About Strawberries.

The strawberry bed should be set out when you plant potatoes—about the middle or last of April. Ground to be used for the bed should be free from weed seeds and should be put in good till before the plants are put out. Get your plants from some one in your immediate vicinity or from your nearest nurseryman. For the ordinary garden the perfect varieties are best—namely, those whose blossoms bear both stamens and pistils. We have known of remarkably thrifty beds, from the standpoint of foliage and blossom, which did not produce a berry, the result being simply due to the fact that the blossoms were imperfect, needing fertilization from other staminate or perfect plants. The rows should be about three and a half feet apart and the plants set two and a half feet apart in the row. Give the beds thorough cultivation and keep free from weeds. It is considered best to pinch the blossoms off the first season, which results in a somewhat more thrifty plant. A bed cared for in this manner will next season furnish an abundance of fine and luscious fruit.

Old Aristotle knew that clover was a fertilizer for the farm, and he has been dead a long, long time. The making of profitable baby beef is only possible with high grade animals of the strictly beef breeds. The report of the purchase of guis near the $700 mark should be followed by a question mark rather than a period.

FARM AND ORCHARD.

Some Very Helpful Hints for the Farmers.

BY J. S. TRIGG.

Des Moines, Iowa. Correspondence Invited.

It is the March and early April layers that make the December and all winter layers.

A great many dogs, like lots of folks, have very well defined antipathies as to certain persons, the wherefore in both cases being in a measure unexplainable.

We ran the risk of the frost last season with a small patch of sweet corn, planting about April 10, and as a result had an early supply. It was a speculation and chanced to turn out all right.

Is it economy to let stock run at will to hay and eat and waste that which has cost so much hard work to secure? Better feed it in the barn or lot and put the manure back on the land where it is most needed.

We know of a number of instances in which the housewife, assisted by the children, has conducted a careful testing of the seed corn. It is pretty safe to assume that when mother undertakes the job it will be well and thoroughly done.

Give your boy and girl a portion of the garden patch to tend this season, letting them have what they can make from it. Besides being a better incentive than a gad it inculcates a very valuable habit of industry and sense of ownership.

It would be a good time any of these frosty mornings to take your railroad iron and break down those stalks. Then when a soft day comes hitch on to the disk, set it straight and go cross ways of the field and you will have the job well done.

Fir lumber, which a few years ago was used sparingly, is becoming so scarce and hard to get that a merchant stated to us a few days ago he had to beg for it with the money in his hand to pay for it, and then shipments are very much delayed.

A judge of our Iowa court has recently ruled that the owner of a live of bees which sting a passing team and caused them to run away was liable for the damage that resulted. This is somewhat contrary to the "wild animal" conception of the bee.

The Duro-Jersey is traveling in the same path as did its predecessor, the Poland-China. It is in danger of being killed by its loving friends by being bred too fine. Remember that a hog should always remain a hog, sturdy and substantial. He should have a leg on each of his four corners, not broomsticks. Don't try to produce a rose.

The sowing of a certain portion of the farm area to clover is coming to be looked upon as a regular feature of the early spring work by all intelligent and progressive farmers. Four quarts of timothy and two of clover should be sown with the oats, or, if clover alone is desired, three quarts will be found sufficient with the oats.

Make it as warm as possible for all the sparrows which seek a home on your premises, and you will have lots of other birds. Sparrows are pirates.

If a young couple commence picking up and saving every old thing in the house and out of it which they think may come into play some day, they will need a fire to help them clean house inside of ten years.

We feel sorry for the man on the farm who has raised four nice boys and cannot keep even one of them with him to take up the farm work as the father grows too old to carry it out. The smartest boy on the farm is the one who early resolves to stay by his dad.

