The Sardinia reed and brass band takes this means of thanking the good people of Hillsboro for the courtesy shown them at the race in that city last Monday. Especially do they appreciate the excellent treatment received from the Hillsboro band boys.—Sardinian.

A late swindle game is for a stranger to get permission to leave a carriage for a few days in some farmer's barn. At the end of a week or two the stranger returns and demands pay for the carriage, claiming the farmer had bought it. A number of eastern Ohio farmers have thus been swindled.

Ed. Weyer, of Cincinnati, is here shaking hands with his many friends. Ed. and his brother Fred are proprietors of the Owl restaurant, on Vine, between Sixth and Seventh, opposite the Palace Hotel. This is an elegant and popular resort, and we rejoice to know that the boys are doing well.

Will Lloyd, who was buried alive for sixty-two hours at Cincinnati, tried it the other day at Chillicothe. In less than three hours he yelled for them to spade him out. When they reached him he was nearly suffocated with heat. Chillicothe is too close — well, we mean it's too far from heaven.

Though not so intensely hot as some other days had been, Friday was the first day on which any heat prostration occurred here. In the afternoon A. K. Kelly, John Duffy, and Mrs. Richard Burns were all stricken down. But each is setting along nicely. Mr. Kelly seems to have suffered the most, being still confined to his bed.

Moonlight Fete.

Taking advantage of the full moon Friday evening, a jolly crowd of young folks picniced in the beautiful grove at Hogland's crossing. The event was in honor of Miss Maud Wakefield, the guest of Miss Hattie Mahan. The chaparones were Mr. and Mrs. Will Kibler. The party left town about six o'clock, in buggies, carriages and on wheels. About 7:30 they enjoyed a splendid lunch at the grove, and a merry evening was spent in social games and song. Among the features of the occasion was fortune telling by the local clairvoyant, which furnished infinite amusement. The first "fortune," however, was so indefinite and the second so unfavorable that others could not be induced to venture. Below are the names of the merry crowd: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kibler, Misses Nan Larkins, Etta Hoyt, Hattie Mahan, Maud Wakefield, Bessie Hickle, Madge Chaney, Clara Rockhold, Florence Harsha, Jean Bowles, Rose Miller, Gertrude Miller, Olive Durnell, Feekin Walker, Thetta Walker, Messrs. Geo. Garrett, Will McCafferty, Sam Amen, John Sands, G. W. Barrere, jr., McKnight Walker, Fred. Murdock, Thos. Watts, Guy Hickle, Will Smith, Jas. McSurely and Dr. Charles Larkins.

We have had several fine showers since Sunday. The mercury has dropped several notches, and the man who was swearing and sweating last week is now looking furtively at the cedar chest where his winter flannels lie folded up with moth balls between them.

There will be an ice cream festival at Marshall, for the benefit of the M. E. Church, Saturday evening, July 17. Miss Pearl Cusick, the noted elocutionist, will be present, and contribute to the pleasures of the evening. Music will be furnished by the Marshall Band. Everybody cordially invited.

Lawrence Parks was in Portsmouth last week, and the papers there give him a handsome notice. Parks was hunting ice, and the fact that the Portsmouth factories find a home demand for all they can make, is an indication of what might be depended upon in Hillsboro, if we should erect a plant.

An exchange observes that many farmers who are in the habit of dehorning their cattle, may be surprised to know that when they do so they are violating the law and laying themselves liable to a heavy fine. It is not generally known but this decision was recently rendered; so if you get into trouble do not say that you did not know it.

S. V. G. John Campton; L. S. S. P. Van Pelt; R. S. S. R. J. Duffey; L. S. S. John Stevens; I. G. J. M. VanZant; O. G. Emanuel Young; Chap., W. S. Rudisill.

There are immense amounts of the best oak in the world shipped from this place to be manufactured elsewhere. Then we buy the manufactured articles and have them shipped back to us. How much better it would be if we could manufacture the wooden articles and ship them abroad, retaining what we needed for our own wants. There's no better place for such industries than Hillsboro.

Howard Felter is the lucky printer boy this time for lo! his story entitled "A Witch of Salem," wins, with three thousand contestants, the second prize, ($25 00), offered by the Pathfinder, and our office feels the honor particularly. We are always glad when one of our boys comes to the front. May he write many more stories and win even more substantial proofs of their merits.—Williamsburg News.

James Smalley, whose serious illness was mentioned last week, died last Thursday. He was one of our best known citizens. He was an industrious, exemplary man. He was forty-eight years of age, and leaves a wife and three children to mourn their loss. By trade he was a carpenter, and had long been in the employ of Penoc & Guyler. His death was due to Bright's disease, from which he had long been a sufferer. The funeral services occurred at Rainsboro, Saturday, and the interment at Road's Cemetery, near Barrett's Mills.

The Banner is Ours.

The State banner for best work in the State, was tendered the Highland County C. E. Union, at Dayton. A meeting of reception for the northern and eastern parts of the county, is to be held at Petersburg, Sunday evening, July 18. This will be a meeting of rejoicing. Come over. A good program will be rendered. Remember, old Highland always gets what she goes after, when merit is counted.

Our good friend, J. W. Campbell, of the silver Sardinian, was in town the other day. He drank deep and long of our Clear Creek nectar, and then became alarmed for its political effect. He said it was so different from the favorite beverage across the "county line." It left such a different taste in the mouth. But, come what might to him, he thought Brown county would still go Democratic.

It is a settled fact that the light iron on the Hillsboro road will be relaid with heavy rails. A mile or so of new iron has been laid on the Sardinian end. It is related of two passengers, that, when they struck this smooth place and the cars were gliding along without a jar, one of them jumped up in alarm, exclaiming, "My God, what's the matter?" "I don't know," said the other, in an agitated voice, "but I guess we must be off the track!"

