

A Song of the Sea.

And a bold brave crew, and an ocean blue,
And a ship that loves the blast,
With a good wind piping merrily In the tall and gallant mast:

Value of the Newspaper.

Somebody—a very sensible somebody—speaks as follows:—"A child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper because he reads of names and things that are very familiar, and he will make a progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year says Mr. Weeks, is worth a quarter's schooling to a child, and every father must consider that substantial information is connected with this advancement. The mother of the family being one of its heads, and having a more immediate charge of children, ought to be intelligent of mind, and pure of language, and always cheerful and circum-

Neal's Saturday Gazette says:—"The difference between the people who read the newspapers and people who do not, is striking. It may almost be seen in their faces, and it is at least made evident in two minutes of conversation. We have indeed been always of opinion, that newspapers of the proper character should be regularly placed in the hands of children, as soon as they are able to read. It will soon be to them a pleasure as well as an advantage, and its beneficial effects in awakening the mind, would be felt throughout life. We might even, if we had leisure just now, prove that to read the journal is an improver of beauty; an actual cosmetic, giving intelligence to the eye, expansion to the brow, and vivacity to the expression. The aspect often indicates the soul, and if the soul be dark and unenlightened, the imprint will be marked on the visage. How often do we see children of the most bright and intellectual look, become gradually heavy, dull and contracted in their expression, as they advance towards maturity.
And why is this? For want of proper mental culture. The best part of their nature perishes for lack of exercise. They do not read the newspaper. People may laugh perhaps; but if this be a jest, there is not a little truth in it.

An exposure of the Managers in the iniquitous projects before the Legislature!

Mr. Van Vorhes, (whig) in his place in the Senate to-day, exposed the way the iniquitous projects of his party are got up.— He said the first he ever heard of striking two townships from Athens county, and putting them on to Morgan county, was in the streets of Columbus last November, on his arrival here! It seems, then, that this dividing of counties is the concoction of scape graces in this city, and men from distant parts of the State are made the puppets, to do the dirty work; while the people, on their farms and at their firesides, are made the foot balls of these despots—turned in and turned out of counties, knowing nothing of the act till after it is over. Who is safe?— Who can trust a moment to constitutional protection, if such infamy is not at once put down? Word has just reached the people of the danger they are in, and hundreds of remonstrances are pouring in, to let them alone —to let them remain where they are; but deaf to the groanings of the people—deaf to justice and honor, the bill is pushed on without notice being given, with the Representatives from the counties of both Athens and Morgan opposing it, who should at least be presumed to know as much about the interests of Athens and Morgan, as men living in the most distant parts of the State! What has our State come to? To what depths of party madness are we sunk? To what revola-tionary measures have the people got to submit, until the ballot boxes give them relief?

We wish the whole people could have heard the indignant voices of the democratic Senators, many of whom sat indignantly silent when the votes were taken, both to-day and yesterday, and bade the Neroses of despotism and villainy, defiance! Seldom did such deep and indignant eloquence ever fall from the lips of any one, as fell from Mr.
Dancy on yesterday and to-day—but Mr.
D.'s feeling warmth was but the commencement of a storm of popular vengeance that will sweep over the State and whirl the corruption from power that now disgraces our otherwise beautiful State.—Ohio Statesman.

THE WAR GOES ON.—The war between the late brothers of the coon and native press goes on bravely! When rogues fall out, honest men get their dues. The Journal shown that at the first trial for Mayor of Boston, the vote stood.

Native. Coon. Dem.
1st trial, Dec. 9, 1844, 4,017 4,457 3,115 Last trial, Feb. 21, '45, 4,972 4,573 none.
It will be seen by this, that the democrats of Boston, being largely in the minority, withdrew from the fight and let the wolf fly, and the whig division of coonery got licked by about 500 votes. It was a bare fight in which honest men cared but a little how it terminated.—Ohio Statesman.

How IT WORKS!—The schemers are already alarmed at their Bank daring, and a writer, half official in the Journal, is preparing the public mind for harder times ahead, and gives the Bank Bill as the reason, but thinks when the right times are over, then a better day will come! Had it not been better to let things alone then, and escape the harder times? The truth is, a rumbling in the distance that all the bank bursting is not over. There was quite a blow a day or so since, about the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Detroit, a whig concern that has been in a desperate case for a long time.— We shall see the bottom some day perhaps.—Ohio Statesman.

Romance in Real Life.

The melancholy fate of young Aldama, who jumped from the roof of a building in New York on Monday, and killed himself has given rise to much inquiry respecting the case. A New York paper furnishes the following facts, as a history of the causes, which are interestingly romantic.

Senor Gonzalvo Aldama was the son of a very wealthy citizen of Havana, whose annual income amounts to five or six hundred thousand dollars. Some time previous to his arrival in New York there had existed a strong attachment between him and a young lady in Havana, whose great beauty, excellence of disposition, and accomplishments, made the most profound impression upon young Aldama, but whose humble circumstances, compared with his princely prospects, proved a great obstacle to their union. His father would not hear of it, took every means to prevent their interviews, and even an interchange of letters between them, and, at last, finding all unavailing, banished the son from the paternal roof, and compelled him to leave the country. Young Aldama, with sorrowful heart and dejected spirits embarked for New York, where he arrived some time since. The bustle, the amusements, the novelty of the scene had a temporary effect upon him for the better. He went to the theatre, frequented the ball room, was constantly in attendance at the Italian Opera, where the delectable strains of Borgese and Porco for a while drew his dejected thoughts from the stern realities of his position. But all these things ceased to have power over him—there was something more powerful weighing down his spirits—and from that he could not emerge. He travelled, attended church regularly, resorted to every means that ingenuity could devise and money procure, but all to no purpose.

