H. C. JONES, Chairman.

Old Fort Meigs, near Perrysburg, O., is mentioned as the site for the new Soldiers' and Sailor's Home. The fort is a relic of the war of 1812, the works are in a perfect state of preservation and the location is in a country noted for its picturesque scenery and historical significance. No better place for the location of the home could be selected.

It is announced that the President will be a candidate for re-nomination, because Frankie wants him to. If he has an intention of that sort in his bald has an intention of that sort in his bald head he had better hasten to give the guests of Uncle Joe Alexander last Friday. newspaper men's banquet. Quite a number of the young folks of this vicinity attended the exhibition at West Point last Saturday night. Deer Park on a milk train, chasing the honored fugitive. When a Presidential is in an abominably bad box.

There are more men in the Republican party who earnestly believe in the prohibition of the liquor traffic than there are in the Prohibition party. The difference between them is in the means to be used and not in the end to be attained. To enact a prohibitory law in this State with a majority of the people opposed to the measure would be the supremest folly. Under the circumstances what better can be done than to make a restrictive law with a local option provision? Why make ourselves hoarse howling for the unattainable? Prohibitionists, accepting the Democratic persuasion that Republicans are warring against prohibition, have joined themselves to a party whose very platform is soaked with beer.

A new work published by a gentleman in Chicago on the subject of prison systems is attracting attention from thoughtful people everywhere. The volume unfolds some common sense views about the evils of the present method and makes some careful hints about the State's duty to her convicts. He holds that a government is in a great measure responsible for crime committed in its demains if it allows soloons and gambling hells and nursesies of vice to exist under its protection, depriving its citi-zens of the benefits of education and training them to deeds of infamy; and he clearly demonstrates that so long as a State nurtures the seeds of crime she participates in the crime, which develops and spreads under her fostering care or wilful negligence.

It was expected that the Democra would immediately set up the howl that the Dow Law was unconstitutional. That is the old song and dance of the Democratic Supreme Court and although the public held its breath till it was alet suffocated waiting for an explanation, those portly Judges failed to tell rein the Scott Law was unconstitunal. The public is waiting yet and if any of the windy objectors wants to tell what the matter is, every body is ready listen. The Dow Law is constitutionsoying and blustering Democracy e contrary, notwithstanding. The mt attitude of the party toward the ner question indicates that the next tie ticket will be expected to get down wallow in the mire as Hoadly did.

ice deserves it, but if the recent demostration in and about Belfast is a specimen of her people's ruling policy, there would be few homes left in the Emerald Isle atter a year of self-government.

Chairmen of County Republican Contral Committees will meet at Wilmington to-day, to fix the time and place of holding the Congressional convention. This looks somewhat like a scheme for Wilmington to monopolize the commitee and get the convention.

The quarterly meeting services were all very interesting. Rev. Davis preached an able sermon Saturday night, subject. "The Gedars of Lebanon." Sunday morning Rev. Pearson preached, subject, "Benificence." The Childrens meeting, under the circumstances was good, the storm, however, preventing many of the children from going, that part of the program was left out. The missionary meeting was very interesting, presided over by Rev's. Pierson and Davis. Music by the Misses Price, Ella and Kittie Oldaker, Mattie and Julis Storer and Lou Britton and Messrs. Childrens' Day was observed Sunday afternoon by the M. E. Sanday School. The church was beautifully decorated, six classes of the school lawing decorated the windows which were beautiful. Although the afternoon was raisy the church was filled. The exercises consisted of responsive reading, declamations and singing by the school from the Epworth Hymnal. Rev. Shults addressed the children on the designs of Childrens' Day. At the close the collections were taken by the classes, also a public collection, making in all about ten deliars, which the school will place in the educational fund of the M. E. Church. The afficers and teachers feel very proud of their service and very encouraged to see their efforts appreciated by the large audience present. Many were present from Olive Chapel, Leesburg and Greenfield.

But speaking of names and titles, you ought to read "A Treaty of Peace, Friendship, and Commerce," which was concluded at Antananarivo, on the 18th of May (17th of Alakasay), 1881, between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Madagascar. Her Majesty Ranavalomanjaka, Queen of Madagascar, was represented by Ravoninahtriniarivo, who signs his Malagasy title thus: "15 Yoninahitra, Off. D. P. Lehiber ny Mpanao Raharaha amy ny Vahiny" (which means, I suppose, "15th Honor, Officer of the Palace, Chief Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs"), and by a man of the name of Ramaniraka, whose title I forget. The titles are modest, but the Madagascar notable make up for the deficiency in the length of their names!—From "Among the Law-Makers," by Edmund Alton, in St. Nicholas for October.

WOLFE & CO. HILLSBORO, OHIO

A Washington correspondent says of Gen. Lew Wallace: He is an agreeable man, quite as literary in his appearance as military. He wears an English sult of mixed goods, has good bread shoulders, and would appear to be a man of about 50. He told me that he had two more novels in an advanced state, one of them being a tale of Coustantinople at the time of its capture by the Turks, and the other, if I remember, is an American book of domestic life among us. His tale of Ben Hur paid him $3,200 last year in royalties. Referring to general compensations of literature Gen. Wallace remarked: "I think that a responsible publishing-house has stated that when an author gets $500 royalties on a novel he was considered to have written a successful book."

stated that when an author gets $500 royalties on a novel he was considered to have writing a stoccesful book."

The Rev. W. H. H. Murray, of Adirondack and buckboard wagon celebrity, and long the petied pastor of the fashionable Park Street church, in Boston, claims to have been where no other white man ever was, and to have sailed for days upon the yast frash water sea, which, he says, is many times bigger than Lake Superior, and yet is not on any map or in the knowledge of any other white men, save those who have heard the Indian agents of the Hudson Bay company tell marvelous tales of its immensity, and the vast wilderness in which it lies. Mr. Murray is keeping a little oyster-house in Montreal. It is a neat little box, and the waiters are pretty women. Murray stands near the door, and to every customer who enters he bows and says, "Your servant, sir." As a special favor to friends or distinguished visitors, he sometimes presides at the open coal fireplace, cooking oysters in batter and butter, or broiling a bird or fish. His experience in camping out in the woods, and his fondness for cooking make his culinary productions much sought after.
