AKRON, O., Sept. 9.—Saturday morning a tramp appeared at the residence of Jacob Weming, a farmer of Uniontown. On her husband's return, later in the day, she informed him of her philanthropic work, and was astonished to find that she had been more charitable than she supposed, for in one of the pockets was a roll of bills amounting to $200. TRADE REVIEW.

Favorable Crop Reports From All Directions Continue—Exports of Wheat From Both Coasts Amount to 2,800,000 Bushels.

New York, Sept. 7.—Bradstreet Saturday says: Favorable crop reports from nearly all directions and a continuance of the boom in steel and iron continue to characterize the general trade situation. Latest advices as to the corn crop have replaced anxiety with confidence in the larger estimates of the size of the crop and satisfaction with the outlook for trade this autumn. Harvesting and threshing are interfering a little with business in the spring wheat country, yet Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul jobbers in general lines are pushing for new business. In South Dakota and Washington farmers show no disposition to sell their grain.

The growth of bullish speculative feeling engendered by expansion in trade and industry was partially checked toward the close of the week by continued gold exports, London's bearishness, and the low prices for the agricultural products of the country.

Exports of wheat from both coasts of the United States and Canada this week amount to 2,360,000 bushel, against 1,371,928 bushel last week; 3,207,000 bushel in the week a year ago; 4,902,000 bushel two years ago; 3,507,000 bushel in the week in 1892, and 4,725,000 bushel in the like week in 1891. Indian corn exports continue to expand. In the third week of August the total sent out was 1,195,000 bushel, and this week it is 1,405,000 bushel, compared with 127,000 bushel in the week a year ago and 673,000 bushel two years ago.

Three Drowned. GREENSBORO, Ga., Sept. 7.—Three men were drowned in the Oconee river Thursday. Two Negroes, Albert Goss and John Armor, started to mill with some corn to get it ground. When they reached the ferry they found the river very high from the recent rains. Ira Caldwell, son of the ferryman, undertook to carry them across on a flat-boat. When they reached the middle of the stream the boat was caught in the current and swept down the river half a mile and over the dam, 15 feet high. The boat was shattered on the rocks and the men were killed or drowned.

Assaulted by a Motorman. ELYRIA, O., Sept. 7.—Motorman Jas. Carter made an assault upon Capt. Flannigan, of Cleveland, who was visiting in Lorain. Flannigan got on the front of the car with the motorman, and was ordered off, but refused to go. Carter, it is said, then struck him on the head with the motor crank, knocking him off the car and cracking his skull. Flannigan is 78, very small, and enjoyed the distinction of taking the first steamers out of Cleveland and Lorain harbor. Carter is under arrest.

Drowned in the Flood. BALTIMORE, Sept. 7.—In fifteen hours 4.7 inches of rain fell in this city Friday. One death, the result of the storm, was reported late Friday night. Mrs. Annie O. Smith and her son were washed off the footbridge that spans Jones falls at Mount Washington. The young man succeeded in reaching the shore, but his mother was carried down the stream. Police are patrolling the stream in hope of recovering the body of the unfortunate woman.

One Killed and Two Injured. HASTINGS, Mich., Sept. 7.—Robert Bryan, of Coates Grove, was employed in driving a well, and was blasting with dynamite through a large rock Friday. As he stood by the well with a cartridge in his hand, ready to drop into the pipe, the cartridge exploded with terrific force, killing him instantly and severely injuring Mrs. Henry Ragle and Miss Whitney, who were standing near.

Fraker, who is under arrest for swindling life insurance companies. There is not the slightest doubt of his identity. He was recognized by over a dozen prominent people, whose acquaintance extended over a period of ten years.

An Unexpected Appointment. BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Bishop Charles McDonnell arrived home Friday morning from Rome, whither he had been summoned by the pope. On his arrival the bishop announced that the pope named P. J. McNamara, the vicar general of Brooklyn, a monsignor. This appointment was wholly unexpected by Father McNamara.

Smugglers Heavily Fined. PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 7.—Judge Belinger, in the United States court, Friday, sentenced Seid Beck, the wealthy Chinese merchant convicted of smuggling, to pay a fine of $5,000. James B. Lotan, ex-collector of customs, was sentenced to pay a fine of $8,000. He was convicted of being implicated in the smuggling ring.

The Cuban Republic. NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Sun Friday morning says: The first recognition of the Cuban republic of the near future should come from the United States army, the eldest and greatest of the free nations of this hemisphere. To be behind Peru or Mexico, or Venezuela, or Brazil, in this respect, would be an everlasting disgrace to our country.

Belligerent rights for the Cubans are being fought now the same battle for liberty that our forefathers fought and won, not more than a century ago! Let the recognition be speedy!

A CIRCULAR

To the Southern Cotton Growers by President Lane.

All Possible Causes, Except Frosts, Have Combined to Make the Crop Below the Average—This Will Cause a Material Advance in Prices.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9.—Hector D. Lane, president of the Cotton Growers' Protective association, has issued a circular to the southern cotton growers which appears Monday. He says: In the discharge of my duty to you, as the president of your association, I have personally examined the cotton states as far as one can reasonably do such a thing, and have received many communications from entirely reliable sources in every part of the southern cotton region.

The crop is now here above, and in all save a few localities, is below the average. All possible causes, except frosts, have combined to produce this result, the causes varying with the locality—drought, rust, boll worms, excessive rains and shedding. It is generally three weeks later, and in such a condition that a frost at the average date would be disastrous and before that time a calamity. The plant is notably deficient in fruit, and the bolls are small and badly developed.

