A Hair Dressing
 Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

Ayer's
 The best kind of a hair-dressing—Sold for over sixty years—Made by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufactured at SASSAPARILLA, PILLS, CHERRY PECTORAL.

plaining most learnedly the centrifugal and centripetal forces, "the push and the pull," that holds the earth in place. He dwelt humorously on man's advent and exploitations in the Garden of Eden. Coming down to man's responsibility to his God, Allen has some widely different views from those generally accepted by the church, and he tells them in his blunt way, always prefacing his points by cautioning all not to believe as he does, for he has his ideas copyrighted.

In Tuesday morning's session, after the invocation by Rev. Willis, Lecturer Thomas talked on "Commercial Fertilizers," and illustrated his points by charts. He told of the state bureau of agricultural inspection and was not ready to condemn fertilizers; claimed that some are good but would not just say which brands. He was the target of a fusillade of interrogatories from D. W. Wright, Allen O. Myers and others. Mr. Wright wanted to know of whom the fertilizer inspectors got the most money, from the state or from the fertilizer companies. Mr. Myers condemned all fertilizers.

This subject was followed with a lecture by Mr. Myers, on "Incubators and Brooders on the Farm." He told his experience with the incubator, and how he had spent $53.00 and got one little chick, and it died in two days. But the speaker believes in incubators, is using them and getting good results. His evolution of the chick, each minute change that takes place in the egg, from the time of placing them in the incubator until the chick "peeps" was most interesting and eloquent.

In the afternoon of Tuesday Mr. Thomas spoke on the growing of corn, which was very ably discussed by many members present. Mr. Myers closed the session by a most beautiful description of the farm and the family, dwelling largely on his own experience. The committee on nominations reported by Mr. J. F. Krinn the following organization for the next year: President, W. W. Marks; Vice President, D. W. Wright; Secretary, Charles J. Wright; Ex. Com. W. H. Nixon, Frank Graham, Chas. Numemaker, H. C. Hansel and J. A. Harsh. Judge F. P. Martin had been nominated for president but declined because of his being always busy, and further he insisted that the officers should be persons actively engaged in farming.

RESOLUTIONS.
 Resolved that we record our approval as an Institute of the laws that have been enacted in our State, known as Pure Food Laws, and also those of like character, providing for government analysis of Com. Fert. and feed stuffs. Believing as we do that said laws are in the interest of not only the farmers but of all who follow any legitimate pursuit or business.

Resolved that we are in favor of additional legislation along similar lines by the National Congress for the compelling of manuf. of woolen goods, to label the same, so as to show the composition of them by per cent of wool or other products comprising them, for the prevention of the fraudulent sale of shoddy goods for pure wool.

Resolved that we record our uncompromising position to the repeal of the National Congress of the law known as the "Grout Law" compelling all manuf. of Olomargarine to be manuf. and sold without coloring, to the end that it may be purchased and sold for what it is and upon its merits only.

Resolved that we record our appreciation of the good work accomplished from year to year by our Farmers Institutes throughout the State, by the sending out of trained speakers by the Board to talk upon the subjects directly bearing upon the tilling of the soil and growing of crops and stock, but also, and even in a higher degree, our appreciation of the discussion of subjects tending to the betterment of our homes and families, and for the instruction of our boys and girls, the most important crop of all, in lines of morality and good citizenship. And to this end we record our disapproval of anything tending to break down right regard for the word of God and the Christian Church, the word being the source of truth, believing as we do, that the chief glory of this country as a nation, among all the nations of the earth, is that in a marked degree, it is a nation founded upon the principles of justice, inculcated by this Word of Truth, formulated by men having a belief in the eternal verities taught by that Word.

Resolved that we extend our thanks to the ministers of our town for their services rendered in the behalf of the institute, and to the State speakers and the ladies, who have furnished such excellent music, and also our thanks for the splendid violin solos.

Respectfully Submitted,
 The Committee,
 F. P. MARTIN, Chm.,
 J. W. LINTON,
 H. G. HANSEL.

A TATTOOED EYE.

Good Results From a Delicate and Costly Operation.

An Irishwoman who owns a little stationery shop in the upper part of Manhattan frequently surprises customers with whom she falls into conversation over the counter by asking:

"Which of my eyes do you think is the blind one?"
 The customer invariably exclaims that surely it is not possible that either eye is blind, for both are dark blue, sparkling and seem just the same. The shopkeeper, however, proceeds with the information that the left eye is quite without sight.

"That's my tattooed eye," she explains proudly. "It cost $1,000. I didn't pay for it, of course. A rich lady had it done for me."
 "You never heard of a tattooed eye? Shure, I never did myself until I came to having one. It was after I was blown up by an explosion—oh, dear, yes, a terrible experience it was! I was living with the lady at the time as her maid. I had been with her five years, and she thought a heap of me, and it was at her house the accident occurred.

