THE WHEAT AND THE TARES.

International Sunday School Lesson for March 13, 1898.

[Based Upon Peloubet's Bible Notes.]
THE LESSON.—Matthew 13:24-30; 36-43.
 Read the whole chapter.
GOLDEN TEXT.—He that soweth the good seed is the Son of Man.—Matt. 13:37.
TEXT.—On the more of the Sea of Galilee, near Capernaum.
EXPLANATION.

Note first, in reading over this chapter of parables, why Jesus now began this method of teaching, connecting it with chapter 12, which we studied last week, the chapter of opposition. Keep in mind always the life of Christ as a whole, and note the bearing of each lesson upon the development of His work. Keep in mind the general subject of each chapter or division; for Matthew's history is different from the others, in that it describes more the internal progress and development, and is less a chronological history. Each chapter or section has its own special subject, collecting together a number of similar incidents bearing upon that subject.

The group of eight parables spoken at this time (seven in Matthew and one other in Mark) were concerning the Kingdom of Heaven in various aspects, and should be read and studied as a group, in order to obtain a view of the drift and burden of Jesus' teaching at this time. Note that these parables are followed by a group of miracles, as was the Sermon on the Mount, in the record given by Matthew, as if on purpose to confirm the teacher's authority for the great truths He spoke.

The Parable of the Tares Jesus first told to a multitude that had gathered to hear Him. After the people had gone away the disciples asked Jesus to explain it. We can do no better than relate the parable in Jesus' own words, and give His own matchless interpretation of it:

24. Another parable put He forth unto them, saying: The Kingdom of Heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field.

25. But while men slept his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and went his way.

26. But when the blade was sprung up and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him: Sir, dost not thou sow good seed in thy field? From whence then hath this tares?

28. He said unto them: An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him: Will thou then that we go and gather them up?

29. But he said: Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares ye root up also the wheat with them.

30. Let both grow together until the harvest; and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers: Gather ye together first the tares and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn.

31. Then Jesus sent the multitude away and went into the house; and His disciples came unto Him, saying: Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

32. He answered and said unto them: He that soweth the good seed is the Son of Man.

33. The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one.

34. The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers are the angels.

35. As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world.

36. The Son of Man shall send forth His angels, and they shall gather out of His kingdom all things that offend and them which do iniquity;

37. and shall cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

38. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

This could probably be reviewed in no better way than under its separate heads thus: (1) The field is the world. Vs. 24, 38. (2) The sower (God and the good seed. Vs. 24, 38. (3) The enemy sowing tares (while men slept, i. e., at night in secret). Vs. 25-27, 38, 39. (4) Wheat and tares growing together. Vs. 28-30. (5) The two harvests. Vs. 30, 39-43.

The main emphasis of the lesson is to be put upon the facts, which are to be sharply distinguished here from any speculations we ourselves or others may have regarding those facts. One of the facts is that both wheat and tares have been sown in the same field. Another is that both will be allowed to grow together until the harvest. A third is that the tares will be in the end absolutely destroyed. And a last is that the wheat shall be gathered together where no tares can come: "Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father." Bad men are found in the church, in every reform, in every good cause, and to the apparent retarding of progress in the cause of righteousness and reform. Jesus gives the simple explanation: "Lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them." Christians themselves are educated and disciplined by contact with the tares. They would not be nearly so good if shut off in a community by themselves. Tares would still come in. If the wheat does not seek to change the tares into wheat, the wheat will degenerate into tares.

QUESTIONS FOR ANSWERS.

1. Relate the parable in your own words. 2. Who is the sower of the good seed? 3. Who and where is the field? 4. Who are represented as the good seed? 5. Who are the tares? 6. Who sows the tares? 7. When will come the great harvest, and who will be the reapers? 8. What will be the end of the tares? 9. What will become of the wheat? 10. Is there any hope that the tares may become anything else by contact with better things? 11. What is Jesus' explanation of the reason for not rooting out at once and for all time the tares from the midst of the wheat? 12. What is His final warning in v. 42?

Present Duty Our Only Duty.

Our present duty is our only duty. We need never worry over to-morrow's duties or to-morrow's trials. The duties and the trials of to-morrow have no existence, except in fear or fancy. We may have left this life before to-morrow becomes to-day. It would be indeed a pity to fail of doing our best to-day because of those things which we think of as to come, but which may never manifest themselves as a reality. All that we have to face at any time are to-day's privileges and responsibilities. If we do present duty well, that is enough.—S. S. Times.

A Minister's Trials.

This narrative from a minister is of greatest value to those whose nerves are unstrung, health shattered or otherwise ailing. It is particularly appropriate in this age of active, nervous, endless labor.

"We are living too fast. 'Fast as lightning,' expresses it, for we talk by electricity, cook by electricity, travel by electricity and so on.

It is a hurry, hurry, hurry from the cradle to the grave.

We crowd too much; crowd our work, crowd our eating, crowd our pleasure, crowd our sleeping.

A 'breaking down of the nervous system' is the way of expressing the result. It means a depletion of the nerves induced by prolonged strain; overtaxing of the nervous system; a product of over-hurry and bustle.

It affects all people in all walks of life. It baffles physicians of all schools.

No one knows the horrors of such a condition better than Rev. J. N. McCready, of Elkhart, Mich. For years he labored faithfully and well. He was progressive and aggressive; a leader among men, a deep thinker and a hard worker.

In his zeal, he overworked; overtaxed his mental and physical strength.

The outlook was dark, with health shattered and recovery apparently hopeless.

Many seasons a cure were tried, without receiving benefit.

Finally he took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and was restored to health.

He says:

"In April, 1876, the physicians said I must stop preaching or die.

"I had overtaxed myself and was suffering from a complete breaking down of my nervous system and a persistent stomach trouble.
