Pleasant Valley

Now dear readers have patience until we tell you of a little old-time possum hunt. Two young men who reside in our valley, took advantage Wednesday night of the warm night and started to scour Wildcat Valley of everything like a wildcat, or anything that even felt as a wildcat does. They had not gone far when the loud hurried barking of the dogs told the bold hunters that the wildcats were all up in one tree. Away went Ichabod, Beate and the Pearl Diver; the Pearl Diver far ahead, carrying with him the only torch light to be had in the crowd, and leaving the grim hunters to struggle through tree tops and the ten-pronged green-briers for which this valley is noted, and which is the source of the smartness of our young people. Well, but to proceed to our story. Finally when they all got to the tree which was pictured in each one of their minds to be loaded down with all kinds and sizes of the long-whiskered wildcats, they found it to be nothing more or less than a bristled-tailed, long-nosed 'possum. The Pearl Diver was not slow in climbing up the tree and laid his hands on the possum and carried him safely to mother earth where they proceeded to strip him of his hide, and Pearl Diver remained to roast Mr. possum, while the rest of the gang pressed on for fresh supplies. The Pearl Diver started a brisk fire and had the possum "a bilin," as he says it, when he fell into a deep sleep. While he slept one of the others, Beate, came around to the fire and took out the possum and ate the whole thing and smeared the gravy over the Pearl Diversmouth, the Pearl Diver not even wakening up. Then Beate sat there until Pearl awoke, and when he did awake and found his face covered with gravy he thought he had eaten the possum himself, and he drowsily remarked that after eating a whole possum, he never felt as lank and gaunt in his life. In the start it was our intention to tell you the whole story but our heart is failing us and we will leave the rest for you to imagine. If any reader would like to hear the rest of the story you can get it by sending 10 cents., money or stamps, to The Pearl Diver, Box 23, Rockbridge, Ohio. ICHABOD.

We are interested in it and have been reading each and every chapter. AUNT LIZA JANE.

Calico Ridge

The mud is all hid from view this morning, but you have no trouble in finding it; just get on the road and you have it in abundance. The first snow of March is now with us. It hides the mud and makes things look pretty, hanging to the trees and everything. Two thunder storms in one week is something uncommon for March, but we had them all the same, one on the 1st and one on the 5th. Squire Shultz, who has been seriously ill for the past three weeks, is convalescing now, and will be able to be out in a short time. Mrs. Lily Beougher, of Gore, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eph Shultz, last week. Doc Nill, Alfred Skinner and Ed Barker called on Squire Shultz last week. Wm. Funk visited Eph Shultz during his sickness. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Shultz, March 5, a son. Evan Harden, our blacksmith on the east side, is building a new barn. Ed Funk, of the East side, is preparing to build a new house. Mrs. Irena Craig, of Shawnee, was the Sunday guest of her daughter, Mrs. Lucy Shultz. Mr. George McLain, of Logan, spent Sunday with his son-in-law, Donald Shultz. J. W. Schaal, of Route No. 1, called on Eph Shultz, Saturday. Samuel Harsh was a business visitor to Logan, Saturday. Noah Harsh was seen wading the mud in the direction of Logan last week. Miss Myrtle Rodman was the guest of Miss Bertha Oliver, of Five Mile, Sunday. Guy Shultz and son, Harold, were the Sunday guests of Squire Shultz. CEDAR GROVE.