The city had lost all its charms for him, its crowded walks were solitude in his eyes —life was a burthen to him, and absent from Havana and from her in whom his hopes were centered, it was no longer endurable.
Could he but get permission from his father to return, he would sacrifice all the enjoyments of the world. For a while this thought engaged him constantly. At first it was to his mind hardly attainable, but by insensible degrees appeared more practicable; it at least was a solitary ray of hope, and he clung to it with devotion, until at last he made an effort to return by writing to his father for his permission. During the interval scarcely any thing else occupied him, and he was observed to be remarkably silent and abstracted. The answer came; it was unfavorable. Not only did his father repeat his objections against all intercourse with the young lady, but told him plainly that until every idea of their intimacy was banished from his mind, his banishment from home, friends, and country, must continue.

This was too much for Gonzalvo Aldama.
He knew the worst. The warm and passionate, and impetuous temperament of the Spaniard could no longer suffer; and he therefore resolved to end his troubles. The remainder of the sad chapter is brief. A leap from the roof of his dwelling, in a fit of temporary insanity, closed his mortal career, and put a period to the pangs caused to him by the mistaken solicitude and culpable harshness of his father in preventing a union that might have made his son a happy man through life.

NATIVES.—Judge McLean has written a letter to the celebrating committee of Boston Natives, who commemorated the birth of Washington at Faneuil Hall. Like many other letters of the Judge, this one is a fine specimen of what the Junior of the Gazette would call "broadside." The Judge will never give up that will-o-the-wisp idea of his, that he will some day be President. First among the Democrats in the pursuit of the phantom—then among the whigs—now among the natives—and after a while some new faction will rise, and the shadow of his dreams will beckon him into that. Probably, however, it is "human nature!"—Cin. Enquirer.

We have not seen the letter referred to above. We are astonished that Judge Mc-Lean should have thrown himself into the hands of such a desperate faction as the natives, the dregs of the whig cauldron. That makes one less whig candidate for the Presidency for 1848!—Ohio Statesman.

CAUTION TO ALL!!
Let all the world take notice, and be careful not to buy the (SUGAR COATED) IMPROVED INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS, unless every box has on it the written signature of the original inventor and patentee, G. BENJAMIN SMITH M. D.

These pleasant Pills possess powers to open all the natural drains of the system—viz: the LUNGS, KIDNEYS, SKIN and BOWELS—hitherto unknown in the practice of medicine; and so complete has been their triumph over all other medicines, that many have been led to suppose they contain some powerful mineral; but upon examination by Drs. CHURCH, RANDOLPH, HENRY-NIXON, and others, this supposition is at once proved groundless.
Sold in New York at 179 GREENWICH STREET, also by RESUTOX & Co., 10 Astor House.
Pamphlets to be had of agents gratis.
N. B. Persons will also notice on the top label an engraved Indian figure, crossed with fine red print.
The genuine may also be bought with safety at Dr. Guion's, corner of Bowers and Grand street, and Mrs. Hays, 199 Fulton street, Brooklyn, and at respectable stores throughout the United States.

The Best and Cheapest Family Periodical in the United States—Edited and Published by Robert Sears, No. 114 Fulton Street, New York City.

Sears' New Pictorial Family Magazine, second Volume, [New Series] for the year 1845, established for the Diffusion of useful knowledge, Embellished with several Hundred Fine Engravings—In monthly parts, of 50 octavo pages. Terms, $2 a year, payable on the delivery of the January and February numbers, or 18 cents per number.
Ten copies sent to one address for one year for Fifteen Dollars.
No subscriptions received for a less period than one year.

In offering such a miscellany as the above periodical to the public, we wish to make it clearly understood what is the object proposed to be accomplished by its publication, and what will be invariably the character of its contents; and by no species of disguise, or form of deception, attempt to make an impression or gain a favor, without possessing a legitimate claim to their enjoyment.
"Sears' Family Magazine" is a periodical whose object is to collect, condense, and systematize the great mass of standard general knowledge, contained in works so numerous and voluminous as to be altogether beyond the reach of mankind in general; and thus collected and prepared, to place it, by its cheapness and also its comprehensiveness, within the acquisition of all.

As a sort of panjium for schools, and a treasury of knowledge for families, the leading object of the Family Magazine is utility.
It is intended that its morals shall be pure, its information authentic, and its arrangements in good taste. And while it is the sincere desire of all who are engaged in its publication, that it may carry the cheerfulness of knowledge and the light of truth wherever it is received, they indulge the hope that the countenance of the community will look favorably upon them, and that its arm of support will be liberally extended in their behalf. ROBERT SEARS, Editor and Publisher, No. 114, Fulton street,
New York.

No letter will be taken from the office, unless post paid.
