NEW FRUIT JUICES FOR THE HOME.

Washington, D. C.—That the juice of currants, blackberries, black raspberries, sour cherries and peaches may be prepared and kept as successfully as grape juice and by the same methods has now been demonstrated in the course of a series of investigations which the United States Department of Agriculture is conducting into the whole complicated question of fruit juices. The juices of the fruits mentioned, it has been found, retain their characteristic color and flavor after being sterilized and stored away and can, therefore, be made available for use throughout the year in households and at soda fountains, etc. In this way it is thought much fruit that has hitherto been allowed to go to waste may be utilized.

For reasons, however, which are not as yet very thoroughly understood, the various fruits differ greatly in the effects of sterilization upon them. Thus, strawberry juice and red raspberry juice lose their distinctive colors and flavors very readily and, therefore, can not be put up on a commercial scale and marketed as grape juice is. Lemon and orange juices also undergo peculiar changes in flavor after sterilization and no satisfactory method of overcoming this obstacle has yet been developed. Lemon juice is the more promising but this, too, can not yet be manufactured commercially with success. With certain precautions on the other hand, pineapples can be made to yield a sterilized juice of a very attractive flavor which should have distinct commercial possibilities. The juice, however, should be kept in cold storage at from 32 to 35 degrees Fahrenheit after sterilization, and most of the suspended material should be removed by means of a milk separator or by filtration. Moreover, where atmospheric oxygen is not excluded in the process of bottling, the juice darkens gradually.

These studies have already resulted in the discovery of a method of producing concentrated apple juice by freezing, which is not only easier to ship than ordinary cider, but which will keep much better. In the concentrated juice however, the presence of sugar and acid retards the growth of micro-organisms and fermentation is very slow. Similar methods are now being tried out with other fruits. In the case of grape-fruit juice, for example, concentration to a sirup by freezing is easily accomplished and it appears at the present time that there are great commercial possibilities in this method, although further experimentation is considered necessary. In the case of fruits whose juices do not suffer any change of flavor or color in the process of sterilization, this method is not likely to prove necessary.

WANT BACKING FOR THE NAILERS.

Fronton, June 28.—President Carr arrived on the midnight train to take up the local baseball situation with the Fronton business men. It is understood that the team will proceed if encouragement is given by the business men, which it is felt will be forthcoming. In case it is not the team will be moved to Huntington, according to the present plans. However, little difficulty is anticipated in securing the backing of the local merchants.

BALTIC, BLACK SEA CANAL.

By the accepted Baltic and Black Sea canal scheme it is proposed to canalize the Dnieper and the Dvina, the former flowing into the Black Sea at Kherson and the latter into the Gulf of Lavonia and the Baltic Sea at Riga. The sources of the two rivers at the divide would be connected by artificial waterways. The length of the canal would be 1,540 miles.

PARKS' HILL OPENING JULY 4.

Parks' Hill opens for the season on July 4, with the Fife Union Revival Meeting, which lasts for fifteen days.

It is fitting that the glorious Fourth should be thus observed, instead of in the manner all too common, and the people should make it a point to go to this beautiful place, on the Fourth of July, and by their presence, encourage the good work to be done there.

Rev. Roger H. Fife, the evangelist, is a fine preacher, and stands high among the ministerial fraternity, having been elected secretary of the National Evangelists' Association. He will be assisted in the meeting by four other musicians, and he is a fine singer, himself.

The Parks' Hill management is doing an unusual thing this year, in making no charge for admission to the grounds for the first week. They want to get the people to come to Parks' Hill, and we believe making a free gate there is an entirely new thing, for the grounds have always been supported by gate fees. They go further than this, however, and state that it is not their intention to charge over 10 cents, at any time, unless it be when they have a very rare and costly attraction.

They not only furnish their guests with free Blue Lick water, but have reduced the charges for single meals and hitching and feeding horses, in proportion. Side curtains have been provided for the large auditorium, and during the morning or afternoon hours when there is no preaching or other exercises, a picture show is put on, by simply dropping the curtains, thus affording a pleasant and instructive hour of entertainment and amusement.

EXPOSITION GRAND PRIZE IS AWARDED TO PENNSYLVANIA SYSTEM.

The highest honor that can be conferred upon a railroad exhibitor has just been given to the Pennsylvania system by the international jury of awards at San Francisco.

Visitors to the Panama-Pacific Exposition have greatly admired this exhibit, the central figure of which is a motion picture theater made of two passenger cars joined together. Here beautiful and interesting scenes along the lines are shown daily. Other features of the exhibit are models of passenger stations in various cities, a relief map of New York city, etc.

Before the award was made the jury required the submission of certain official information be used as a guide in arriving at a decision. This information discloses the following facts: In normal times nearly 250,000 people are on the Pennsylvania's payrolls. Upward of a million people are directly or indirectly supported by it. The Pennsylvania, which originated the safety first movement among railroads, was the first to adopt all-steel equipment for its trains and now owns nearly 3,000 all-steel passenger cars, or one-third of the entire number in the country.

