WARTS AND TATTOO-MARKS.

Mark Twain writes to the New York Sun as follows: I find the following suggestive of wandering about the ocean of smallness.

"I'd give $1,000," said a well-to-do New Yorker the other day, "to have that mark removed," and he held out a well-shaped and well-cared-for hand, the back of which presented the thumb and first finger, was tattooed a big blue anchor. "When I was a little fellow at school, my highest ambition was to go to sea. An old sailor who lived in the village stood about a dozen of us on the pier, and I remember the line I told my mother as I kept my hand down up in a rag, pretending I had cut it, until it had healed. Then the game was such a thrashing as broke up my plan, fortunately, to have a fine red and blue heart done on the other. The disfigurement has caused me to get no amount of success in that line, which I always wear winter and summer, though I detest them in warm weather. But a man can't wear gloves at the table and often at restaurants if each people is starting at my hand and I wonder if they think I have served my term in the 'fo'c'sle of some outer scow or lumber schooner.'"

A tattoo mark is easily removed. My drop into personal history? When I tried to turn the 288 ways of removing them, but without result; indeed, I was so much annoyed by the pain and smarting that I at last somebody revealed to me the 300th way, and I tried it. Thus I drove a needle into the base of the wart; then held the other end of the needle in the flame of a candle until it was hot; then I took the needle and pressed it hot throughout its length and proceeded to cook the wart. Presently I drew the needle out; it had white steam like milk rising about its point; that was what was done; if the point was clear I drove it in again and cooked till I got those white things. They were the roots of the wart. Twenty-four hours later the wart would become soft and flabby, and I removed it with a single wipe of my hand. Where it had been was a smooth surface, which quickly healed and left no scar. Within two days was worthless and was so removed into this day.

The Dominion of Paper.

We live in paper houses, wear paper clothing and sit on paper cushions in paper cars, rolling on paper wheels. We use paper for our residences, courts, papers, books, and for our amusements, and we are charging them up on paper books, and in paper stocks on paper margins. We go to paper theaters, where paper actors play to paper audiences. As the age develops the coming man will be more deeply immersed in the paper net. He will wear a paper hat, and keep from under his paper clothing on his paper bed, and put on his paper dressing gown and paper slippers. He will walk over paper carpets down paper stairs, and stand himself in a paper chair, read the paper news in the morning paper. A paper bell will call him to his breakfast, cooked in a paper oven served on paper dishes, laid on a paper cloth on a paper table, and he will wipe his lips on his paper napkin, and paper coat, and taken his paper case, he will walk on a paper pavement or ride in a paper car, and he will be surrounded by paper organizations, paper enterprises and make paper profits. He will go to Europe in paper steamships and navigate the air in paper balloons. He will smoke paper pipes and catch in a paper net the flies on his paper shirt, and he will write with a paper pencil, white paper sticks with a paper knife, fish with a paper fishing rod, and paper fish, and paper traps, and he will shoot with a paper gun, loaded with paper cartridges, and defend his country in paper forts with paper cannon and paper shells. He will live his paper life and achieved a paper fame and paper wealth, he will retire to paper leisure and die in paper peace. There will be a paper funeral, at which the mourners will wear paper drapery, will wipe their eyes with paper handkerchiefs, and a paper preacher will preach a paper sermon in a paper pulpit from a paper text. He will lie in a paper coffin wrapped in a paper shroud, and his name will be engraved on a paper plate, and a paper hearse, adorned with paper plumes, will carry him to a paper-lined grave, over which will be raised a paper monument.

The Dangerous Cigarette.

A Detroit young lady entered a drug store on Woodward avenue and asked for tea cigarettes. "Do you mean after-tea cigarettes?" asked the druggist. "No, I mean cigarettes made of tea. all the girls are smoking them, and they are just lovely."

A SOUND LEGAL OPINION.

E. Brainbridge, Munday Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex., says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied it saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony saying: "He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequalled. Price 50 cts. and $1 at F. Harrington's."

Foraker has been compelled to swallow so many of his previous utterances since Campbell cornered Halstead on the ballot box bill, that he is now reported seriously sick. He'll be sicker after the Ohio election.—(Pittsburg Post.</
