It takes a fat man to escape
The traps for husbands baited;
For when the women see his shape
They're not infatuated.

BANKERS RECEIVE OFFER
Of Treasury Department To Loan Funds For Crop Movement.

Cincinnati national banks received a letter from Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo on the subject of placing of Government funds to help the crop movement this year.
The letter asks for information on the need of help in this district this year, the periods when the help would be needed most and what character of securities, in the opinion of the bankers, the department should demand from the banks.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence.
Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.
A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."
According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfills almost every wish in over-coming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.
You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Maysville Daily Public Ledger.

IMMIGRATION TO U. S.

Biggest in History—Over 1,300,000 Foreigners Come To This Country in 1913.
Washington, D. C.—There was an increased immigration of over 200,000 people into the United States last year, according to Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti, who said that a total of 1,300,000 foreigners came to the United States to make their homes.
Included in the list were close to 10,000 Japanese. While this is not the largest number of Japanese ever admitted it is an increase over the previous year.
Approximately 270,000 Italians came to the United States last year. Next in numbers were the Jews, chiefly from Russia, with over 140,000, and after them came the Polish immigrants, over 130,000 strong.

FACT OUTWEIGHS THEORY

One Man Who Spends a Million Dollars More Abroad Than He Formerly Did.

(New York Journal.)
We are having our "Tariff reform," dearly beloved.
How do you like it?
Do you find that you can buy things any cheaper than you used to?
No, you don't, and you won't.
When Tariff reform takes 90 cents off the cost of cloth in a $15 suit of clothes, the maker of the clothes doesn't take 15 cents off the price.
But the buyer of the cloth gets it in England, or elsewhere, instead of buying it in America, made by American workmen.

If you question Mr. Wilson and other gentlemen to whom we owe our psychological prosperity, you will be told that the Tariff is a blessing, and that it does not hurt workmen.
When you next talk to Mr. Wilson, offer him a fact. There is one man in this country—others like him—who conducts a big business and gives away so-called souvenirs, usually pocket knives at country fairs.
This one individual spends for these souvenirs $250,000 a year. Hitherto, he has bought them in the United States—made by United States labor. Now he buys them in Germany.
He is bound, of course, to look after the interests of his company. And when the government of the United States makes it worth while for his company to buy of German workmen instead of workmen in America, the company does that.

Spending $1,000,000 a Year More Abroad.
He said to this writer the other day "I don't pretend to discuss with able theorists, but I know that I, as one business man, am spending each year $1,000,000 more abroad than I was before they changed the Tariff."

It doesn't take very deep intelligence, gentle readers, to realize that if one man is giving to workmen in Europe each year a million dollars for wages and material that he spent here last year, workmen in America are getting less than they used to.
And if you multiply that million by a thousand it will be a reasonable estimate of a small part of what the Tariff will cost the American workman. So he is not surprised that prosperity has something the matter with its psychology.
P. S.—The name of the gentleman who brings $250,000 worth of souvenirs from Germany and who spends now for foreign labor one million annually that he spent previously for American labor will be gladly supplied to President Wilson, if he will write a note asking for it.

Five coaches of the Dixie Flyer left the tracks at Wauhatchie, Tenn., and four persons were slightly injured.

TABACCO CROP SHORT

Estimates Based on Returns From the Growing Sections Show That Drouth Has Done Great Damage Throughout the Burley Belt

