FLOATING SCHOOL ON RIVER IS ADVOCATED

Mrs. Faulconer Would Have It For Children Unable to Attend Others.

(Lexington Herald.) A floating school on the Kentucky river for the benefit of the children living along its banks, who are unable to climb the cliffs to the schools in the "settlements," was proposed by Mrs. Nannie G. Faulconer, county superintendent of schools, at a joint meeting Monday morning of the county board of education of Fayette and Jessamine Counties. The meeting was held in Mrs. Faulconer's offices at the courthouse and was attended by the four boards from both counties. Prof. Charles Sandusky of Nicholasville, county superintendent of Jessamine, acted as spokesman for her.

Mrs. Faulconer said that she had tried for years to think out a plan whereby the schools could reach the children of the Kentucky river cliffs, or by which the children might reach the schools. She finally decided, she said, that the children could never reach the schools until flying machines came into more general use, and for this reason the schools would have to be taken to the children.

Mrs. Faulconer suggested that each of the counties of Fayette, Jessamine, Mercer, and Boyle should set aside $500 each year for the floating school, which would be established on a large boat and ply up and down the river each day collecting pupils and then returning them to their homes each night. The school should be in session, she said, 3 to 6 months each year.

Mrs. Faulconer's suggestion was discussed by those present at the meeting and the hope that it will be crystallized into a reality was expressed by all at the meeting.

The Fayette and Jessamine County boards made an arrangement at the meeting yesterday morning by which the schools in the districts of South Elkhorn, Louest Grove, and East Hickman, in this county and Providence and Mt. Pleasant in Jessamine may exchange pupils when necessary for the term of three months, as Jessamine county schools are in session only six months and those in Fayette nine months. At the end of six months the Jessamine County Board is to pay for the extra three months in the schools of this county.

TREES ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS.

In Missouri it is proposed to have a State Highway, extending from one side of the Commonwealth to the other and lined with peach trees.

The Missouri Legislature will be asked to pass a law making these trees the property of the State and providing for their protection. The trees will be given scientific attention, the fruit to be harvested and sold for the benefit of the road fund.

From an aesthetic standpoint the plan is commendable. Peach trees by the roadside would be ornamental. Whether they could be made useful in the sense of increasing the road funds is a matter of doubt. The peach is a fragile tree and to maintain and protect a State peach orchard scattered along hundreds of miles of public highway would be an expensive undertaking. The cost of protection probably would far exceed any income that might be received from the fruit crop.

But the idea of planting trees on the public roads is a good one. There are many varieties that would be better for the purpose than the peach tree. Some years ago there was talk of having a catalpa-lined highway in Kentucky. The plan never materialized, but that was no fault of the plan, which was altogether admirable.—Courier-Journal.

CELEMENCEAU TAKES ISSUE WITH CARNEGIE.

Bordeaux.—Georges Clemenceau, former French Premier, replies in the Homme d'Libre to a statement credited to Andrew Carnegie, to the effect that Europe owes forty years of peace to Emperor William.

"Let the worthy Scottish millionaire say what he pleases," says M. Clemenceau, "the forty years of peace was procured by incessant quarrels at five threats of war, and crowned by a war, a fact for which I defy Mr. Carnegie to find any cause other than a desire to end French independence in order afterwards to finish Great Britain and Russia. At the very moment when Mr. Carnegie was speaking—gently opposing the protests of Americans—the King of England had written the King of Belgium a vehement letter denouncing the crime of a German aviator who dropped a bomb on the royal residence at Antwerp, where the Queen and her children were staying."

"Does Mr. Carnegie believe that William II's explanations can change at tested facts?"

PUBLICITY AND LOCAL OPTION.

(Lexington Leader.) The average business man will find encouragement in the wide use of printers' ink by the managers of the opposing forces in the local option fight in Fayette county. It is apparent now that before the day of election these campaign managers will expend from $2,500 to $5,500 in newspaper advertising, and some of the managers are of the opinion that they will in this way get more for their money than they could through any other method of reaching and influencing the voter.

A great deal of bill-board publicity is being used, also, but this is of doubtful value. In the larger cities most of the big theatres are dispensing with the bill-boards and putting all their advertising in the daily papers. The average pedestrian or man in a vehicle pays very little attention any more to posters. What he sees in his newspaper impresses him as having more weight, and he sees it usually at a time when he has the leisure to peruse it.

REPUBLICANS MAKE TREMENDOUS GAINS IN MAINE.

Portland, Maine.—The early returns indicated the election of Mayor Curtis, the Democratic candidate for Governor, but after the results from the first 100 towns had been received the drift shifted from Curtis to Governor Haines, the Republican candidate, and at 11 o'clock, with returns received from 390 towns out of over 500, the indications were that Haines would have a plurality of 4,000 votes.

PUBLIC SALE

If not sold privately previously, and considering the serious condition of my eyes, I will offer at Public Sale to the highest bidder on October 14th, 1914, at two o'clock, p. m., at the courthouse in Maysville, Ky., my farm, containing one hundred and fifty-two acres, two roads and twenty-six poles. It is situated on the Mincrya and Dover turnpike, about one and a half miles from Fern Leaf. This farm has on it a residence of nine rooms and another house of five rooms, and the necessary out-buildings; also a splendid tobacco barn, eighty-four feet long, a stripping house and large ice house. It is well fenced, with woven wire fence, and well watered. Is all in grass but about fifteen acres, which is in corn. I have no hesitancy in stating that this is one of the best farms in that location of the county, all of the land is walnut, sugar tree and ash, grows a very fine quality of tobacco. There is also an abundance of locust timber and sufficient fruit. It is convenient to one of the best schools in the country, with four school wagons passing to convey the children to school; also several churches near, and is in a splendid neighborhood, which is very essential in seeking a location. The farm will be offered as a whole and in two tracts, as it can be divided and make two nice-size farms with a house on each. Possession given November 3rd, 1914, with the exception of the corn land, which will be when the corn is cribbed. Terms of sale, one-half of the purchase money November 3rd, 1914, and the other one-half in one and two years, with a lien retained on the land and six per cent. interest per annum on deferred payments. If the purchaser prefers they can pay all cash. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids if not satisfactory.

Any one wishing to buy will please call at my room, 221 W. Second street, Maysville, Ky.

Pilot Peter Holloway, as soon as the boat hit the obstruction, ran the craft into shoal water. The fears of the passengers were soon allayed and they were taken off in small boats and provided with transportation by rail to Charleston. The boat is valued at $24,000 and is insured. At the Greene Line office in Cincinnati it was stated the boat will again be afloat Tuesday.
