Yes, indeed, there has been an awakening, and in Ohio it seems to be one that has hung over from the Patterson-Herrick campaign. Then Mr. Taft went to Akron and denounced Boss Cox, and he is accepting the same old bossism when it is exerted in behalf of his presidential candidacy. But the awakening manifests itself in about all the reputable journals of the State Republican papers of long service and unimpeachable fidelity demand that some method be taken to have Cox execute one of his frequent retirements from politics.

The sight of a man's household goods, his lures and penates, being hauled along the street or toted familiarly about, swathed in bur-lap, is one calculated to impress all with the vanity of human possessions and achievements. This feeling deepens when the outlays for breakage and repairs and re-furnishing are considered. To the wonder why people move so often must be added the other query, why they move as much stuff as they do. Time was when everything in the house, from cookstove to clothes press, was movable.

Now the landlord commonly furnishes the range, closets, bookcases and cupboards are being more generally built in. Some of the more progressive owners supply screens and shades and a host of minor accessories that have nothing in their service and yet which are indispensable.

There is no golden mean yet attained, however, between the house let "furnished" and that one which needs much heavy movables to make it habitable. Perhaps the day will never come when chairs and tables, dressers and chiffoniers, and even pianos are let with the house, when the floors are so finished they can be covered easily and in a sanitary way with rugs, but it would be a great gain all around if it were more generally so. People who move often can't have very much affection for any one of their temporary domiciles. Those who must move should be able to go lightly.

Fast Driving.

The speeding of horses on Main street or any other street must be stopped. This week the child of Charles E. Carey, Central Hotel proprietor, was run down by a horse in front of the Court house. Two horses were speeding abreast. The child dodged the first but was struck by a wheel of the second, and thrown to the paved street. How much the child is injured by the shock will probably not be known for years, but she was not externally hurt much. Fast driving in Logan must be stopped.

MUCH MOVING IN LOGAN

The first of April seems to be the fixed time for all renters of houses to begin their leases, and so this is the reason that there is much moving from one house to another at this time.

The following persons are among those that are "moving" in Logan:

Dr. C. O. Allen takes the Dr. Cherrington office on Main street in the Bowby property one door east of Opera House.

Dr. Cherrington has moved his office into the Cherrington Hospital.

Mr. Charles Price is moving, and will occupy the Charley J. Wright cottage, corner of High and second streets.

Mr. Fred Sherrard is moving from the house near the park, to South Culver street, opposite Tom Braddock's.

Mr. Barwell is moving on North Walnut street in the Mrs. Price property.

Mrs. E. P. Armstrong is moving to the house at rear of park.

Mr. Robt. Gompf moves to the Davey property opposite the jail building.

Nate Newman moves to Crooksville.

Mr. J. N. Snider, of Somerset, is moving to Logan and will occupy the Stivison property in West Logan.

Mr. Henry Leach has moved his household goods to Circleville and sent his children there, to live with his deceased wife's people. Henry is boarding at the Rempel House.

Mr. Henry Reiss, of Johnstown, Pa., has accepted a position in the hotel barber shop, and will move his family here Monday. He is a violin player and will lead the Logan orchestra.

Mr. W. H. Strentz moved from the Mutchmore property on Glenview Heights to the property of Mrs. Fred Rochester on North Mulberry. Mr. Strentz is building a home on the Heights.

Mrs. Frank Muchmore has moved from Front street to her newly purchased home on Glenview Heights.

Mr. "Billy" White, living on Main street, moved to Columbus.

Mr. Gib Kennard is moving in the Charley Price property on Gallagher avenue.

Mr. Frank Gompf has sold his green houses to his brother Joe, and moved to Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mr. Doner, a Railroad shop employee moved from North Walnut street to Front street, in the house recently vacated by Mrs. Muchmore.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR LOGAN.

Machinery Already on the Ground and Being Installed.

The Logan Pottery company is installing a complete line of drain tile machinery and will have on the market within the next ten days, a new product, which is in great demand by the most progressive and up-to-date farmers of the county.

It is the intention of the management to produce a first class, red burned drain tile.

The addition of this new department will in no wise interfere with the production of stoneware, but will rather increase the output, as mixed car loads can be shipped to points where heretofore an entire car load of stoneware was too much for some of the smaller dealers.

Keep your eye open for their "ad" in our columns in the near future.

Fairmont, W. Va. Goes Dry.

At the municipal election in Fairmont, W. Va. last week, the city went dry by 49 votes, and a democratic Mayor, the first in years, was elected. He is a young man, by name M. M. Neely. A strong wave of reform has visited West Virginia.
