WHO WANTS TO BE TAX SUPERVISOR?

For some time past members of the City Council with Mayor Thomas M. Russell have been walking the floor of nights worrying over a serious problem—that of selecting three men to act as members of the City Board of Tax Supervisors. At the last regular meeting of Council three were elected, and the next day two refused to serve. This necessitated a special meeting of the City Council last Friday night, at which two gentlemen were elected to fill the vacancies. It has since been ascertained that one of these is not eligible, not being a property holder, which necessitates another meeting of Council to elect a third member. This is one of the most important positions in the city and it should be the patriotic duty of any man who is eligible to serve if he can possibly spare the time from his business or other employment. A large number have been asked to serve, but all have refused, so if you want to be the third member of the board just tell the Mayor and at the special meeting tonight you will be chosen.

A VETERAN EMPLOYEE

Agent W. W. Wilkoff of the C. & O. in this city is wearing on his coat lapel a highly prized button of peculiar design. It is a veteran employe button and is awarded those who have been in continuous service for twenty-five years, thus showing that the possessor of one of these buttons has been a faithful employe, and Mr. Wilkoff certainly deserves his trophy.

YANKS HELD AS RESERVES

Entente is So Confident of Its Ability to Withstand Any Attack of Germans That Decision Is Reached Not to Use Americans Until the Full Weight of Its Forces Can Be Felt.

London, May 12—Big battle signs flared repeatedly during the last twenty-four hours on the Picardy front, with the village of Mailly-Rainevall as the storm center. French and German troops clashed in violent local engagements and the poilus had the best of it throughout. In Flanders the situation is "quiet" except for a steady rumbling of big guns. There was but one local infantry action. North of Kemmel the French improved their positions and bagged a hundred prisoners.

Military interest, while not losing sight of the manifold possibilities that the situation before Amiens. Things are steadily living there and information obtained regarding the enemy's preparations in Picardy has removed the last doubt of the wisdom of Foch's policy in husbanding his reserves behind a vital front rather than "falling for" Ludenoff's feints designed to make him scatter them.

A renewal of the German drive is now looked for hourly.

American Officers Highly Pleased at New-Planned Outline
Washington, May 12—News of the British statement that the Entente is so confident of its ability to hold the Germans that the American army is not to be used until it becomes a complete and self-supporting force was received by army officers here tonight with frank delight, not only because of the supreme confidence indicated by such a decision but on account of the keen desire of American military men to take the field against the enemy as a distinctly American force.

It was evident, however, that officials of the War Department were puzzled by the Ottawa dispatch quoting the British war summary. In the absence of Secretary Baker, who is in the south on an inspection tour, no one would talk officially but the impression was given that no information had reached the department to indicate an intention to change the announced policy of brigading Americans with the British and French armies so as to hasten their arrival at the front to aid in stemming the German assault.

It is no secret that President Wilson and his military advisers consented to this arrangement only to meet a great emergency and to aid in welding the Allied armies on the western front into one effective force. To do it, they had to ask the army for a sacrifice, which under other circumstances would not have been considered.

Under the plan of filling up the British and French gaps with American reserves, the Americans would be equipped and supplied by the armies to which they were attached. If that plan is changed, the Americans now going overseas as fast as ships can be provided to carry them, will march to the front as soon as their training behind the lines is complete as an American army, a new and powerful force to play a part in driving the Germans back across their own borders.