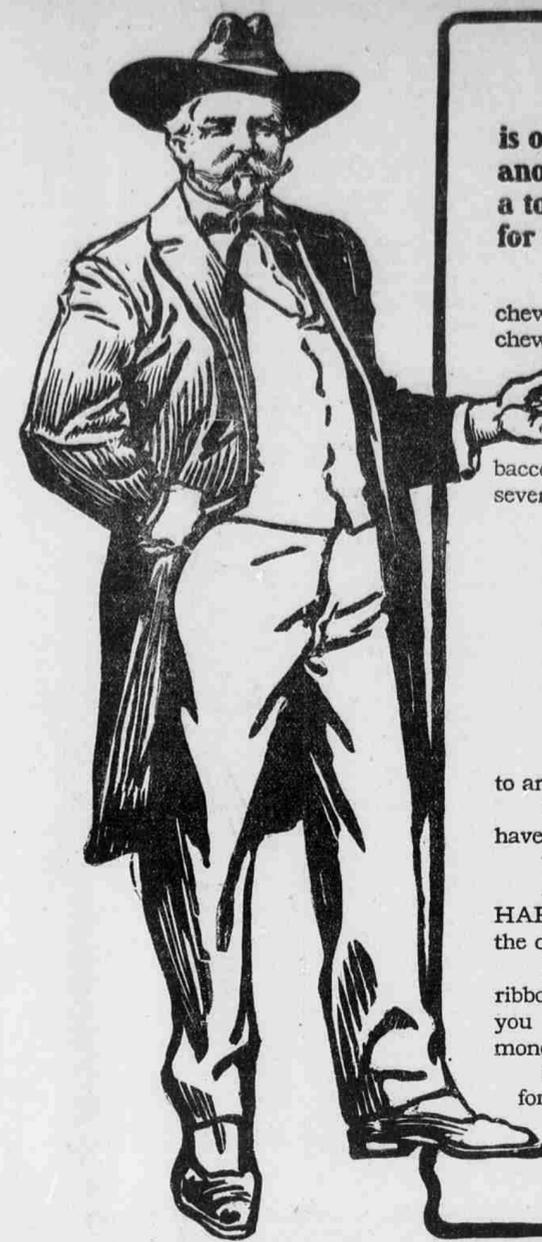

A swarm of sparrows, a flock of pigeons, a wandering dog, an old black crow or a predatory wolf visiting an infected hogyard can transmit the cholera with as much certainty as could a diseased hog running at large, and these agencies are pretty hard to quarantine against.

Nothing makes a prettier lawn decoration than a circular bed, say twelve feet in diameter, with a dozen canna in the center and these banked with the different varieties of the colous. A fringe of dwarf nasturtiums may be set on the extreme outer edge of the bed with good effect.

Along the last of March we get a few small boxes, filled with earth and now some celery, cabbage, peppers, tomatoes, pansies and other desirable things. Then in May we have a nice lot of strong plants to set out in the garden without having to buy or beg them from the neighbors.

No flowers grown last summer were more lovely or longer lived or gave a larger measure of real satisfaction than a bed of asters. The plants may be bought, but may also be easily raised from the seed, then set in the bed when of sufficient size. To have ample room they should be set about fifteen inches apart each way.

So serious have been the losses from forest fires in portions of California that one company at McCloud has inaugurated a campaign for effective fire protection according to the suggestions of the forest service of the department of agriculture. The plan consists of a clearing and burning of fire lines of from 200 to 3,000 feet in width to serve as base lines from which to fight possible forest fires, organizing a patrol, erecting houses for the storage of fire fighting tools, erecting telephones to summon aid and other similar measures. So successful was this plan as a preventive of fires that the same company is planning to extend it to an additional 20,000 acres in southern Oregon. This nicely illustrates one of the many lines of service rendered the commercial interests of the country by the agricultural department.

I am from Kentucky, and if there is one thing I know more about than another, it is tobacco. Brought up in a tobacco field, and had it on the table for dessert.

The tastes in tobacco differ; some people chew cigars, others chew plug, and still others chew smoking tobacco. I have chewed them all; the last one I chewed was HAPPY THOUGHT, and you can take my word for it, I will keep on chewing HAPPY THOUGHT tobacco just as long as I can get it. There are seventeen different reasons why I prefer to any other. The first is because it is the best tobacco I have ever chewed. The second, because it is clean. After you have chewed a package of this HAPPY THOUGHT yourself, you will know the other fifteen reasons without my telling you. HAPPY THOUGHT is straight leaf cut in ribbons, fresh from the field to the factory. Costs you a nickel a package, and you get your money's worth every trip. HAPPY THOUGHT is a large package for a nickel.

