great honor to him, and that he was proud to feel that the men with whom he had been raised approved his candidacy, and had not forgotten the time when he played about the streets of Manchester, a barefooted boy. He spoke of his struggles with poverty, and told how he had gone out into the world at the age of eight years to earn a living, with no other capital than a sincere trust in God and a determination to make a man of himself. He said that in the last campaign, he was determined to make a hard and energetic fight for the nomination; that he was going to win the nomination honorably or not at all. He said if he won the nomination through the aid of a machine, or by the reckless use of money, he would feel that he had lost the honor which he had so bravely and so nobly won.

Mr. Wallace's brief address was enthusiastically received.

Messrs. Floyd W. Bass, J. B. Rudd and A. R. Hooker, were appointed a committee to secure a suitable permanent meeting place, and the officers were instructed to appoint an Executive Committee of three citizens from each ward before the next meeting.

The membership of the club already numbered eighty-four of the best citizens of Manchester, and among them are prominent business men, some of whom are mechanics. One of those present last night was an old gentleman who has not attended a political meeting for years, but who said that he had known and loved and admired him since he was a boy, and that he had known Mr. Wallace since he was a baby, and climbed three flights of stairs to demonstrate his affection for Manchester's brilliant son.

BASE-BALL TO-DAY. Endaunted by their loss in the face of odds that they will again lose, the "Blue Jeans" base-ball team will this afternoon cross bats with the Manchester Grays, an aggregation of players, who for fast ball playing are second to none in the State. Over thirty of the Grays have been seen playing this season, and they have won easily. It is said that they can defeat any of the so-called champions of Richmond or Petersburg. This reputation for fast ball playing is not in the least exaggerated. "Blue Jeans" they are going to win the honor to-day. The team work will be strengthened greatly by some two or three of the regular players who have been on a vacation.
