MAYSVILLE WOMEN

Arouse Interest At Mt. Olivet in Kentucky Forward Movement—Organization Effected.

On Thursday, November 19, six members of the Kentucky Forward Educational Movement, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Zeigler, Mrs. Foster Barbour, Mrs. T. M. Russell, Mrs. Eugene Metz and Miss Grace Bierbower, motored to Mt. Olivet, where a meeting had been arranged to form an organization in Robertson county. The ladies found a large and enthusiastic audience awaiting them in the Christian church, composed of many of Mt. Olivet's representative citizens and the pupils of the school, who were dismissed for the purpose of attending the meeting. Mrs. Zeigler, in a few well chosen words, introduced Mrs. Ross, geographical vice president of the organization in Mason county, who was the speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Ross's address consisted of a resume of the monthlight school work as conducted in Rowan county, the value of such work to the state and the community, and the need for co-operation and aid in every form to the people who are undertaking the work.

The speaker brought out the fact that through Robertson county has only 278 illiterates (25 being colored) against Mason county's 1,140. It is just as necessary that Robertson county work with might and main so that in 1920, they should not have a single man or woman who could not read and write.

Mrs. Ross's eloquent plea was heard with great interest and attention by her audience, and at the close of her talk, an organization was formed, with the following officers:

Mrs. W. J. Osborne, president; Mrs. Alton Wells, vice president; Mrs. H. G. Claypool, secretary, and Mrs. Hargis Day, treasurer.

These ladies are ready to carry on the work with great enthusiasm and hope to have a splendid list of supporters and much financial aid to send to the state president, Mrs. Adams, after the campaign in December.

ANOTHER APPEAL

For Assistance For the County Health Department—Matter Is Urgent.

During the present campaign for funds to support the Mason County Public Health League, many points of interest have been brought out and it seems an opportune time to set the public right on these things.

To start with, there are few people who know the scope of this organization's activities. Every one who does know it appreciates it and are helping, but the work is broadening faster than the public realizes. Self-interest probably actuates people in general to make more sacrifices than any motive known to men and while it is uncommon to appeal to man's selfishness in an endeavor to accomplish a great good, the fact can not be lost sight of that man is a selfish being and we are prepared to prove that it is to the self-interest of every citizen of this county that the Mason County Public Health League should continue to exist and grow.

In endeavoring to prove this, we will state one mistaken idea that has come to our notice, and that is that since the visiting nurse has been in our midst we have had more contagious disease than formerly.

The facts are that more placards showing the existence of these diseases have been seen by the public for the reason that every case of contagious disease that could be found and which came under the existing quarantine regulations has been quarantined, whether that house was a hut or a mansion. Is not this better than to have these diseases exist unknown except to the attending physicians where members of the family and friends come and go at will and spread the disease broadcast? Do intelligent people prefer having diseases exist in their midst without an opportunity to protect themselves and their families? If so, let's dispense with the Board of Health and repeal all quarantine regulations.

The public would not permit even one serious thought of such a thing, yet they do not stop to think that disease thrives and spreads easily when concealed. Instead of covering up these cases, let the light be thrown on and demand that every means of prevention be used against contagion. The Health League makes no regulations for the public, but stands ready at all times to assist in teaching the people to observe the regulations laid down by the state and city Boards of Health for the protection of her citizens.

In passing this phase of the question we also want to explain that the visiting nurse uses every precaution when called to a contagious case. First, she always wears a wash dress; second, before entering she dons a gown and cap which covers her entirely. She never sits down in the rooms, is very careful not to touch anything that is not necessary, and upon leaving, the gown is removed, disinfected and put in a case which was left outside; hands are washed in a disinfectant and hair and dress sprayed. The fact that only thoroughly trained nurses, who have been taught the methods of disinfection, are employed should ease the mind of the public in regard to contagion being spread by her.

The league was organized primarily to assist nation-wide fight on tuberculosis and every sufferer from this dread disease that can be reached is instructed in the proper care of self so that other members of the family may be a cure may be effected if possible and that other members of the family may be spared a like experience with the white plague.

There exists in this county one colored school that has sent to the grave three teachers in succession, victims of tuberculosis. Until this League came into existence no notice was taken of this and every one of these teachers was probably the source of contagion to a number of pupils and these, in turn, spread the disease to others, all of whom in various ways mingled with the public, white and black, rich and poor. It must be understood that this disease is not a poor man's burden only.

The rich man can carry home on his shoes the germs he gathers from the sidewalks, public or private spitting places, just as easily as the poor man. People who acquire the careless, filthy spitting habit when they are well are a menace to the public should they get sick.

This battle along the avenue of health is every man's fight. Let every man do his part and it will not be a burden to anyone.