The system's annual freight tonnage is equivalent to one ton carried 36,900,000,000 miles; passenger business, one person carried 4,500,000,000 miles; daily receipts, one million dollars; amount paid daily for wages, $500,000; amount paid daily for supplies, $250,000.

The Pennsylvania has 11,800 miles of line, 26,440 miles of track, 7,500 locomotives, 275,000 freight cars, 6,800 passenger cars. Thirteen states and the District of Columbia are traversed. Transportation is provided by this system for more than half of the population of the United States, and its stations include eight of the ten largest cities in the country.

"LEMBERG."

Washington, D. C.—Describing Lemberg, for whose possession the mightiest trial of strength of the war has been developing through the last few weeks, a statement just issued by the National Geographic Society says:

"Lemberg, under Austrian overlordship, has been a stronghold of Polish national consciousness. Almost unhampered by the imperial authorities, it has administered, as Galicia's capital, the last remnant of Polish Poland. When the Galician Diet was formed in 1861, Lemberg had fallen from her brave position of the days of the Polish kingdom. The city was poverty-stricken, unimproved, undrained and hence, unhealthy, with no schools, and, generally, upon the verge of ruin. Today, aroused by the Constitution of 1866, after fifty years of hopeful effort, the tide of invasion swept over a beautiful, intensely modern city, full of fine, substantial buildings, of lovely, well-planned parks, of up-to-date, richly stocked shops, of excellent schools and colleges, of great monuments and expensive public works. The destructive tide of battle rolled over careful work of two generations, and is now driving back again upon it.

"Before the outbreak of the present war, there was no city of Lemberg's size in Europe, upon whose streets one might find more alert, vivacious life. The city had enjoyed a typically American 'boom' for more than a generation, and its people had more of an air of buoyant confidence than any other Polish community. Industries were growing, and the commission and transit trade of the city was attaining the importance of this trade under the old kingdom. From a small, bitterly poor community, Lemberg had progressed to the position of a wealthy metropolis of 200,000 inhabitants.

The Galician capital lies in a sharply cut valley, embroidered on every hand by well-wooded hills. The parks and promenades of the city reach out into the hills, where some of the finest walks and garden spots have been laid out. Beyond the suburbs of the capital, little Polish villages straggle over the country roads, and, before great armies passed this way, flocks of thousands upon thousands of ducks and geese, for which Galicia enjoyed no small measure of fame, met the traveler's eyes everywhere. The insignificant little stream, Peltow, an affluent of the Bug, flows by the city.

Lemberg lies 468 miles north-east of Vienna by rail, and 212 miles east-southeast of Cracow. It is about fifty miles from the Russian border. The capital is a main station upon trunklines to Odessa, Czernowitz, in Germany, and Budapest, in Hungary. It is the fourth city in size in the Austrian empire, coming after Vienna, Prague and Trieste. Commercially and industrially, as well as politically and educationally, it is the most important city in Galicia. Its factories turn out machinery, iron wares, matches, stearin, candles and naphtha.

Besides being the seat of the chief economic organizations and of the government of the crownland, Lemberg is an important religious center, the seat of three archbishops, of the Roman Catholic, the United Greek and the United Armenian churches. The University of Lemberg was founded by Emperor Joseph II in 1748, and, since 1871, its language of instruction has been Polish. There are a number of important museum collections in the city, among them collections all important to the student of the early life and customs of the country."

TO PREVENT HORSES FROM GETTING SORE SHOULDERS.

Make an ointment of stove polish and lard and put it on the shoulders and collars. Put it on often enough to keep the shoulders and collars smooth and they will not rub the shoulders sore. To cure a lump on horses' shoulders, take a pen knife or the small blade of a common pocket knife and while holding the lump with the forefinger of one hand, work the point of the knife down in the center of the lump until the matter runs out. Clean the wound out thoroughly with strong soap water and work turpentine down well into the wound. One application is generally sufficient and the horse will get well while at work.

HANDY DOOR FASTENER

To prevent doors from swinging back and forth, staple a ring into the door cleat far enough from the end of the cleat so that it does not interfere with the closing of the door. Push the door back and fasten with a trap, with a snap in it, to the building. Have the strap eight or ten inches long and slack enough so that the door can be fastened. This will be found a convenient device for all doors or windows that are on hinges and are to be left open.

TWO COUNTIES WITHOUT RAILROADS.

From the Potomac river to the Maine-Canadian border there are only two counties of all the states which can not boast of a single mile of railroad. These are Fulton county, in southern Pennsylvania, and Pendleton county, in West Virginia. Fulton county, however, is progressing; its county seat, McCannellsburg, is going to have a street car line.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and headache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSING, Box 8, Ailyn, Wash.

The new Egyptian flag consists of three white crescents with their backs to the staff, each with a five-pointed white star between the horns on a red field. This flag was the personal standard of the khedive, and now takes the place of the former national flag, which was distinguished from the Turkish by having a star of five instead of six points.
