To have perfect health you must have pure blood, and the best way to have pure blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

PREVENTED A LYNCHING.

Ferocious Position of a Senator Between a Mob and a Prisoner.

"There is no more courageous man in the world than Senator Teller," said Maj. Peabody to a Philadelphia Times correspondent. "He has passed through many thrilling experiences during his lifetime, but on no occasion was his virile manhood and magnificent courage displayed to greater advantage than on the evening after the news of the assassination of President Lincoln was received in Leadville. A miner, coming from the shaft where he had been working all day, upon being informed that President Lincoln had been assassinated in Washington, carelessly said: 'He did not die too soon.'"

"That unfeeling and unpatriotic remark was passed from lip to lip until everybody in the entire community had been made aware of it. Shortly after nightfall a mob broke into the man's house and dragged him to a public hall, where a lynch court trial was to be given him. He had absolutely no show for his life. The entire crowd appeared to be unanimous in a desire and determination to kill him. A long rope had been carried to the hall, but hanging was regarded as too good for the whole mob, and the unfortunate fellow was to be dragged to death through the rough streets.

"Senator Teller was a young man then, but he had already gained the respect and confidence of the people, all of whom knew him at least by sight. In his law office, which was half a block away from the public hall in which the lynch court was being held, he was informed of the situation. Hastily taking his hat in his hand Mr. Teller rushed downstairs, out into the street, and made his way to the hall for the purpose of saving that man's life. Numerous friends of Mr. Teller endeavored to restrain him, because they feared that he might suffer at the hands of the mob if he interfered. But, with set teeth, he proceeded to the hall, pushed his way through the crowd, took a stand on the platform beside the trembling prisoner, waved his hand for silence, and obtained it.

"He thereupon addressed the mob and informed them that the prisoner was not their prey, but a prisoner of the United States, and that the city should not be disgraced by the exercise of mob law upon a man who had made a thoughtless remark. He was interrupted by angry cries and shouts of the mob, who declared that no man should stand between them and their victim.

"Mr. Teller then stepped to the front of the stage and informed them that one man at least would stand between them and their victim, and that before they should execute that man without a trial they must wreak their wild vengeance upon him. He commanded silence again and declared that the man was his prisoner, that he would take him to the United States jail in Denver, where he belonged, and see that he should have a fair trial for his life. The result of the effort made by Teller, which no other man in the community would have dared to make, was that Teller led his prisoner through that mob, out of the hall, into the street to a railroad train, and landed him in the United States jail at Denver as he declared he would do."

MAKING A GENTLEMAN OF HIM.

That Was All Right for the Boy, But His Mother Was Mad.

The stout woman in furs and diamond earrings—of course diamond earrings are the height of bad form just now—plunged into one of the crosswise seats on the Sixth avenue elevated train one day and pushed a small boy into the seat opposite her and next to me. A shopgirl with a bundle had expected to take that seat, but the indulgent mother was too swift for her, says a writer in the New York Press. Perhaps men who have children of their own don't meddle with those belonging to other people, but I put my arm around the small boy's waist and lifted him off the seat and said: "Now, take off your hat and offer your seat to that young lady."

The small boy promptly ran between his mother's knees, the young girl cringed and hesitated, and the stout woman flushed purple. The experiment seemed to be a failure, but the girl was clearly entitled to the seat, and so I looked at her and smiled encouragingly, and she sat down. Then the stout woman abused me, to my great mortification and the amusement of the whole crowd.

"And, let me tell you, sir," she finished, "don't you ever meddle with other people's children again."

"Madam," said I, firmly, "if mothers don't train their sons to grow up as gentlemen some one else ought to. How do you expect that boy to respect his mother's sex when his mother sets him the example of despising woman's claims to courtesy?"

MAKING AN OCEAN CABLE.

A Vast Amount of Work Before It Can Be Laid in the Ocean.

The making of an ocean cable is a task involving no small amount of skill and mechanical ingenuity, and it is something to the credit of the first cable makers that their pattern has not greatly changed in thirty years. When the Commercial Cable company decided to lay a new Atlantic cable last year, the work was intrusted to the firm of Siemens Brothers, of Woolwich, London. As this firm has constructed no less than eight out of the eleven cables now linking Great Britain and the United States, says the new Science Review, its method of manufacture may be watched as typical of the best. The first care of a cable manufacturer is to secure the very best materials. The copper wire, which forms the heart and essential part of the cable, must be of the purest metal, since the purer the metal the higher its standard of conductivity will be. Every strand and every coil of wire that goes into the cable is expected to reach a certain standard; and to such a degree of excellence is the making of copper wire for electrical purposes brought nowadays that the material submitted is more frequently above that standard than below.

