PRESERVATIVES DANGEROUS

HOUSEWIVES WARNED THAT USE OF PRESERVING POWDERS ARE HARMFUL AND USELESS.

Washington, August 24.—Information has come to the Department that the canning season has brought the usual demand on the part of housewives for salicylic acid and boric acid. These preparations are sometimes sold in the form of powder under various trade names and are recommended by the promoters for use in preserving canned goods in home canning. In the directions for use the housewife is told to fill the jar with the fruit or vegetables, cover with water and add a teaspoonful of the preserving powder. While it is true that these compounds may retard the decay of the fruit or vegetable, it is pointed out by the experts of the Department that their use may be attended by serious disturbances of health. Salicylic acid is well known as a poisonous substance, and one of the evils which may accompany its use is derangement of the digestion. It is therefore plain that its extensive use in food may lead to disturbance of digestion and health.

The Federal Foods and Drugs Act prohibits the use of harmful preservatives in foods that enter interstate commerce. The food law of nearly every state in the Union forbids the sale within the state of foods that have been preserved with harmful substances. Neither the Federal or state food laws apply to foods that are canned in the home and consumed there. It would seem, however, that the housewife would not knowingly use, in the foods she provides for her family, substances that she could not use in foods for sale without violating the law, because these substances are injurious to health.

Artificial Preservatives Not Necessary

Fruits and vegetables can be kept indefinitely if they are sterilized by heat and properly sealed, and there is no excuse, in the opinion of the experts of the Department, for running any risk by using the preserving powders, which may be injurious to health. The use of such powders in addition to the possible injury to health encourages uncleanly or careless work in canning. Reliance is placed in the efficiency of the preserving compound instead of upon cleanliness and heat.

The Department has issued bulletins that give specific directions for the preserving and canning of fruits and vegetables without the use of preserving powders or canning compounds. These bulletins may be obtained without cost from the Department of Agriculture. Application should be made for Farmers' Bulletin No. 293, on Canned Fruit, Preserves and Jellies, and No. 621 on Canning Tomatoes at Home and in Club Work. Also forms N. R. 22, N. R. 23, N. R. 24, N. R. 34 and N. R. 37 of the Office of Extension Work, North and West, States Relations Service.

WHAT DID IT?

Just what started the wheels of the Riverside plant whirling again? Not the Democratic policies. Just what silenced the whirring of those wheels for the past nineteen months? Why, the destructive economic policies of the Democratic party expressed in the Underwood tariff bill. No sane man can believe that the same influences that operated to send depression and stagnation abroad in the land have worked to dispel unemployment, languishing industry and distracting business conditions, yet some Democratic papers wilfully and misleadingly affirm it. It is a most preposterous proposition, but quite characteristic of the deformed Democracy.

For nineteen long months the cold furnaces and smokeless stacks of the Denwood plant have testified to the ruthless destructiveness of the Democratic tariff measure. Its continued idleness multiplied woe and distress; many of its employees mortgaged their homes to provide the necessities of life for their starving families. Others, in despair, set their faces towards other fields of employment. Now that the plant has resumed we are told that we must forget these things and honor the Democratic party for the prosperity that is at hand, when that party had no more to do with its rival than it has to do with the rising and setting of the sun.

It was one of the happier consequences of the European war that intervened to suspend the functional destructiveness of the Democratic free trade measure that started the Riverside plant by providing protection which had been removed by the un-American Democracy.—Wheeling Intelligencer.

500 CHILDREN TO WAIT ON YOU

Much That You Wear and Eat Passes Through Their Hands.

EXHIBIT VISITOR IS AMAZED.

"Why should I be interested in the working child?" asked a self-complacent lady who called at the child labor exhibit in San Francisco the other day.

"Because it touches you at so many points," replied the National Child Labor Committee's exhibit director, Lewis W. Hine. "To begin with, the flowers on your hat were undoubtedly made in a New York tenement, no matter what you paid for them. I have found four-year-old children working on such flowers."

"The real imported Irish potato lace you have on your collar was probably made by Italians on the east side of

New York. Your gloves and the buttons on your dress probably passed through the hands of children. The scalloped edge around your underwear was made by children in New England village homes, and your stockings represent the labor of children from eight years of age up.

"The cotton that goes into the cloth you use may have been picked by children of five or six and was handled by innumerable children in the course of manufacture. A spool of cotton thread represents the work of from five to twenty-five children."

"As you pass on to the market to buy your food a small boy waits on you. He represents not only your local child labor problem, but indirectly the problem of the little girl who picked your cranberries and your strawberries. Even the baskets that the berries come in represent the work of children. The oysters that you have likely dredged by boys from eight to ten up to young manhood. Some were shucked by little ones of seven or eight. The sardines you eat may have been imported or they may have come from the coast of Maine, where children do much of the cutting and canning. Canned peas represent child labor in sorting, picking and canning."

"The coal you burn at home and the glassware you use probably passed through the hands of children. The drugs delivered to you are often brought by a boy who may have come to your house direct from the red light district. The little newsboy, the 'shines' boys, the boy who sets up pins in the bowling alley and the young usher at the movie all need your protection."

"The lady gasped and begged Mr. Hine to stop. "Well," he said, "if I went into it EXHAUSTIVELY I think I could find that about 500 children had contributed to your comfort in one way or another."

AUSTRALIAN AND NEW ZEALAND TROOPS IN FORE OF FIGHTING.

London, August 27.—An official report issued regarding recent operations in the Gallipoli peninsula set at rest rumors which have been in circulation for several days crediting the British troops with having either cut off or outflanked the Turkish forces opposed to them. The report states that while the ground gained is of great value the true objectives have not been reached.

In the first attacks early in the month the Australians and New Zealanders reached the summits of Sari Bahr and Chanak Bahr, commanding positions on the west coast of the peninsula, but through the failure of the new landing party at Sulva Bay to make the progress expected, the troops from the dominions were compelled to fall back. Another attack was made last Saturday, but on this occasion, having lost the advantage of surprise, the British could not reach the summit and were compelled to retire again.

The report admits heavy British losses, but adds that those of the Turks must have been heavier.

Although the British hold a front of twelve miles along the west side of the peninsula and at some points have penetrated a considerable distance into the interior. The Turks are making a very stubborn defense of their positions, but the allies have confidence that with the strong forces at their command and the assistance of the fleet the Dardanelles will be forced before the arrival of the unfavorable weather, which is due toward the end of September.
