LONDON IS JAMMED WITH YANKS FLEEING FROM ZONES OF WAR.

London.—Not even at the height of the tourist season are there more Americans in London than the present. In addition to those who are spending a holiday here and the crowds coming from the continent to get away from the inconvenience of war, there is another contingent which arrived today, consisting of tourists who, armed with passports from the American Embassy, started for the continent in the last few days but found it impossible to get further than Calais, Dieppe and other coast towns. As a consequence steamers from France and Belgium are crowded with what might be termed refugees.

In escaping from the dangers that now beset the traveler abroad they have encountered a lesser danger, which however, they find inconvenient and embarrassing. Although the pockets of many of them are full of American and English bank notes and American express companies' bills, they might just as well have nothing, for only gold and silver is taken anywhere.

"THUNDERER" DECLARES BRITAIN MUST FIGHT.

London.—The Times in a special war edition says it is plain and acknowledged that the duty and interest of Great Britain, which consists in the support of France against attack by Germany and the preservation of the neutrality of attack on the foundation of an against German invasion, must be fulfilled. "There is no room for difference of opinion," The Times continues. "The prospect before the government is that of having to fight not only for its honor but for self-preservation against which the peace and civilization of Europe are based."

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering, from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

CHAOS IS WROUGHT IN WORLD'S MARKETS.

New York, Aug. 1.—On the financial markets of the world was forced the full effect of the week's rapid spread of the war. While diplomats discussed and generals planned the money market acted.

Symptoms of the markets were a paroxysmal as to point a vision of the breaking down of European civilization itself. The warning there contained pointed to a catastrophe so grave as to carry the strongest incentive in itself to avert it.

Credits, international exchanges and commerce were disorganized.

There are some words in a modern dictionary. But a pin-feathered pup who is talking to a girl over the phone can use every one of them four times and not say a thing.

The mule market is reported dull, but with prospects for war in Europe, it is more than probable the mule will soon double in price.

Some people are too dull to cut even an undesirable acquaintance.

THE LAST DAY

The Best Day at Ruggles—442 Campers Present, Including 26 Preachers—Seven States Represented

Closing Exercises at the Camp Grounds Impressive

Ruggles Campgrounds, August 1, 1914. The last week day of camping. To the campers this is more like the closing day. Games will be put away. Packing up will be begun for most of us will want to get out early Monday. The crowds will be here tomorrow and we will be too busy just watching the people and attending church to enjoy the association of the campers. So when we retire tonight it is with a feeling of regret that the real joys of another camping are at an end.

Jones preached at the morning hour of Rev. J. D. Haggard of Germantown led the early prayers, Rev. William Jones at the evangelistic services had got worship.

Some changes were made in the afternoon services, also the evening services. Dr. Lewis, who has been preaching at the evangelistic services had gotten so hoarse that he felt it impossible to preach in the open air again, so he and Mrs. Lewis returned to Newport, at noon. Rev. J. U. Brown was selected to preach at 3 p. m. and Dr. Bunton at the evangelistic service. Both ministers had fine audiences and gave splendid sermons. The Conference Quartet sang again at the evening service to the delight of all. If they keep improving they will be able to make the members of Conference sit up and take notice when it meets in September at La-tonia.

The event of the day was the close of the contest in the children's services. Ever since the first day the little folks have had a spirited contest between the "blues" and the "reds." The "blues" put it over the "reds" in a great shape and 4:30 p. m. was the hour set for the celebration. Promptly at the hour named 73 children, decorated with red and blue colors, carrying banners and pennants, lined up for the march. Led by Trent and Richardson with cornets playing Onward Christian Soldiers, the little army marched over the campus singing the songs that they have learned during camping. Artillery serenading at several points the were led to the far corner of the campus where they were served with popcorn, peanuts and ice cream. Of course the whole camp was out to see the demonstration. The work of Miss Hurd with the children is receiving unstinted praise from everyone. She has indeed won the little ones' hearts and has been the means of many of them deciding for Christ and the church.

The Board of Directors had teams of wagons busy all day hauling wet saw dust and putting it on the dusty road leading to the grounds. It is the first camping in years that no rain has fallen during the meeting. This caused a great deal of dust which would have been very unpleasant had not the Board resorted to the sawdust plan.

You cannot hold John Crane for the last Sunday with his big crowd. He and Mrs. Crane returned to Maysville this morning.

The writer made a quick trip to Maysville today between services with Mr. J. Luther Markwell for the purpose of casting his vote in the primary, also to meet Bishop Moore who arrived on C & O. train No. 2. Mr. Markwell is about as handy with an auto as anyone we have ridden with. The trip was made in an hour each way.

