THE PARALYTIC DODGE.

Effective Cure For an Impostor in an English Prison.

Paralysis is often imitated by beggars and so closely that there is no detecting the impostor. A fellow is directed how to hang his wrists loosely down, dropping the fingers of one hand, and to drag the limbs in such a manner as to imitate a paralytic stroke to the life. He is drilled up to the proper business mark by marching him around the beggars' kitchen for hours at a stretch and night after night. This is continued until the patient can bear a sudden and unexpected prick with a needle or even the touch of a red-hot iron without relapsing into his normal attitude.

Not many years ago one of these mock paralytics, who was accustomed to throw off his seeming infirmity and play the burglar by way of change, was caught in the very act of breaking into a house and committed for trial. Here he got up such a semblance of hopeless paralysis as deceived everybody. When the trial came on he was carried into the court on a stretcher and laid at full length in the dock. Everybody, including the judge and jury, commiserated the case, and he escaped with one year's imprisonment instead of a long term of penal servitude.

The doctor of the prison to which the convict was next transferred felt sure that the whole thing was a sham and tried all the ordinary methods of detection, including a liberal use of the galvanic battery, but without effect. At length a great heap of damp straw was collected in the jail yard, and the scoundrel, still stretched on his pallet, which he never quitted, was placed thereon. The straw was fired on all sides, throwing out a little flame and dense volumes of choking smoke. This did the business, and quickly too. In less than a minute the paralytic astonished everybody but the doctor by bounding out of the straw with the agility of a deer.

"The game is up!" he exclaimed, with a laugh, when he had done coughing, adding in a tone of triumph, "Anyhow, I have cheated the law out of six years!"

The torture such people inflict on themselves for weeks and months at a time and voluntarily is simply incredible.—Pearson's Weekly.

able but much liked articles of diet soon follow. And, while the prohibition and restrictions sound hard of practice, persons do it daily and always say that they don't care. Oddly, it is the women who are the more likely to complain in the beginning.

It may seem a long stretch to say the food question can affect international politics. Yet because the laboring classes of other nations eat less their living is cheaper and they work without sacrifice for a lower wage than our republican born men.

The American laborer is fond of things fried and of pies. He eats heavily during the noon hour, not stopping to realize that he has fed his furnace with noncombustible stuff that brings unnecessary effort upon the digestive system. The foreigner at his side eats more sensibly—somehow the older nations have learned and not taught—and the foreigner is more "fit," more contented. He is teachable, and his work is good. He costs less money, and therefore the international problem.—Philadelphia North American.

Ornithophile Flowers.

It is not only insects that serve for the pollination of flowers, but several species of birds perform a similar office for certain flowers. Among these are humming birds and sunbirds. With their long tongues these birds procure nectar, and with it pollen, from flowers which are practically inaccessible or distasteful to insects. The pollen is distributed to other flowers during the successive visits of the birds. There are some tropical plants which flourish only if these birds abound.

HOW IT HAPPENED TO HARRIS

Judson Harmon has been elected Governor of Ohio by a plurality that cannot possibly go below 40,000, and at its present rate of increase will reach 60,000.

No further effort is being made at Democratic state headquarters to get in delayed returns on the governorship. Attention has been turned to the remainder of the state ticket.

There is a strong probability that Judge Harmon's vote may have pulled some of the state ticket through with him.

It is calculated if the Taft plurality is kept down to 40,000, which is altogether likely, and the Harmon plurality amounts to 60,000, as it appears to be doing, some candidates on the state ticket will be elected.

There was a report put out by the Republican committee Wednesday morning that the result was in doubt.

At the governor's office the cabinet assembled and assured the governor, compiling the returns from all of the places they had heard from, he was 1800 ahead.

The trouble was they hadn't heard from anywhere.

"Wait for the rural vote," said the governor's advisers.

Then the rural vote began to come in.