Cedar Grove

Sickness is abating somewhat in our vicinity. Walter Pleukharp, of So. Bloomingville, was in our village last Monday. James Iles, of our town, is in the employ of Walter Pleukharp, of So. Bloomingville. Sherman Lindsey was out hunting last week and tracked up and holed as he thought a wildcat, and when he went to dig it out he had only a chip monk. L. W. Beery was in Logan last week on official business. Clyde Rose was at Jacob Bainters last week one evening. Harry Gordon and wife visited friends in Laurel township last Tuesday. Mrs. Anna Walker, of Center Ridge, and Mr. Tommy Taylor, of Columbus, visited N. A. Gordon and family last week. Harry Gordon's school at No. 10 closed last week, on account of sickness. Mrs. Maggie Linn, who has been visiting friends on our ridge for sometime, returned to her home in Columbus. Mrs. Minnie Gordon visited Mrs. Mary Linn last Wednesday. Jacob Bainter and family, visited on Big Pine last Thursday. Lew Conkle, of Pine Grove, while attempting to cross Big Pine creek on a foot log last week, the log broke, precipitating Mr. Conkle into the water at a depth of about 20 feet. He sank twice and was going down the third and last time, when by throwing up his hands he happened to grasp a small birch twig about the thickness of a knitting needle, which in some way or somehow saved his life. Al. Richley says that he knows why the dove sings so harmoniously at Wesley Chapel. MAUD.

This is the month of rain and shine of blizzards and summer heat. Some days you'll rest near the shady pine, And others you'll toast your feet. One day it is your summer suit And the next your overcoat, One day you'll sneeze your eyes near out, And the next you have sore throat. Wm. Parks, of this place, was in Murray City last Saturday on business. Hersel, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilkinson, spent last Saturday and Sunday in Athens with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green. John W. Smith, of this place, spent last Saturday with his brother, Albert, in St. Anthony's Hospital. Isaac Blosser was in Columbus on business last Saturday. Harold Dounhour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Dounhour, of this place, went to Columbus last Sunday to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Noah Powell, of Brushfork, recently spent several days here. Mrs. Dr. W. S. Rhoades has opened up a millinery shop on Railroad street, and asks you to call and see her line of goods before purchasing your spring hats. On last Thursday, Rev. J. W. Orr and other church going people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shunk and held religious services for the benefit of Mr. Shunk, who is in feeble health. While Mr. Shunk is 80 years of age his mind is as clear as a youth, and he takes great pride in reading his bible and talking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God. Solomon said, "A hoary head is a crown of honor, if it be found in the ways of righteousness." BRUSHY FORK.

Brushy Fork

Mr. Y. F. Sheets, wife and daughter, Gladys, were visiting in Columbus last week. Mr. Jack Swigert, wife and son, Walter, of Sugar Grove, called on the latter's parents Friday. "Frizzle" Will Conrad has recovered from the sawmill fever and is going into the chicken business. James Matheny disposed of a setting of leghorn eggs to Miss Rebecca Fisher, who is raising fine chickens. The present warm weather has started the buds and grass to grow on the large rabbit farm, which will be a big help to the owner. George Junkerman says that he will soon join the boys of this place who drive the fast oxen up Blue Valley. Mrs. Phillip Martin was a Lancaster visitor Saturday. Chas. Fisher had a dream which proved to be true. He dreamed that his horse was stolen, and when he awoke he found it a joke, and his horse hitched at Shonk's gate. "Perkins" Sharp recently returned from the West, and the neighbors imagined he was married, and proceeded to bell him, and when the noise ceased he gave them a treat which consisted of candy. Mrs. Emanuel Klump, of Colfax, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Y. F. Sheets. S. Z. Stucky, the steel trap and tile merchant, had bad luck last week while trying to haul tubing for the National Supply Co. He broke his wagon down and had to call on Colonel Jack Swigert and his wheelbarrow to finish the job. Ex-Mayor Geo. W. Sheets is very sick at this writing. Mrs. Grace Kruder, our village post-mistress, aided our Brushy Fork boot-black in selecting a new broom with which to sweep the torsorial art parlor of Reber & Martin. We advise those wishing something good and delicious to try the pumpkin pies and cinnamon rolls made by Rhoads' bakery. Jacob Reber purchased a fine canary recently, and has been offered a bargain for it by Jim Matheny who wishes to give it to one of his maiden friends in Blue Valley. Jack Swigert has been busy delivering home made fertilizer in this place to be used on the lawn of Jack Martin's summer resort. George Junkerman will discontinue the pork business. Henry Reber, our poultry fancier, has purchased new stock for his hennery. BUMPS.