I do not pose as a statistician and no one can make any accurate forecast of the result of the crop before frosts but from my knowledge of present crop conditions, I venture the opinion that the crop can not in any event exceed 7,000,000 bales, while 4,500,000 bales is by no means improbable. The English and European spinners who consume the majority of the American crop and upon whose necessities to purchase we must largely depend for prices, have been induced by their resident alien professional crop estimating representatives, Mr. Neil and his able bear conductors, to believe that the official reports of crop conditions and acreage are untrue; that the supply of cotton will be ample and that even present prices are abnormally high.

In my humble judgment, if the consumers of cotton here abroad believe that the maximum of this crop has been a strong probability of being below seven millions, there would be a material advance in the price of cotton. Clearly in the presence of a great trade revival the farmer ought to capture his share of the harvest of high prices. No country can take the place of supplying the world with cotton as the south. He is not like the wheat grower. Wherever the sun shines and the rain falls, wheat can be grown. The American farmer is not a generalist, and has no counterpart on the earth.

The present situation is entirely under your control. The entire spinning capital of the world—an aggregate five times greater than the combined wealth of the Rothschilds—arrayed against you, and under their banners march a plunging band of speculators and gamblers, whose trade is to lie and bear false witness against the industries of twenty millions of people.

The Manchester Guardian boasted last year England did not care if the farmer owned the rags he stood in as long as England bought the cotton he produced cheap.

This guerrilla band of speculators and estimators would have taken every rag you own. Their main hope and argument is that the south will make and sell the bulk of its crop in four months. My earnest advice, therefore, is to market your cotton with reasonable intelligence. Do not rush it all forward between now and Christmas. Do not press it for sale except where absolute necessity compels. The spinners must have your cotton. Their mills are going with profitability, and the loss attendant upon the stoppage is too great for consideration. Husband your cotton and sell when they need it, and then you will get what it is worth, according to the true and undisturbed operation of the laws of the political economy.

All newspapers in the south are respectfully requested to publish the address of the President American Cotton Growers' Association. Your obedient servant, HECTOR D. LANE, President American Cotton Growers' Association.

LIBRARIAN SPOFFORD Cleared of the Charge of Dishonesty—There Was No Ground for the Sensational Story. WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—It is understood that the treasury department has, after an interval of several months, resumed the payment of funds for the expenditures of the congressional library. This would appear to show that Librarian Spofford's accounts have been settled, and that, as his friends have always believed, there has been no grounds whatsoever for the sensational story in regard to the administration of his office and the charges that wrong had been committed there.

The department's refusal to pay Mr. Spofford the money he needed was due to a delay in making reports of funds collected, which delay was caused by the fact that Mr. Spofford had too much to do. He should have had a financial clerk long ago, and an effort will be made when congress meets to have such an official authorized. These withheld payments caused the apparent and increasing deficiency in his accounts.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

James Ward Kills His Father-in-Law and Brother-in-Law, Then Suicide.

SULLIVAN, Ind., Sept. 7.—James Ward murdered Aaron Hunter, his father-in-law, and John Hunter, his brother-in-law, near here Thursday night by splitting their heads open with an ax, and committed suicide by shooting when he was surrounded by a posse determined to lynch him. The murderer lured his victims to their death. A domestic quarrel led to the horrible tragedy.

Thursday night at 11 o'clock Ward and Aaron Hunter were in town and apparently arrived at a satisfactory understanding. Ward insisted, however, upon the old man going to the woods for the purpose of hunting coons. While the hunt was in progress and Hunter was sitting on a stump, Ward hit him on the head with an ax. His head was split wide open.

When Hunter fell Ward struck the prostrate body again and cut off the head. The ax sank into the ground. The murderer then proceeded to kick the head of his victim about. He then went home, awoke his wife and told her to call her brother, as he and the old man had treed a coon, and ask him to come and help fell the tree. The younger Hunter got up, went out into the yard with only his shirt on, when Ward, with a stroke of the ax, felled him to the ground. Young Hunter died almost immediately with his head split open. Ward then told his wife to keep quiet about the whole affair.

That if she did not she would suffer the same fate as her father and brother. Ward then went about half a mile down the road and stopped at the Breckets' home. He told Mrs. Breckets that he had killed both the Hunters. Before many hours the country was generally scoured by a posse consisting of farmers and miners.

Ward had two revolvers and this fact was known by his pursuers. The posse became enraged and when the old man's body was found the mob became more determined than ever and determined to hang Ward if caught. Just as the posse had located Ward and surrounded the field in which he had been hiding a single shot was heard. The posse closed in on the spot from whence the firing had come and found Ward on his back on the ground with a revolver in each hand and a bullet wound under the left ear. He was dead.

Why Chairman Kurtz Called Upon Senator Quay. COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 7.—The Press published Friday evening a story in explanation of the recent visit of Charles L. Kurtz, chairman of the Ohio republican executive committee to Senator Quay at Pittsburgh. The substance of it is that a coalition is made between Foraker and Quay in behalf of Reed, of Maine, for the presidency in consequence of the work of Wm. Hahn, of Ohio, who has been in New York the last two weeks in the interest of Gov. McKinley's presidential boom. If the republicans carry Ohio this fall, as they expect to, Foraker will be in full control in this state, and Kurtz is said to have reported to Quay that while the Ohio delegation will be nominally for McKinley, at least two-thirds of them will be at heart for Reed, and will go to him upon the first opportunity.

THE CHENG TU RIOTS. The United States Government Will Conduct an Independent Investigation. WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The United States government has decided to enter forthwith upon an independent investigation of the Cheng Tu riots with the co-operation of a Chinese representative. There are also understood to be several reasons why the state department has decided upon an independent investigation such as France has already made and such as England will make later. The department is not yet prepared to make these public. The investigation is expected to be made by some official now on the Chinese coast. It will probably take a month to reach Cheng Tu, which is the capital of the interior province of Szechuan, and lies some 1,500 miles from the nearest ocean port.