Decrease of 64,115 Acres, or 6 Per Cent. Shown in 3 States

The reports of Cincinnati Enquirer correspondents in the various tobacco-producing counties of Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana and all of the tobacco-growing States indicate a total area planted to tobacco this year of 986,512 acres, as contrasted with 1,050,627 acres planted last year. This is a decrease of 64,115 acres, or 6 per cent.
Calculations based on the average yield per acre for the past ten years, and taking into consideration the conditions prevailing at planting time in the various sections, a total production of tobacco in the United States in 1914 may be estimated at $15,101,000 pounds. This compares with a production of 960,333,850 pounds, estimated at planting time last season, indicating a decrease this year of 49,101,900 pounds, or nearly 6 per cent.
The Kentucky tobacco area, which is the largest in the world, will this year not exceed 329,840 acres, which will probably yield approximately 296,856,000 pounds of burley and dark type tobacco. Ohio and Indiana together this season planted only slightly more acreage than did Ohio alone last year, and the total production of both will be under that of 1913. North Carolina, the second largest tobacco-producing State, even with the inroads made by the drouth, reports a planting of 225,000 acres, 13,000 acres more than last year and the estimated yield is 133,500,000 pounds. The Virginia area is reduced 35,000 acres, as compared with last season and in West Virginia a falling off of 7,250 acres is indicated, the estimated production being correspondingly smaller. In Wisconsin the annual tendency to reduce the tobacco acreage is again in evidence and a reduction of 2,000 acres is reported, but with favorable weather conditions throughout the growing season the crop may be expected to weigh out nearly as heavy as last year, as the excessive rains during May and June will do much toward making for a heavy fibrous leaf.

The Burley Belt.
Throughout the burley belt there prevailed a variety of conditions, but most sections suffered from the prolonged drouth, which up to the time of this report has been broken but little. Farmers had planned to raise an enormous burley crop, and never before were the plant beds so large or so numerous as this year. The dry weather, however, retarded the growth of the young plants in the beds, and those which were set out early were literally baked in the ground. Even at the close of June many fields were still unplanted, and by that time the plants in the beds were too large to be transplanted. A very liberal estimate of the burley crop of 1914 may be made as follows: Kentucky, 171,920 acres; Indiana, 7,750 acres; Ohio 9,000 acres; West Virginia, and scattering sections, 10,000 acres; total, 197,770 acres. The total estimated burley acreage at planting time last season was 205,060 acres. Thus a decrease of 7,290 acres, or 3 per cent, is indicated. The harvested burley area in 1913 was 196,111 acres, and it is likely that the usual shrinkage of the crop during the growing season will still maintain the same relative decrease at harvesting time this year. The harvested area of burley in 1912 was 215,401 acres; 1911, 183,089 acres; 1910, 284,000 acres; 1909, 254,897 acres. The average yield per acre in the burley tobacco section fluctuates between 900 and 1,000 pounds, and upon a basis of 925 pounds to the acre the burley yield of 1914 may be estimated at 182,937,250 pounds. The estimated burley yield last year at planting time was 189,680,500 pounds, and the heaviest yield was reported at 176,869,500 pounds. The harvest yield for 1912 was 205,131,000 pounds; 1911, 174,485,700 pounds; 1910, 258,478,000 pounds.

The Dark Sections.
The dark tobacco district of Kentucky combined with the scattering patches of this type raised in Indiana and Ohio, and the vast black patch in Tennessee has planted a total area of about 198,820 acres, as against an estimated area of 205,515 acres last year, making a decrease of 6,695 acres, or 3 per cent. Based on an average yield of 800 pounds to the acre, the black patch may be reasonably expected to produce this year 159,056,000 pounds. This is an apparent decrease in production of 5,365,000 pounds, or a little more than 3 per cent. These figures include the Henderson or Stemming District, Cumberland District, Upper Green River District, Paducah, Hopkinsville and Clarksville Districts. The type of dark tobacco grown is used principally for export to foreign tobacco monopolies.

Take a 40c Tin Humidor of Tuxedo along

In comes Summer—vacation time—and that old lazy, yawny feeling. Makes a man get out his pipe, puff away and start dreaming of good times to come. Air's mighty sweet in his nostrils—and so is Tuxedo, too. A grand old tobacco to dream over on days of rest and recreation.

Tuxedo
The Perfect Pipe Tobacco

The new Tuxedo 40c Tin Humidor is a vacation necessity. At the beach, in the mountains, on the farm—wherever you go, this handsome, convenient, air-tight humidor will keep a handy supply of Tuxedo for you, in fresh, delicious condition.

Tuxedo is made from the choicest selected crops of old Kentucky Burley—the cream leaves of each golden season—ripe, mellow, fragrant and—above all—mild.

Treated by the original Tuxedo process so that it can't bite. We've had imitators galore, but the original Tuxedo process is still the best, as it was the first, in the field.
