THE FOURTH AT STAFFORD.

STAFFORD, July 9, 1884. Ed. Spirit: As we feel it our duty to speak through the columns of your excellent paper and let our many readers know how we celebrated the 4th in Stafford.

At 9 o'clock in the morning the bell of the M. E. Church rang out the summons calling the people together. When assembled the Sunday School scholars, teachers and officers formed in procession, and headed by the Stafford Cornet Band marched to the camp grounds.

The band then returned to town and met the roadfork school at the cross street and escorted them to the camp ground. This school made a fine appearance. When the procession was well arranged, the first head was a wagon containing the choir; the wagon was beautifully decorated and the choir furnished some delightful vocal music; following this came the school in regular order, with banners, flags and notices waving in the air. The happy faces of children and parents made a sight pleasant to remember. The procession was almost one-fourth of a mile in length and some of the wagons were heavily loaded, one we were told had 39 persons in it, mostly small scholars.

About the time all had reached the camp ground a heavy rain came up, and had it not been for the number of tents and cottages on the ground the day's enjoyment would have ended by all getting severely wet, but the shelter afforded kept them dry and as soon as it was over, as best they could the various amusements, the program was carried out. The choir from Vitor Church furnished some excellent music. Many other schools were present and partook in the exercises, but we failed to learn the names of all the schools represented. So many deserving praise for the part they acted in the celebration that our pen cannot do justice to the mention of all, but we will mention a few deserving special praise.

The Declaration of Independence was read by Mr. Shel Tahner, and was admirably well done as to call forth universal praise. Miss Ella King's declamation was well delivered and reflected much credit on the young lady's elocutionary talents.

Miss Eliza King's class, composed of little boys and girls, gave us some correct recitations which were highly appreciated, and the little girls of her class, Misses Shafer, Hogan and Gatchell, and a little son of Rev. Shafer's declaimed some selections well adapted to the occasion, which called forth much applause and was indeed worthy the praise they received.

Another, and perhaps the most interesting feature of the occasion was the singing of the old war song, "Rally round the flag, boys," by the infant class taught by Miss Nettie Ullman. The zest with which the little folks entered into the performance, and the vim with which they sang made it enjoyable to all present. Miss Ella King's declamation was well delivered and reflected much credit on the young lady's elocutionary talents.

Very able speeches were made by Revs. Shafer, Cash and Wilson, and despite the rain and forbidding appearance of the day quite an enjoyable time was spent. Miss Ella King's declamation was well delivered and reflected much credit on the young lady's elocutionary talents.

OBITUARY.

DIED.—June 28, 1884, of valvular disease of the heart, John J. Herd, aged 65 years, 3 months and 16 days.

The deceased leaves an aged companion, two sons, and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss. He was an excellent man and highly respected by all who knew him. He devoted the greater part of his life to religion, having joined the Disciple church over 30 years ago, and for 21 years held the office of Elder of that church. Although belonging to the above named church he was no sectarian. He was not held by any creed, but was a simple Christian, wholly in fellowship with all true Christians.

Notwithstanding the last 2 years of his life were nearly one continuous year of suffering from the disease which finally proved fatal, yet he bore his great affliction with remarkable patience, and that is truly characteristic of a child of God, and would often call his Brethren and Sisters to his home to hold a brief service of reading and prayer. On several occasions he told the writer that the hope of the Gospel was very precious to him during his illness.

It was his hope that consoling him in the long struggle with death. It was his hope which was the crown of his patience as well as the assurance of his eternal salvation. It was his hope that made his life an invaluable boon, his death an unrepentable loss, and his eternity to himself an inheritance, incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeeth not away.

Realizing that and that friend, his husband, brother and father a free spirit, absent from the body but present with the Lord, that the brave spirit which cried in its body, "I am tired," is where the wicked cease to trouble and the weary are at rest. That the patient soul, which cried under its burden of suffering, "O this pain!" is now in a world without pain. In view of these facts we will not sorrow as those that have no hope.

Thus art gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee. Thy sorrow and darkness encompassed the tomb. The Savior has passed through its portal before thee. And the lamp of his love is thy light through the gloom." J. G. L. Independent and Gazette please copy.

A Remarkable Escape.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey, of Tunkhannock, Pa., was confined for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. His life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediately her illness was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs in a few months.

THE BUCKEYE AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

A Field Trial of Binders. Yesterday there was a spirited contest on the farm of Archibald Goodhue, a prominent farmer living near Clarion, Ohio, between the Buckeye Platform Binder and the Champion Pony Binder. The test was a severe one for the competing machines, as the ground was very uneven, the Binders having the same road cut to light, short and again light and tangled wheat. The trial excited great interest in that vicinity, and a great many farmers embraced the opportunity to see Binders engaged in a handy contest. After a few hours' trial, Messrs. Goodhue and Reynolds decided that they would retain the Buckeye, and the Champion was hereby retired to seek more genial pastures elsewhere.

pose of every Cleveland man in the New York delegation. Flags, handkerchiefs, fans, hats and even coats and shirts were brought into use by the Hendricks sympathizers in the audience like that of an Illinois brush patch, tortured by a violent gale.

The effect figure of the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash," Dan Voorhees, appeared at the side of the Chairman, and the noise and excitement gradually subsided, and finally Mr. Voorhees' voice was heard exclaiming "Mr. Chairman, The Chair said, 'Gentlemen of the convention, take your seats. The gentleman from Indiana has the floor.' Mr. Voorhees then spoke as follows: GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—I understand there is a call of the roll of the states in progress at this time. I am reminded by the Chairman that nominations are not now in order. I stand before you, however, at the unanimous request of the delegation of which I am a member, to propose the name of Joseph E. McDonald [here a wild burst of applause followed the voice of the speaker] for the purpose, at the proper time, of casting the vote of Indiana for Thomas A. Hendricks." [Renewed and tremendous applause.]

Indiana changed her vote (41) to Cleveland, Kansas changed vote also for Cleveland, Bayard 1.

The chairman stated that he would rule out of order the motion that he would vote unanimous until after the result was announced.

California again changed her vote to 16 solid for Cleveland.

South Carolina changed for Cleveland 10, Bayard 8.

Texas gave her whole 25 votes to Cleveland.

Ohio changed her vote as follows: For Cleveland 27, Thurman 19.

Tennessee changed her vote to Cleveland.

The votes of states in detail were then at 1 o'clock, announced by the clerk for verification.

The general result was announced as follows, at 1:10 p. m.:

Cleveland, 683; Bayard, 814; Hendricks, 454; Thurman, 4; Randall, 4; McDonald, 2.

The question was then put on Mr. McDonald's motion to make the nomination unanimous, and it was carried.

Then the mammoth oil painting of Governor Cleveland's head and bust was carried in front of the speaker's stand and exhibited to the enthusiastic spectators, who greeted it with cheers and whistling, and the waving of everything that would come to hand.

For that purpose, while the band played "Marching Through Georgia," the Red, White and Blue
