Initiative and Referendum.

Mr. George J. King, field secretary of the Ohio Direct Legislation League, who is in the city to finish up the county campaign which he began last June, in support of the Initiative and Referendum mode of legislation, has given a representative of this paper the present status of the campaign situation.

Mr. King expected to address a large meeting at Silver Creek last evening but was prevented from doing so. He will remain in this city about a week and during that time will address several granges, hitherto unvisited, throughout the county. It will be remembered that last June five granges in this county, namely the McDonald, Friendship, Washington, Wolf Creek and Greenwood; the Kenton Commercial Club, T. & O. C. Labor Council and the Machinists Union had signed resolutions the substance of which was a request to Representative J. B. Humphrey to vote for the proposed Initiative and Referendum. After accomplishing this work Mr. King left for other counties.

"After leaving Kenton," said Mr. King, "I went to Fulton county. There I met Representative Briggs and a committee from the Pomona grange. After Mr. Briggs had been shown a number of petitions signed by his constituents urging him to vote for the proposed measure he stated that he would do so unless it was later shown him that a majority of his constituents were against it. We are counting his vote for the bill.

"I then made a trip through south-eastern Ohio which resulted in the securing of five votes, namely representatives Crawford of Athens, Irvin of Meigs, Hawkins of Jackson, Grover of Gallia, and Bishop of Morgan. Regardless of party affiliation or ever of class distinctions. I have found the people overwhelmingly in favor of the measure and they have so signified it by petitions. I had the most hearty co-operation of the grangers wherever I went. The grangers of Meigs Co. especially were active in advocating this mode of legislation. Likewise the labor unions have come out for it, and as a conservative estimate I will say nineteen out of twenty business men whom I meet are favorable to the measure and ready to sign the petitions.

"In general the state campaign has been amazingly successful, about twenty members of the state legislative in the counties which I personally have visited are extremely favorable and only two or three have openly said they would vote against it."

Mr. King, when asked for his personal opinion regarding the political situation in Ohio as compared with other states, said, "I believe that Ohio is on the eve of a political house cleaning, especially within party lines. Never before have the people been so insistent in regard to their legislators expressing the will of the people and not of an inner ring or circle. So with the Initiative and Referendum, as soon as the people understand what this mode of legislation really means they want and demand it.—Kenton Democrat.

"Skidoo."

The other day a traveling man entered a hotel in an Iowa city and taking up the pen at the counter registered, "L. 144, Chicago."

The clerk looked at the inscription and then looked at the man. "Is that your telephone number?" he inquired, wondering what it all meant. The newcomer, enjoying the clerk's discomfiture, winked at another commercial man, who was as far up a tree as the clerk, however. "No," he replied, "that's my name." Now, the clerk had heard of the Indian girl whose name was Three Hundred and Sixty, and of the Kentucky parents who named their children numerically One, Two, Three, etc., as they arrived. But he had never heard of a man like "L. 144," and he had been around some, too. So he told the commercial man that he would confer a lasting favor if he would explain how he had come by such a rummy title as he marked down on the book. "With pleasure," said the traveling man urbanely. "My father's name was Jacob Gross. Mine is Louis." The clerk thought the matter over a few minutes and then assigned the stranger to room 23.

Neighborhood Reunions.

A timely suggestion if for the ladies of a neighborhood, immediate friends, to select a pleasant spot, as nearly as possible equally accessible to all, and with their children, we had almost said their small children, have a reunion and picnic all their own.

If this little gathering can be made up of old time friends, of school day associates, it may be made all the pleasanter. Throw off all the restraint forget the household and family cares, and live the old, free life over again.

Give the children liberty, and let them enjoy themselves. What if some child gets hurt a little and cries a minute or two, and what if some of the children may display faults or ill-temper? You are not out to see today, but to have a good time. Indulge in whatever pastimes you used to enjoy—be a girl again just far a day, and you will be a better woman for several days.

No, you won't be lonesome, for you will not have many such picnics until the men and boys will be with you.

FROST IS ONLY SIX WEEKS AWAY.

According to Those Who Have Faith in the Infallibility of Katydid.

Southeastern Ohio is experiencing unusually cool August weather. Those who, at the opening of the belated spring, predicted a late fall are now beginning to revise their predictions according to the methods of the most astute weather prophets.