The single wires having passed the test for purity and conducting power, eleven similar strands are taken and spun into a slender rope in lengths of one mile. Gutta-percha insulation is then applied in sheets prepared from the raw material as it comes to hand from Singapore and other Malay ports. These sheets are wrapped by experienced hands so firmly and smoothly round the wire that not an air bubble can remain between the copper and its insulator. The "core" is then ready to be submitted to a galvanometer test, to ascertain whether the insulation is perfect, or as nearly perfect as that very elusive agent, electricity, will permit. That test having been satisfactorily passed, a workman, whose sole business is to attend to the joining of the lengths of cable, splices the ends of the mile lengths. Again the insulation test is applied. The galvanometer indicating no very appreciable loss of electricity, even under the strain of an alternating current of 5,000 volts, the core is passed into the hands of the sheathers, whose care it is to surround the copper and gutta-percha with a more substantial protective covering before they are submitted to the rough action of the sea. And now the weight and size of the cable become appreciable. Already each mile length has in it some 500 pounds of pure copper and 340 pounds of pure gutta-percha. Over this is a spun coat of jute yarn weighing nearly 600 pounds to the mile. Then the cable is made the center of a twisted sheath of steel wires of the stoutest kind, averaging more than 4,000 pounds to the mile. And finally a compound of tar is laid over the whole, which brings its own weight of 800 pounds to the mile. After the tar is applied the cable is coiled and left to soak in tanks of water until such time as the cable ship shall be ready to lay it in its last resting place. Such a cable as this is made at the rate of fifty to fifty-five miles per twenty-four hours.

EFFECTS OF SUGAR.

Said by Scientists to Be Beneficial to the Physical System.

There are certain medical authorities who have for a long time been arguing in favor of a more general use of sugar as an article of diet. They claim that a liberal use of sugar increases the power of resisting fatigue, and enables the individual to perform much more labor than is possible without it. A report made to the Royal Society of England shows the influence of sugar in this direction. As an experiment, a laboring man fasted one day, taking nothing but water. His conditions, strength, fatigue and labor performed were carefully noted. On another day, five hundred grains of sugar were added to the water, and the same account was taken of the man's physical state. It was found that the sugar increased the muscular strength about 70 per cent., and greatly prolonged the period before fatigue was noticeable. In another experiment, sugar added to the food was observed to produce a surprising increase in muscular energy; 200 grams with a meal gave a maximum of 89 per cent. more strength than was discoverable in its absence, and 250 grams of sugar to a meal greatly increased the resistance against weariness, and enabled the man to perform, without undue exertion, an average of 13 per cent. more work than he was able to do without it. There is a growing opinion among the best scientific authorities that the craving of some persons and almost all children for sugar is not only reasonable, but in direct accord with natural law. Pure sugar is not only wholesome but necessary, and when growing children crave it should never be denied them.

Life Saving on the Ice.

An English gentleman has invented a life saving apparatus for use on a lake on his own place which is so simple that one like it could easily be put on every sheet of water frequented by skaters. Two broad planks, about eight feet long, are placed on sled runners, and these are joined together by a rope fifty twenty feet in length. A life preserver is fastened to the center of the rope, and in case of accident, two people, by throwing themselves on the planks, could easily steer them to the hole, one on either side, when the life preserver could be grasped by the one whose life is in danger.

How They Distinguished Their Flocks.

A little eastern town of Long Island has still preserved among its town records the ear-marks of the cattle that were pastured in common upon the broad meadows down from Montauk neck. Among the marks were the pink, the slope, the "L," the hole, the slit, the hollow, the "U" and the half penny. All corresponded pretty fairly to the names. An exactly similar device were the swan marks in Great Britain solemnly set down in the public records.

Don't Put It Off.

The necessity of a spring medicine is universally admitted. This is the best time of year in which to purify the blood, to restore the lost appetite, and to build up the entire system, as the body is now peculiarly susceptible to benefit from medicine. The great popularity attained by Hood's Sarsaparilla, owing to its real merit and its remarkable success, has established it as the very best medicine to take in the spring. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, and all humors, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaints, catarrh, and all affections caused or promoted by low state of the system or impure blood. Don't put it off, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good.

It is told that a youngish lady recently had the family Bible laid where her best beau would see it. He did see it and upon consulting the family record found that his beloved was about three years younger than he was. It would have been all right if he had not turned another page and found that, according to the same record her mother had died ten years before she was born.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested? Trial bottles free at Seybert & Co.'s Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

Mr. Henpeck—What do you take me for, anyway; an umbrella?

Mrs. Henpeck—Why, you don't imagine for a moment anybody would steal you?

Mr. Henpeck—No, but you have such a way of shutting me up whenever we get home from anywhere.

Mother Gray's Sweet Worm Powders.

