PERFECT SERVICE.

Under the co-operation plan which the Home, Independent, Central, Farmers and Planters warehouses are being operated, this season, the Farmers of this section are certainly being benefited. The quickness with which they unloaded wagons at those houses during Monday's and Tuesday's rush, proves that no better arrangement could be made than prevails here. Over three hundred wagons were unloaded, in the above mentioned houses first two days of this week. Those arriving by noon were all unloaded and the owners on their way home before dark, and those arriving early were sold upon day of their arrival. Not a single wagon remained outside. This is a great record and one that could not be made under old conditions. These houses are not only taking care of every person that comes to their doors promptly, but they are also getting the top of the market for every crop they sell. They have sold the highest priced basket, highest priced crop and their general average exceeds the average of the market. Their houses will all remain open, night and day, as long as there is tobacco to be sold and if you go there you will certainly be able to get in. The way they are handling tobacco this year is surely saving the Farmers time and making them money. We congratulate the Home, Independent, Central, Farmers and Planters warehouse companies upon their present arrangement because we know it was made for and is working to the benefit of our farmers.

STATE-WIDE DEFEATED

State Senate Voted 20 To 14 Against the Prohibition Amendment of Senator Frost.

The state wide prohibition amendment bill was defeated in the Kentucky Senate Tuesday afternoon by a vote of 20 to 14. When a poll of the Senate was made the dyes discovered that a mistake had been made in forcing the bill to a vote at this time. Senator Frost, author of the bill, moved that it be made a special order for Wednesday, February 2. Senator Combs moved as an amendment that the bill be immediately put upon its passage. The Combs motion passed by a vote of 18 to 15. A bitter fight with Senator Frost taking the lead for the dyes then ensued. Speeches on both sides were long and took up most of the afternoon. A vote was then taken on the state wide bill and it was defeated.

Those voting for the bill were Senators Frost, Glenn, Hiles, Montgomery, Peak, Porter, Salmon, Scott and Williams. Democrats; Antle, Evans, Huntsman, Sanders and Taylor, Republicans.

Those voting against the measure were Senators Arnett, Booles, Clay, Combs, Helm, Hildreth, Huffaker, Knight, Littrell, Moore, Overstreet, Robertson, Speer, Stricklett, Thompson and Trigg, Democrats; Brock, Leach, Lewis and Rayburn, Republicans.

Those not voting were Senator Ford, who is ill at his home in Georgetown, and Senators Rogers and Zimmerman. All are Democrats.

The bill provided for a vote by the people in 1917 to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in Kentucky after June, 1919, and the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in Kentucky for sale after 1921.

That the House will devote a day to State wide, notwithstanding the Senate action, is considered certain. If the committee refuses to report it will take two-thirds of the House to call the amendment out, and there are a lot of the representatives who want to get on record, especially since they feel safe about the Senate position. In the Senate party lines were obliterated. Senators Rogers, Ford and Zimmerman, Democrats, were absent. Antle, Evans, Huntsman, Sanders and Taylor, Republicans, voted for it; and Brock, Leach, Lewis and Rayburn against it.