Farmers look with disfavor upon the present "spell of weather." "Must have hot nights in August for corn," say they, and inasmuch as the early part of the season was very unfavorable for the maize crop, they were hoping that all shortcomings would be made up by a damp, hot August and a late fall. It's damp enough all right, but woefully short on heat.

The effect of the present "cool spell" will also be to cut short the camping and picnic season. Campers are returning to town days and weeks ahead of their schedule, and many a picnic that had been magnificently planned has been abandoned.

The voice of the katydid is heard in the land, presaging frost, according to folk-lore, within six weeks.

Obituary.

Mrs. Sarah Woltz, nee Sarah Rainer, was born March 13, 1841, and departed this life March 3, 1907, aged 65 years, 11 months and 5 days. She was born and raised in the suburbs of Richmond, Va., being of a wealthy, slaveholding family, she always had a very kind and affectionate regard for the colored people, because of the memories of her childhood.

On January 18, 1863, she was united in marriage with Peter Woltz, a Union soldier, and came to Ohio. This union was blessed with seven daughters, all of whom are still living, except one, Ellen, Mrs. Thomas Clark, who died a few years ago.

Mrs. Woltz suffered a severe stroke of paralysis, about 20 years ago, from which she never fully recovered. About 5 years ago she had something like another stroke since which time she has been almost helpless. All that kind hands and loving hearts could do was done to alleviate her suffering and make her life as pleasant as possible. She expressed herself as being ready and anxious to go.

She leaves to mourn her departure a husband and six daughters, many grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

She was a kind, faithful and affectionate wife and mother, and her death makes our hearts very sad, but we feel that our loss is her gain and we must submit to the will of God.

Her body was laid to rest in Union Cemetery, near Rockbridge, with prayer and singing. The funeral sermon will be preached later, because of the absence of one daughter.

"Up to that world of light,
Take us, dear savior!
There shall we all unite
Happy forever!
Where kindred spirits dwell,
There may our music swell,
And time our joys dispel,
Never—never!"

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. L. Baker Aug. 3, at the Union Cemetery, Gibsons-ville, Ohio.

KINGBIRD OF PARADISE.

His Brilliant Plumage and His Dances and Love Song.

A most magnificent fellow is the kingbird of paradise, and his manner of displaying his charms to the female that has captured his heart is in keeping with his plumage. The kingbird of paradise is small, six and one-half inches long, having the head, throat and upper part of the richest glossy crimson, shading to orange crimson on the forehead.

The under parts are of a silky white, relieved by an orange red throat, bordered below by a band of metallic green, while the flank feathers are produced into long plumes of an ash gray color and tipped with buff and metallic green. The two middle tail feathers are produced into long slender stalks, terminating in a wonderful disk of emerald green. The beak is yellow and the legs are cobalt blue. During those ecstatic moments in which he proclaims his undying devotion to the bird he desires for his mate the body is drawn close to the bough which serves as a perch, while the head is bent downward toward the breast, and the wings are spread and extended forward so as almost to meet in front of the downcast head, as though the performer were overwhelmed by a sudden panic of modesty.

Suddenly all is changed. The body is extended to its full length and the wings are violently beaten as though flight were contemplated. Then in a moment he gives himself a half turn and, facing the spectators, fluffs out the silky white under-feather like an apron and throws up the long flank feathers till they form a fan arching above his back and on either side of the gorgeously tinted throat, the beak being now pointed skyward. Meanwhile the tail has been drawn forward over the back, so that the long, wirelike and disk bearing feathers are raised high above him. All the while the body is swayed gently from side to side, and this motion causes the disklike ends of the long tail feathers to shimmer in the light, like balls of burnished metal being tossed to and fro in the air.

As if these strange antics were not enough, he bursts into song, which bears a close resemblance to that of the skylark. Then comes the finale, which lasts only for a few seconds. He suddenly turns right around and shows his back, the white fluffy feathers under the tail bristling in his excitement. He bends down on the perch in the attitude of a fighting cock, his widely opened bill showing distinctly the light apple green color of the gullet, and sings the same gurgling note without once closing his bill, and with a slow dying away movement of his tail and body. A single drawn out note is then uttered, the tail and wings are lowered and the dance and song are over.—Chicago News.