Mother Gray, a nurse in the Children's Home in New York, has for years treated children successfully with a remedy, now prepared and placed in the drug stores, called Mother Gray's Sweet Worm Powders. They are sold by all druggists at 25 cents a package. They remove all worms, are harmless as milk, pleasant to take and never fail. Valuable for feverishness, constipation and headache, even if no worms are present. Ask your druggist.

Duffy—That's a pretty bright dog of yours, Hawkins.

Jawkins—Why, yes; I believe if he only knew how to talk he'd be smart enough to keep his mouth shut.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives the best satisfaction of any cough medicine I handle, and as a seller leads all other preparations in this market. I recommend it because it is the best medicine I ever handled for coughs, colds and croup.—A. W. Baldrige, Millersville, Ill. For sale by W. R. Smith & Co., Druggists, No. 16 Main street.

"Charlie Miller asked me to become his wife."

Allie—Poor fellow!

"Yes, that's the very reason I refused him."

In the past we thought only bad tasting medicine cured; and it was little better to make a herb tea before going to bed; now, it is too much trouble. These changed conditions are all met by Simmons Liver Regulator, which is pleasant to the taste, and already prepared in liquid and powder form. Try a 25-cent sample package. Nothing better for biliousness, headache, constipation and indigestion.

"Blinks has got one of those talking machines."

"A phonograph?"

"No; a wife."

In these days of telephone, telegraph, electricity and steam, people cannot afford to wait days or as many hours for relief. This is our reason for offering you One Minute Cough Cure. Neither days, nor hours, nor even minutes elapse before relief is afforded. W. R. Smith & Co.

She (bitterly)—Before you married me I was an angel. I will never be that again. I suppose.

He (sarcastically)—Well, I live in hopes.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful Bleemish Cure ever known. Sold by W. R. Smith & Co., druggists, Hillsboro, Ohio.

As soon as a man makes a little money these days a water pipe at his house bursts.

Children often wake in the night with a burning fever, and the parent is at a loss to divine the cause. Worms! Worms! are at work. A dose of Shriver's Indian Vermifuge is the only remedy.

Greatness.

Nothing but me amounts to shucks, And I must be off a-shootin' ducks.

'Most everybody but me's a fool, And I am the Wisdom Trust and Fool.

I hate newspapers; they're liars all, And some of 'em actually have the gall,

Confound the rogues! to differ with ME, This country is altogether too free,

I hate politicians, young and old, Who will not do as they are told.

I hate the Congress; I'm glad it's done, And the next I'd like to chase with a gun.

The people are fools, or they'd jump with glee At the chance of helping and praising ME.

I'll go ducking, I swear I will; Forget the country and dream of Lil.

Bring up my tender, the Violet; Upon this voyage my heart is set.

I strive to stifle the painful sob, But my heart will pine for Captain Bob.

Ah, wait; on another command he's gone, But at least he's left the demijohn.

Avast, avast! I will slaughter ducks; Nobody but ME amounts to shucks.

Up steam! Let my banner be unfurled, I'm still the Greatest Man in the World.

Relief in Six Hours.

It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. R. Smith & Co., druggists, Hillsboro, O.

He—if you would but say yes, Amanda, my love, I would treat you like an angel.

She—I believe you. Nothing to eat and less to wear! Not me!

Headache is the direct result of indigestion and stomach disorders. Remedy these by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, and your headache disappears. The Favorite little pills everywhere. W. R. Smith & Co.

A Leavenworth man swallowed some Mexican jumping beans for quinine capsules, and said he felt like a hail-storm inside.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured J. G. Gorrell of the worse case of eczema ever known in the State of Indiana. It cures scalds, burns, indolent sores and never fails to cure piles. W. R. Smith & Co.

A city girl writes: "It is a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife, and meander with him down life's flowery pathway." Ah, yes, that is a nice dream to think about, but when you have lived on the farm and followed this meandering business for a month or so, you will discover a wide chasm between the dream and the reality. You will think of this about the time your husband meanders out and leaves you without wood, and you have to meander up and down the lane pulling splinters off the fence with which to cook dinner. And when you meander around in the wet clover in search of the fond dreams do not always pan out 100 cents on the dollar, and that there are several meanderings in farm life that are not listed in the dreaming category. No, the meandering business on the farm is not what it's cracked up to be.—Er.

A gentleman of this county who has excellent judgment remarked to us the other day that he knew of no pill, so good for constipation, dyspepsia and liver complaint, as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. R. Smith & Co.

Her First Attempt.—And what a surprise it will be to dear George! she was saying to herself. "It fits lovely, and I mean to make all my things after this and save my dressmaker's bills. It isn't every man has such a wife. I'll wear it to the progressive euchre club to-night; I know not another single woman will have a new thing on. I'll just sew in this last sleeve, and then I'll have it on when George comes home, and—"

There was a shriek, and the fall of 127 pounds among the sofa cushions. She had made both sleeves for the same arm.
