

Hood's Pills. Cure sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, gas in the stomach, distress and indigestion. Do not weaken, but have tonic effect. 25 cents. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

B. & O. S. W. R. Y.

Trains leave Hillsboro as follows: For Cincinnati, 7:45 a.m. 2:30 p.m. For St. Louis, 7:45 a.m. 2:30 p.m. For Chillicothe, 7:45 a.m. 4:15 p.m. For Parkersburg, 7:45 a.m. 4:15 p.m. For Columbus, 7:45 a.m. 2:30 p.m. For Pittsburg, 7:45 a.m. Daily except Sunday. SUNDAY TRAINS ONLY. For Cincinnati and West—8:15 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. For Columbus and Pittsburg—8:15 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. For detail information regarding rates, time on connecting lines, sleeping, parlor, dining car, etc., address J. E. Banda, Ticket Agent B. & O. S. W. R. Y., Hillsboro, O., or O. P. McCarty, G. F. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

Cures Piles or Hemorrhoids, Fissures & Fistulas, Burns & Scalds, Wounds & Bruises, Cuts & Sores, Boils & Tumors, Eczema & Eruptions, Salt Rheum & Tetter, Chapped Hands, Fever Blisters, Sore Lips & Nostrils, Corns & Bunions, Stings & Bites of Insects. Three Sizes, 25c, 50c, and $1.00. Sold by druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

PATENTS

Copyrights and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Inventors. Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington. Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured. A pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address: C. A. SNOW & CO., Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

HILLSBORO MARKETS.

Table with columns for Wheat, Corn, Oats, New Potatoes, White Beans, Butter, Eggs, Young Chickens, Chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Bacon, Lard, Hay, etc. Includes sub-sections for BUYING PRICES, RETAIL PRICES, and LIVE STOCK.

CHARLES INGEBRAND, DEALER IN

Fresh Meats of All Kinds. STORES AND FAMILIES SUPPLIED WITH

FRESH BOLOGNA

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O! Ask your Grocer today to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. 1/2 the price of coffee. 10c. and 25c. per package. Sold by all grocers. "I see the veterans are beginning to go to the front again." "The front? Why, man, the war's just over." "What of that? The burlesque show business is just opening up." Low Rates via B. & O. S. W. R. Y. International Exposition, Omaha, Neb. Tickets on sale going and returning between June 1st and October 15th. For the round trip, $24.00.

FRANCE SHAKEN

Scandal Will Follow Henry's Confession to The Forgery of That Letter. The Arrest of Col. Paty de Clam One of the Results—Steps Taken Toward Ordering a New Trial for Ex-Capt. Dreyfus. New York, Sept. 2.—The Evening Journal's Paris dispatches have this to say of the suicide of Col. Henry: "The way out of the world was made easy for him. Apparently he was not searched when taken to the prison, for it is on good authority that he carried the razor in his satchel. He can tell no more now. It is charged that the government asked him point-blank to commit suicide, saying it was the best way to avoid the terrible scandal which must follow his confession, and which would tarnish the honor of the French army. Ultimately Henry did as persuaded and now many secrets will be buried with him in his grave."

LIEUT. COL. HENRY.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The Echo says there is reason to believe that the minister of justice has taken steps toward ordering a new trial for ex-Capt. Dreyfus. It is significant, the paper adds, that Lieut. Col. Henry committed suicide shortly after being visited by an officer of the general staff, who, after a prolonged stay, ordered the sentry at the door not to disturb Henry, as he had a great deal of work to do. After the departure of the officer Henry must have written his farewell letters, including telegrams addressed to Gen. Boisdeffre and M. Cavaignac, minister of war, and then cut his throat. An officer of high rank is authority for the statement that M. Cavaignac is convinced that Henry did not initiate the forgery of the fabricated letter, and every effort will be made to discover his accomplices. It is rumored that the arrest of Lieut. Col. Paty de Clam is imminent, and there is also a widespread belief that a majority of the officers of the general staff will resign.

Later in the day La Patrie announced that Col. Paty de Clam had been arrested for complicity in the Dreyfus forgery. PARIS, Sept. 2.—It is now insinuated that the suicide of Lieut. Col. Henry, the chief of the intelligence department of the French minister for war, was connived at by the French army authorities. In any case, the suicide occurred shortly after the prisoner had received a visit from an officer of the general staff, who, on leaving, ordered the sentry on duty before Col. Henry's place of confinement not to disturb the prisoner, as he had a lot of work to do. It is recalled that a similar opportunity to commit suicide was afforded to Dreyfus, who, however, declined to profit by it.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The Dreyfus case presents no new features but there is a plentiful supply of rumors. The first of these is that Dreyfus is dead, no letter having been received from him for some weeks. Another report is that Gen. Boisdeffre, who has just resigned the post of chief of the general staff, has committed suicide. Both these rumors are undoubtedly without foundation. Col. Paty de Clam is on a vacation trip in Switzerland and there is no confirmation of the statement of La Patrie that he had been arrested for complicity in the Henry forgery.