Misses Clara Rockhold, Madge Chaney, Bessie Hickle, Florence Harsha, and Messrs. Fred Murdock, Dave Reece, Guy Hickle and Julius Feibel went to the "Point" Sunday to enjoy an outing with the purpose of returning in the evening. But the storms came and the rains descended, and Monday morning saw their wheels being brought back in wagons, while they availed themselves of the back line.

The C. H. & W. R'y. has not been frightening the horses between here and Jackson, nor blocking our crossings of late with endless traffic in freight. But it's not dead. An examination of its pulse reveals a strong throbbing of life. In order to make it get up and whoop and hoot, it only needs the general revival of business that's on the way, and some good newspaper man to whisper in the ear of Eastern capital and inspire confidence in the veracity of Milt McKeehan and Capt. Hiestand.

At Martinsville, Clinton county, a few days ago, a colored man named Wallace stopped at the roadside to repair his bicycle. John Ludden, a tough character, came along in a buggy and ordered the negro out of town. Wallace, of course, refused to go, when Ludden got out and struck him on the head with a stone. Wallace was felled to the ground, and as he rose, Ludden came at him again. Wallace cut his assailant with a knife so that death resulted in a short time. Wallace is out under $700 bond.

The following ladies will please contribute to the Presbyterian market, this week:

Medames Seybert, McSurely, A. A. Kennedy, Vinsonhaller, Lewis Holmes, Frank McKeehan, Williamson, Vanzant, Thomas Miller, Sarah Patton, Ann Morrow, Harry Spargur, Moore, Anderson, Julia Woodrow, Jane Ayers, Mary Higgins, Keys, Lewis Ambrose, Lena Carson, Elton, Misses Ervin, Jennie Jacobs, Blanche McCafferty, Mary Stevenson, Jennie Brooksbank, Lizzie Chaney, Bowles and Maggie Wilson.

Wm. Bierly, of Portsmouth, dropped dead the other day. He had bet his last dollar on an "ace full" hand, and George Wilson "raked in the pot" with a "straight flush." What these terms mean, we have no idea. They are probably medical technicalities gathered from the verdict of the Coroner. Perhaps Doctor Larkin could explain them. At any rate, poor Bill died, and he's been dead ever since. Now, we want to beg all our friends, especially during the summer time, to wear cabbage leaves in their hats, and keep at a safe distance from "ace fulls," "raked pots" and "straight flushes."

Solomon Glick is a peddler, and a few weeks ago he had a wagon and $1300 worth of goods. Our Lynchburg correspondent told how he left his outfit with Benjamin and Isaac Shaper, at that place, while he made a trip to Cincinnati. When he came back the wagon was as bare as Mother Hubbard's corner shelves. Immediately Solomon had Benjamin and Isaac arrested. But he hadn't sufficient evidence at that time, and Esq. Orebaugh dismissed them. Since that he has secured clues to several shipments and found some of the goods. Solomon has had his Hebrew brethren re-arrested. The case was brought before Esq. Wilkins, and the accused each gave bond in the sum of $500. "And the cup was found in Benjamin's sack."

C. W. HIGGINS

The victory achieved by Mr. Samuel DuBois, of this city, in winning the twenty seven mile handicap road race at Hillsboro, Monday afternoon, is one which he is justly entitled to be proud of, inasmuch as he triumphed over twelve starters, including Rooney, the crack Xenia wheelman, and Keating, of Columbus, who has won a number of hard fought road races in fast time. The start and finish of the race were witnessed by Messrs. Joseph Steel, William Isham, Albert Merkle and Charles Madeira, of this city.—Chillicothe Gazette.

There will be an entertainment at the Presbyterian Chapel, Friday evening, July 16th, at eight o'clock. Miss Mary French Field, the talented daughter of a talented father, Eugene Field, has kindly consented to give some of her inimitable recitations, from her father's writings.

Miss Field's reputation as a parlor reader, is established, and certainly there is no more honored, nor better household word than the children's poet friend, Eugene Field. Comment is unnecessary. The public cordially invited. A musical program will be rendered.

Rev. John Hall, a Menonite preacher, has been holding tent meetings at Blanchester, and praying for the wrath of God to descend upon the churches and people of the place. Whether the answer came from above or below is a mooted question, but there came a blast of heated breath the other night, and it yanked his tent from the ground and shook it and tore it like a terrier would shake a rat. And now he wants the people of Blanchester to give him money to buy another. Whether that preacher has God's love, we don't know, but we'll testify to the fact that he has the devil's nerve.

The tax duplicate of Hillsboro has fallen off several hundred thousand dollars in the last few years. The town is hard pressed for money to meet its actual needs. Now, to add interest to the situation, comes Temple G. Hoggard, claiming to represent a class of the oppressed who live in the territory annexed to the city not long ago. He wants the City Council to refund the municipal taxes they have paid, or put in water mains and extend the arc light system. Then he finds fault with the shapes of former Councilmen, and wants everybody to join the Prohibition party. We don't know what's going to be done about it. It wouldn't be any trouble at all to take Ellis Pence and Hugh Ervin and Dr. Brown and whittle them down to Mr. Hoggard's ideal. But when it comes to paying back the taxes received during the past three or four years, great jumping Jehosapat, Hoggard, you've got us. And as for extending the water or light system just now, the best we could possibly do would be to have you bring in your jug and get it filled with stand pipe or forty horse power electricity, full proof, volted and ampered. But, if you can manage to cling with a desperate grasp to the ragged edge of existence a little while longer, these things will all come right. The sun of Prosperity is beginning to dawn beyond the dome of Washington.

The Royal Blue has come. It is at Garrett & Ayers. The best 5ct. cigar in town.