Miss Julia Griffith returned to her home in Connorsville, Indiana, today.

Bruce Markwell who has been absent from home for some time traveling for a New York firm, came in yesterday for a visit with his father, Mr. J. Luther Markwell.

Ruggles Campgrounds, August 2, 1914.—The last day of the camping is here, and with it has come the largest crowd in years. We do not remember ever seeing a larger crowd on the grounds. Nor have we seen a more orderly one. Only one thing to mar the pleasure of the day, the dust.

The program of the services as announced was carried out. Bishop Moore ever a favorite here, was received and heard gladly at both morning and evening services. The attendance at all services was large.

Miss Hurd had more children at the children's service than could be crowded into the chapel, so they formed another line of march with over 125 in line and led by the cornet marched to the hotel to greet Bishop Moore. The good Bishop received the little ones in his big-hearted way and gave them a nice little talk. Over a thousand people gathered around the hotel while the Bishop was talking and we are sure that old and young alike felt that they had witnessed a great and impressive scene. The Bishop assured the little ones that he appreciated the great compliment they had paid him.

It would be an almost impossible task to name the Maysville and vicinity folks who were here today. Ruggles camping is very dear to many Maysville people and will always be attended by hundreds of its people. There has been more than the usual number here today.

the census of the camp, hoping to get it in Saturday's paper. As it failed to appear we have concluded that his memory failed him and the letters have gone up the Big Sandy. So here is another report of the census.

There are 442 campers this year, from 7 different states, and 63 different post-offices. The largest previous year, last year, there were only 411. Of course the Methodists predominate, there being 259 here including 26 preachers. Other denominations as follows: Disciples, 62; Baptists, 15; Presbyterians, 9; New-lightism, 1; United Brethren, 1; Catholic, 1; not member of any church, 104, half of whom are children. States represented are Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Texas and West Virginia.

The closing exercises of the camp-meetings are always of interest. Bishop Moore preached the sermon. Rev. Overley had charge of the service, in the absence of Dr. Dickerson who was called away about noon. After the sermon and the final invitation, everyone was invited to come forward and shake hands with the Bishop and then pass out either side of the tabernacle and form a circle around the tabernacle. When the circle had been formed all joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," after which Bishop Moore pronounced the final benediction.

Shortly after the benediction it was whispered around that "the boys" in No. 13 were treating to watermelon. Crowded around this cottage were about seventy-five campers who for the next half hour enjoyed the hospitality of the boys. It was a nice occasion and enjoyed by all. A vote of thanks was extended to the young men, Messrs. Lawrence Seerest, Sam Lee, Ray Owens and Goldsby Farrow, who so kindly treated the crowd. Dr. Bunton was called upon for a speech. Of course he responded. You can always get a speech out of Bunton when there is plenty of watermelon around. Every-one was then invited to register their names at No. 13 as a keepsake for the young men. Following this the whole crowd formed a procession and marched around the grounds serenading the campers with songs. The hotel, conference room, Kentucky Home, and the cottages of each member of the Board of Directors were visited, songs sung and a closing prayer and benediction was said. The proprietors of the confectionery treated the crowd to lemonade which brought forth another vote of thanks. At 11 p. m. after all had been serenaded, the crowd assembled at the year of the tabernacle for a final song and parting benediction by Rev. E. Overley.

Thus another most successful camping meeting closed. Tomorrow all will hurry to get away. Goodbyes will be said regretfully and promises made to meet again next year.

J. H. RICHARDSON.

SAD FACE OF LONCONERS

Strangers Visiting English Metropolis Find Many Scowling Visages.

London.—An American recently visiting London has been struck with the sad face of the average Londoner. This is the experience of nearly every stranger. The London scowl is proverbial. The points of the London scowl are "puckered eyes," "moody glances," "mouth drawn in tight line, drooping at the corners," and a deep vertical frown drawn between the eyebrows.

"Marmaduke," (C. E. Jerminham), so long famous as the satirist of "Truth," consulted on the question, said: "Laughter is a new craze in England. It is within the last twenty years that the general public in this country has learned to laugh and to understand that laughter is not disreputable. The middle class, i. e., the self-supporting and commercial class, has made a lot of new discoveries when he discovered it night-time, and it has discovered laughter—or some laughter. There are wise and experienced politicians who firmly believe even today that Gladstone would never have risen to the eminence he attained had he ever made a joke. The late King Edward when Prince of Wales, started the theory that it was not sinful to smile. The dinner table of the Upper Ten of Upper Tooting used to be more solemn than a funeral. Now it is demoralizing the country. Prior to the Revelation laughter was a new idea in France. George Robey, the "Prime Minister of Mirth," is responsible for a great deal of the modern tendency to frivolity. The expansive smile belongs to the stage. The Victorian sombreness is passing away."