"When I lost the sight of the eye she felt bad enough, but when the bandages were removed and it was seen that a white film had spread over the eyeball she was terribly distressed.

"It ruins your good looks entirely, Mary," she said. "You'll never get a husband looking like that. But I know of a physician who can make it look as good as the other, even if he can't make it see. It will cost $1,000," she says, "but I'd have it done for you if it was $5,000."

"So I went to a fine private hospital, and the doctor tattooed another iris and pupil on the white film. And he matched the blue exactly, now, didn't he? I could scarcely tell, when I looked in the glass afterward, which one I was seeing out of at all.

"Did I get a husband? It's my third that I'm living with now."—New York Press.

Stupidity and Sangfroid.

Commander Gambier of the British navy tells in his book this story of a soldier servant named Andrews, a fellow of stolidity and sangfroid: "We were practicing with a saloon pistol in my brother's quarters, and Andrews was in a small dressing room adjoining when a ball went through the door and took the tip off his ear. Most men would have made some remark. He did not, and we knew nothing about it until by chance, looking into the room, we saw him groping about under the table for something he had lost. 'What are you looking for, Andrews?' said my brother. He drew up, stood at attention and replied in an apologetic tone—as if deprecating his master's wrath, 'I was only a-looking for a bit of my ear as come off when you fired that shot through the door, sir.'"

Early Protest Against Tea.

The introduction of tea into European communities met with considerable protest. In Germany tea dealers were considered immoral, and many pamphlets were published condemning the use of tea in any form. Tea was first brought to England from Holland in 1666. Soon the drinking of it became fashionable in London, and a pound of the leaves sold for 60 shillings. Thomas Garway was the first dealer in tea in England. He recommended it as a cure for all disorders and sold great quantities of it at a large profit. Records show that tea has at times been sold in England for as much as £10 a pound.

Various How Are You's?
 "How are you?" in German is "Wie befinden sie sich?" (How do you find yourself?) It is also "Wie geht's?"

"The Dutch say 'Hoe vaart gij?' (How do you fare?) The Italians ask, 'Come state?' (How do you stand?) The French, 'Comment vous portez-vous?' (How do you carry yourself?)

The Greeks ask what you are doing, the Chinese want to know if you enjoy your rice, and the Russians inquire how you are living. The Arabs, a devout people, say, "God grant his favors to you." The Turks, no less devout, say, "Be under God's care."

Forshanded.

The London Telegraph tells of a small girl who entered a grocer's shop in Whitechapel and said: "Please, sir, I want 'arf a pound of butter and a pen'orth of cheese, and muvver says she will send a shilling in when farver comes home."
 "All right," replied the man.
 "But," continued the child, "muvver wants the change, cos she 'as got to put a penny in the gas meter."

Cities Built on Islands.

There are other cities besides Venice built on islands. Amsterdam and Ghent are both built on small islands, Amsterdam coming the nearest to Venice in the number of islands and bridges. Venice is built on 118 small islands, connected by 378 bridges; Amsterdam on nearly 100 islands, connected by almost 200 bridges. Ghent stands on 26 islands, joined by 270 bridges.

AFFLICTED WITH CATARRH—LIFE HAD BECOME A BURDEN.

Pe-ru-na, Used As a Last Resort, Affords Complete Relief.

MRS. F. CARR.

The Relief Experienced by Mrs. Carr Through the Use of Pe-ru-na, After Having Tried the Best Professional Treatment in Vain, is a Matter of No Small Wonder Among Her Many Friends.

Mrs. F. Carr, Vineland, Ont., Can., writes:

"For several years I was afflicted with catarrh, which made life a burden. The coughing and hacking which accompanied the disease was terrible. The complaint finally extended to the stomach and I was in a wretched condition. I tried different remedies and the best professional treatment all in vain. Finally, as a last resort, I tried Pe-ru-na upon the recommendation of my doctor in Hamilton. I could see steady improvement and after using four bottles of that precious medicine I was feeling well again, my old trouble being completely a thing of the past.

"To-day I would not take one thousand dollars for what this grand medicine has done for me."

Many women owe their lives to Pe-ru-na. A great many more owe their health to Pe-ru-na.

A multitude of women throughout Canada are using Pe-ru-na as a preventative and a relief from catarrhal coughs and colds.

We have in our files a great number of letters from grateful women who have been benefited by Pe-ru-na, with permission to use these letters in public print.

Catarrh would not be such a curse to the human race if people thoroughly understood its nature. Catarrh is a disease which never improves of its own accord, but becomes deeper seated the longer it is neglected. It should be treated at once to prevent it from making inroads upon vital organs.
