U. S. Department of Agriculture Makes Statement That Chickens Are Now Having Tuberculosis.

Very serious losses have been incurred in the poultry industry of the United States through tuberculosis, in most cases without the owners knowing what had caused the trouble.

The worst feature of the disease is its insidious manner of attack. It is difficult to combat because there are no visible symptoms until the malady is far advanced.

The United States Department of Agriculture finds the most thorough method of eradication is to slaughter the entire flock when indications point to an extensive outbreak.

GREEK DENIED A NEW TRIAL WHEN COURT REVERSES

Judge Stoll Reverses Position Taken Saturday When Prosecutor Changes His Former Position.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 13. — Louis Kokas, Greek restaurant proprietor, confined in the county jail under sentence of death for a crime against a nine year old girl, must place hopes for a new trial in the decision of the Court of Appeals when the record of his case is submitted to that body.

Face through a peculiar twist of events dashed other hopes yesterday when Circuit Judge R. C. Stoll ruled that a new trial should not be granted, reversing an oral opinion Saturday.

Saturday while George C. Webb, one of the attorneys representing Kokas, was arguing the motion for a new trial, Commonwealth Attorney John R. Allen declared that he believed the court had erred in denying Kokas a new trial and that the Commonwealth would agree to a new trial.

Circuit Judge R. C. Stoll then stated that since the Commonwealth agreed to the motion he would grant the new trial but stated that in his opinion the court has not erred in denying the new trial. The date of the second trial of Kokas was then fixed for October 10.

Despite this agreement the order granting the new trial was never entered. Colonel Allen did not sign the order Saturday and Monday he refused to do so and requested that he be permitted to argue the motion before the court. This was granted by Judge Stoll.

Colonel Allen in a statement to the court declared that he had reviewed the law covering such cases since Saturday and that he had arrived at the opinion that the court had not erred in denying a new trial. He then stated that he was opposed to the granting of a new trial and urged the court to take this position.

Judge Stoll then overruled the motion for a new trial, stating again that in his opinion a new trial should not be granted and that he had taken the position he had Saturday only because of the agreement by the Commonwealth.

PROGRESS IN WILL CASE IS VERY SLOW

Will Contestants Present Evidence In Effort To Show Maker of Will Was Not Mentally Himself.

Every step in the progress of hearing evidence in the Sphar will case is being hard fought by shrewd counsel and little speed is made. The contestants are now presenting their side of the case and witnesses are being questioned very closely in an effort to prove to the twelve jurors that Mr. Andrew C. Sphar, wealthy brick manufacturer, was not mentally himself when he wrote his last will.

Relatives of Mr. Sphar, some of whom were not remembered in the will and others who were given only small amounts, have occupied the witness chair the most of Tuesday. They have told of their interest in Mr. and Mrs. Sphar in their last days and the apparent love of their relative for them.

If the pace set Monday and Tuesday is kept up during the whole of the case, it will require the whole of this week and probably a part of next to hear the large number of witnesses who have already been summoned to appear.

Interest in the case is considerable and in the court room at every session there are many interested listeners.