UNCLE SAM AIDS MAROONED AMERICANS.

Washington.—The United States Government has extended a helping hand to the thousands of Americans who are stranded abroad without means of cashing their cheques owing to the financial stringency produced by the foreign war. Besides forwarding hundreds of telegrams to Americans, orders were sent by the State Department to all consulates and legations to use every influence at their disposal.

LET THE EAGLES SCREAM

Philadelphia, August 1.—Thirty million dollars, in double eagle gold coins, were shipped by parcel post to day from the Philadelphia mint to the sub-treasury at New York, making a total of $50,000,000 forwarded since Thursday. It is said $20,000,000 more will be sent on Monday.

DISCONTENT IS DROWNED IN THE WAR

BORAH EXPLAINS DEEP AND UNDERLYING CAUSES FOR FRIGHTFUL CONFLICT HATCHED BY RULERS

Washington.—(Dispatch Commercial Tribune).—Public men in Washington are amazed by European's developments which are generally regarded as the beginning of a long and bloody struggle that is likely to engulf all of Europe in the greatest war in the history of the world.

Senator Borah of Idaho, one of the strong men of the upper branch of Congress, who is considered a very promising possibility in connection with the next Republican Presidential nomination made the following statements: "There are deep and underlying causes for this fearful war. For a quarter of a century the masses in all of the countries of Europe have been seething with the spirit of democracy—democracy shot through and through with Socialism and anarchism. "The great body of people have been a sea of discontent. The governments have been uneasy as this condition grew in strength and widened day by day. "War is a sure cure for a time for that condition. When eagles are flying and the banners of war are about the people are diverted from internal affairs to the affair with the enemy. This phase of the situation should not be overlooked in trying to solve the inexcusable crime of these crowned heads of Europe so willing over so apparently trivial matters to bring on this fearful situation.

Commenting on the beginning of war in Europe Senator Kern, the Democratic leader of the Senate, said: "I had not thought until today that it was possible that hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of citizens of Europe would permit a war in which they have no personal interest and which apparently has very little cause at best. Socialism is very strong in these countries and it seems to me the crowning heads who are precipitating this war are taking long chances on a possible general overthrow of dynasties and a division of property when the break up comes."

It is apparent no steps will be overlooked to turn the war into political account.

There are several ways in which it is believed the war will end to the saying that "it is unwise to swap horses in the middle of a stream." will be used for all it is worth to bolster up the party that holds the reins of government.

It will be argued that President Wilson knows all the bearings of international relations, and that he is entitled to be given a free hand with a sympathetic Congress.

Another political angle will be to stress on President Wilson's policy of "watchful waiting" as differentiated from the impulsiveness which is throwing Europe into war and it will be contended that what America wants is a President who can keep the United States out of war as Wilson has in reference to Mexico.

Last, but not least, the Democratic statesmen are expecting that the general war involving practically all of Europe will give the United States the monopoly of world's trade, and will create an era of boonspires for all American products such as this country never has seen.

SOUTHERN COTTON CROP

May Be Tied Up Because of War—Would Almost Ruin the South.

Washington, D. C.—Senators from cotton-growing States of the South exhibit the keenest anxiety over the possible restriction of American export trade as a result of a general European war.

The South has thirteen million bales of raw cotton to sell. Half of it would normally go abroad. The largest customers are England, Germany and Austria.

The vessels in which the crop is carried each year almost universally sail under foreign colors. Under war conditions these vessels will be withdrawn from the carrying trade or will carry it under conditions of the utmost risk. The South will have a supply of cotton and nothing in which to move it.

If for any reason the South were to be prevented from selling a third of its crop the price of the entire crop would be utterly demoralized. This would result in a complete demoralization of all business immediately related to cotton growing in the South.

The better grade of Kentucky petroleum has suffered another decline and is now quoted at $1 a barrel, compared with $1.36 at the beginning of the year.

Chickens are beginning to die of some peculiar disease that has made its appearance among the fowls in this vicinity, says the Mt. Olive Tribune.

Moreover, we doubt if any man has a right to wear whisker and be giddy at the same time.

The flight from Paris has become almost a panic. One of the Americans who arrived from the French capital said the train which left Paris at 9 o'clock last night was jammed with Americans. Many of them went to the station as early as 3 o'clock in the afternoon and stood for hours waiting for a chance to get aboard.