HAPPY THOUGHT

Col. Longleaf

Too Much Rope.

A friend of ours lost a fine Jersey cow the other day—tied her too long. She got tangled up in the rope and broke her neck—a case of too much rope. How many instances there are in life that are counterparts of the above! The cherished of our hearts, our own flesh and bone, are often allowed to gradually slip away from us and out from under our control, all because we love them so much and hate to restrict their pleasure or say "no" to them. They are out a little bit late, but they are our boys and girls, and they will be all right. Perhaps later on in the public dance, a case of beer and a game of cards with a ten cent ante, and the first thing we know all is lost, and we awake to the realization of the fact, only too late, that it was just like our friend's cow—a case of too much rope. Be boys and girls with your boys and girls and at the same time be manly men and womanly women, and your boys and girls will grow up like you, be proud of you and you of them.

LEGALITY OF CAMPAIGN GIFT

Attorney Jerome Institutes Proceedings at New York.

GETS OUT BLANK WARRANTS

Chairman and Treasurer of the Republican National Committee and a Number of Insurance Officials May Be Involved—Hearing Before Magistrate Moss.

New York, March 28.—In Magistrate Moss' court, District Attorney Jerome applied for warrants to be used in testing the legality of the contribution of insurance companies funds to political campaign committees. The name of no person was mentioned at the time. After listening to Mr. Jerome, Magistrate Moss said that before he would issue any warrants in the matter evidence would have to be presented that a crime had been committed. To establish this evidence, Mr. Jerome asked for the issuance of a number of subpoenas in blank to be used in "John Doe" proceedings before the magistrate. These subpoenas were issued. It was said at the district attorney's office that every effort will be made to get the proceedings under way at once. Mr. Jerome is carrying out the policy he announced before Justice O'Sullivan in the court of general sessions last Friday, when he defended the opinion he had previously rendered that there had been no crime committed in connection with the campaign contributions. Justice O'Sullivan ruled, however, that if it could be shown there was an intent to defraud the rightful owners of the property, it was for the grand jury to say whether or not the case was one of larceny. He so instructed the grand jury and urged the grand jurors to fully investigate the matter and not seek shelter in the face of an unpleasant duty. Mr. Jerome asked Justice O'Sullivan if he would not, sitting as a magistrate, issue a warrant for the arrest of George W. Perkins, former vice president of the New York Life insurance company, in order that a writ of habeas corpus might be obtained and the whole matter taken at once to the highest court. Mr. Jerome also suggested that if contributing to campaign committees by officers of the insurance companies constituted larceny, the matter involved Chairman Corley and Treasurer Bliss of the Republican national campaign committee in the matter of receiving stolen goods. Justice O'Sullivan declined to act in the case, saying there were plenty of magisterial courts before which the matter could be placed and the warrants secured.

Before Magistrate Moss issued the blank subpoenas requested by District

J. B. DOLLISON, Mayor and President of Council

Attest: F. H. GROVE, Clerk.

Attorney Jerome he examined D. P. Kingsley, vice president of the New York Life insurance company, who appeared before him. E. D. Randolph, treasurer, and several employees of the New York Life were examined in the district attorney's office. It was stated that Mr. Perkins has agreed to appear at the proceedings. It was learned that the grand jury has not asked District Attorney Jerome for any more evidence in the insurance cases beyond what he had already furnished the jury several days ago. Wheeler Memorial. Atlanta, Ga., March 28.—Uniting in their tribute of veneration to the memory of General Joseph Wheeler, his comrades and foes in the sixties and his followers in the war for Cuban freedom, gathered here and joined in such celebration as is accorded to few men in military or civic life. Roused to a pitch of enthusiasm by the words of General Wheeler's friend and associate in war and in peace, former Congressman John W. Maddox, the old soldiers shouted themselves hoarse. Stirred to their hearts by the tribute of "Corporal" Tanner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic they stood in their places and cheered, waving hats and handkerchiefs and refused almost to be quieted. Nearly 500 Confederate veterans gathered with a third of that number representing the northern arm.
