POTATO WEEK

Lyonnaised or au gratin, mashed or creamed or brown.
Fried or baked or stewed or caked, food for king and clown;
In the soup or in the hash, fix it up in pies.
Serve it cold, a salad old, only save the eyes—
Everywhere the spud can go, dish it up in style;
Mr. Hoover bids us eat tubers for a while.

Hail the ukase of his ribs, he who guards the larder—
Hard to eat the spud and beet? Being without is harder;
When the mурphy soared on high, how our mouths would water
At the thought and still we bought, though we hadn't oughter;
Now a punishment is ours—gustatory woes:
For a full and blessed week we must eat potatoes.

CHILDREN WILL NOT BE ADMITTED

Announcement was made this morning that because of the large number of people expected to attend the mass meeting at the Washington Opera House this evening, no children under 12 years of age will be admitted.

BIG GUN BATTLE

Rages Over Scores of Miles—Artillery Roars Crashing Prelude to Great Attack.

In preparation for another heavy infantry attack against the allied lines in Picardy in an attempt to reach Amiens, the German guns of all calibers are roaring in thunderous tones along a front of more than 100 miles from north of Arras to north of Soissons. The entire countryside is said to be rocking from the heavy detonations, but no infantry action has yet developed.

Another development has been an extension of the battle line to the north in the sector from La Bassée canal to south of Armentieres, London reporting the German artillery to have shown great activity on that portion of the front, which is about ten miles north of Lens.

Especially severe has been the German fire around Bucquoy, north of Albert, south of the Somme and between Montdidier and Noyon. Last week the Germans failed in mass attacks to penetrate the British and French defenses north and south of the sector directly east of Amiens, and thus extend the apex of their wedge. The tremendous bombardment now going on undoubtedly is the forerunner of heavier attacks, probably all along the line from Arras to Noyon.

Bucquoy which is south of Arras, is on the northern end of the sector, which the British defended so valiantly last week. The British here and both to the north and south hold strong hill positions, from which their artillery and machine guns command all approaches. The Germans must widen the head of their wedge along the Somme, and it is believed they again will attempt to do it by attacks in the Bucquoy area.

Below Montdidier the German line bends. Here also the French have held the Germans for nearly ten days, despite severe attacks. To extend the battle front on the south the attacking front probably would include the line eastward from Montdidier to Noyon.

Along the Ancre, Somme, Luce and Avre rivers, where the Germans made strong and fruitless attacks during the past ten days, there has been no infantry fighting. As elsewhere, however, the enemy artillery fire has increased greatly.

On the extreme eastern end of the southern leg of the salient, the Germans have been checked somewhat in their advance southward from Chauny. The French still hold a part of the lower forest of Coucy and have retired to prepared positions in that sector, it is announced.

SEDITION MEASURE IN FINAL STAGES IN SENATE, AND MAY PASS BEFORE ADJOURNMENT

Washington, April 9—In an effort to hasten disposal of the Sedition bill, punishing disloyal utterances and those intended to impede the army draft and Liberty Loan, voting on amendments was begun today by the Senate, and Administration leaders hoped to pass the measure before adjournment. Another effort for a final vote today, with limited debate, was made by Senator Overman, of North Carolina, in charge of the legislation but Senator Reed, of Missouri, objected.

By a vote of 33 to 31 the Senate rejected an amendment by Senator France, of Maryland, proposing that nothing in the bill should impair the liberty or right of individuals to publish or speak "what is true, with good motives and for justifiable ends." Senator Overman opposed the amendment, saying it might impair the bill's enforcement.

Enactment of the measure with the least possible delay was urged by Senator Overman who declared that sentiment is "very much aroused because of delay in passing this bill." Just before the unanimous consent agreement was proposed Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, presented petitions signed by citizens of his State, asking that the spy laws be amended so as to protect American soldiers.

An amendment providing that no person who commits any offense under the bill shall be eligible to hold public office and that any other person holding office shall be discharged upon proof of guilt, was introduced by Senator Penrose.

FORMER AUSTRIAN SECRET SERVICE AGENT ARRESTED

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 9—Carl von Haagsmar, former secret agent on the Pacific coast of the Austro-Hungarian embassy at Washington, better known in the West as Chauncey Hallender, expert telegrapher, is held here today for the Department of Justice, having been brought from Prescott, Ariz., by the United States Marshal.

It is alleged Haagsmar attempted to reach Mexico, where it is said he was making arrangements to establish a radio station through which to furnish German secret agents with information of military movements in the United States.

GOAL FOR THIRD LOAN NOW BOOSTED TO $5,000,000,000

Washington, April 9—Secretary McAdoo in a statement wired from Raleigh, N. C., and given out by the Treasury here today, called on the country to furnish 20,000,000 subscribers to the new Liberty Loan. That number of purchasers, he said, would mean a loan of $4,000,000,000 or $5,000,000,000 instead of the $3,000,000,000 announced as a goal.

WHO'S IT, MR. FARMER!

Let it be granted without argument that to the average farmer a bond is about as great a curiosity as an airship. Heretofore he has regarded them both much in the same light; something interesting to look at but well to keep away from. And for the most part he has been able to get about as close to the one as the other.

But conditions are changing rapidly. Grandson is developing an interest in airships, and grandfather is reading up on bonds.

And the one thing that is making both possible is the war.

In 1900 the farm products of America were worth $3,000,000,000. In 1909 the value of all crops was approximately five billions. This year the farm crops were worth ten billions.

During the last fiscal year America exported nearly a billion and a half dollar's worth of farm products. This year that figure will be vastly increased, for the crops were larger, the demand abroad is greater and prices are higher than ever before. And the war is responsible for all three.

The farmer has been inclined to declare that this is not his war. From an economic viewpoint it is very much his war. In fact it's anybody's war more than his, let him point out the man. He's the only fellow who to date has been given a price guarantee for the next year's production of his biggest money maker.

But where would he have been IF GERMANY HAD BEEN PERMITTED TO BAR AMERICA EXPORTS FROM EUROPE?

And freedom of the seas was the straw that broke the camel's back, figuratively speaking.

If it's anybody's duty to buy Liberty Bonds more than the farmer's, who's IT?

LIBERTY LOAN RALLY

Lieutenant de Wierzbicki To Address Mass Meeting at Washington Opera House Tonight at 8:15 O'clock.

The local Liberty Loan campaign will open in earnest in Mason county, this evening, when a mass meeting will be addressed by Lieutenant de Wierzbicki, of the French High Commission.

The French High Commission is composed of Monsieur Andre Tardieu and a corps of French military and civil attaches. Their mission in the United States is not only to co-ordinate the co-operation of America and France in a military sense, but also by public speaking and writings to spread through America a better knowledge of the actual conditions under which the war is being waged on the Western front. Men, such as Lieutenant de Wierzbicki, were selected by the French government as best suited by their training and experience to give the story of this conflict, its causes, developments and probable outcome to the American public.

The Treasury Department has informed the local committee that of all the men being sent out from Washington in this work none will be found more instructive than Maysville's guest this evening. In order that what Lieutenant de Wierzbicki has to say may secure the widest publicity, as an indication of our appreciation of the opportunity of hearing this distinguished foreigner and as a tribute to his position it is expected that there will be a full attendance at the Washington Opera House this evening.
