WILSON'S SPEECH

Shocks England and Address Is Given Unfriendly Reception by British Press—Hidden Meaning Is Believed Concealed in Certain Passages.

London, January 23—President Wilson's address to the United States Senate has furnished the British Government and public with a surprise as electrifying as his mediatory note to the belligerents.

Public men interviewed begin with courteous tribute to the President's good intentions, and end by supporting Great Britain's measures.

Possible action by the American Congress on committing the nation to membership in an international peace league is awaited with greatest interest.

The effect of President Wilson's policy on the status of the Monroe Doctrine is discussed with equal interest.

GERMANS DEFEATED

Seven Destroyers of the Kaiser's Torpedo Fleet are Sunk by British Forces Off Coast of Holland—English Vessel Is Sunk in Another Battle.

London, January 23—In an engagement between British light naval forces and German torpedo boat destroyers in the North Sea last night a German destroyer was sunk and the other torpedo craft scattered, it was officially announced tonight.

The sinking of a British torpedo boat destroyer in another engagement with German torpedo boat destroyers in the vicinity of Schouwen Bank last night, with the loss of three officers and forty-four of the crew, also was announced.

The text of the official announcement says: "Last night, while our light forces were patrolling the North Sea not far from the Dutch coast, they met a division of enemy torpedo boat destroyers."

"During last night there was also a short, sharp engagement between enemy torpedo boat destroyers and our own destroyers in the vicinity of Schouwen Bank. During this engagement, one of our torpedo boat destroyers was struck by a torpedo, the explosion killing three officers and forty-four of the crew."

According to a Reuter's dispatch from Ymuiden, it was officially stated that four were killed aboard the V-69, including the commander, Lieutenant Boehm, and the commander of the flotilla, Captain Schultz.

German officers refuse information about the engagement, the scene of action or the strength of the flotilla. According to a Hague report to the Exchange Telegraph Company, two German ships were sunk and three others badly damaged in the North Sea fight.

Eight German Victims

London, January 23—Reports from Ymuiden received by Reuter's Telegraph Company via Amsterdam says that German torpedo boats last night attempted to leave Zeebrugge to avoid the ice which was very thick. Immediately they were attacked by a large British squadron. The action opened at short range, and early in the fight the bridge of the German destroyer V-69 was swept away by a direct hit.

The V-69 fired one torpedo and was then hit by another British shell, which knocked the funnel flat on the deck. Still another shell put a hole in the fore part of the vessel.

The crew of the V-69 numbered about sixty. It would appear from the statements of the men that seven other German vessels were sunk. The V-69 belonged to the home fleet.