The Public Debt Statement. WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt issued Thursday shows that on August 31, the public debt less cash in the treasury was $1,012,870,717, which is a decrease for the month of $24,789,711. This decrease is accounted for by a corresponding increase in the cash on hand due to the receipts from the war loan.

Gen. Merritt at Hong Kong. WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The war department has been advised of the arrival at Hong Kong of Gen. Merritt and Asst. Adj. Gen. Babcock.

Spanish Cabinet Crisis Probable. MADRID, Sept. 2.—Thursday night several deputies have expressed a strong belief that a cabinet crisis will follow immediately on a meeting of the cortes. The probable composition of the new conservative ministry is being discussed.

Miles Leaves for Home. WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The war department is advised that Gen. Miles departed for this country from Peking Thursday on the transport Anshank.

A CONSUMING EXCITEMENT.

Not Since the Fall of Sedan Has France Seen So Overwhelmed—Col. Henry's Forged Letter. PARIS, Sept. 3.—Among the many wild rumors floating about Friday was one that some one stole into Col. Henry's cell and assassinated him. LONDON, Sept. 3.—A special to the Evening Standard from Paris published Friday afternoon, says the French cabinet has decided on a revision of the Dreyfus case. It was announced Friday afternoon by the Paris that several officers of the general staff have decided to resign shortly and divulge all they know of the entire Dreyfus affair.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

GEN. BOISDEFRE.

New York, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Tribune says: Col. Henry's confession of having forged the famous document upon the authenticity of which Gen. de Boisdeffre, chief of staff of the French army, in his impassioned appeal to the jury in the Zola trial staked his own reputation and the honor of the army and Col. Henry's suicide in the fort of Montevale, have caused an emotion throughout France which has not been witnessed since the fall of Sedan. Col. Henry, a peasant's son, promoted from the ranks and imbued with all the instincts, low cunning and narrow personal animosity often characteristic of French peasants, had no conception of the enormity of his crime until overwhelmed by its detection. This brave but infatuated chief of the intelligence department of the French army embodied the whole head and front of Dreyfus' conviction, of Zola's condemnation, of Esterhazy's acquittal and of Piquart's degradation and imprisonment. The government is doing its best to stem the rising tide of agitation by a studied quiescence which scandalizes the Journal Des Debates and other papers; but it may succeed in getting over the crisis. M. Faure ignores the reproaches of the press and remains at Havre. In the meantime M. Cavaignac, minister of war, and M. Sarrien, minister of justice, are busy enough. M. Sarrien had two prolonged conferences with M. Brisson Friday afternoon, and after M. Cavaignac's long interview with M. Sarrien, both ministers looked ruffled. These and other impromptu ministerial conferences were devoted to an endeavor to convince the minister of war of the necessity on political grounds of a revision of the Dreyfus case, which the whole country, including the army, now demands. High officers confess that the discussions that will follow revision will probably entail war, but they say that would be preferable to having the army remain under a cloud, with the possibilities of agitation leading to civil strife.

ARRIV. D IN NEW YORK CITY. President McKinley Arrived in the Metropolitan Friday and Went to Montauk Point Saturday Morning. New York, Sept. 3.—President McKinley's party arrived from Canton Friday. The special train, with the presidential party on board, was due at 11:50. It pulled into Jersey City station 10 minutes late. In the party are Mrs. McKinley, Maj. Webb C. Hayes and Col. Myron T. Herrick. Vice President Hobart and Mrs. Hobart came in from Patterson, N. J., and waited in the station for the president's party, which they joined. J. Addison Porter, the president's private secretary, also joined the party. He said the party would go to New York and dine and then start for Montauk, which place would be reached at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Express Company Will Pay the War Tax. CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—At a special conference Friday of the representatives of the Adams, American and United States express companies, it was decided that the companies would from this date bear the expense of the war tax instead of requiring the public to stamp consignments. Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

Revenue Man at the Fair. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—W. J. Zacharias, of Brookville, deputy collector of internal revenue, swooped down on the Rush county fair grounds Friday. He found one man selling whisky, four men dealing out hop ale, four shows and several other things which had not paid the new revenue tax. He made a general cleaning. When he had finished collecting he had a roll of bills as thick as a man's arm. The amounts ranged from $100 down to $10.

DISOBEDIENCE.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm. Cervera will be court-martialed upon his return to Spain and in all probability severely reprimanded or degraded in the service. This action will undoubtedly arouse the chivalrous sympathy of Americans against the Spanish ministry. The trial of Cervera, however, is not merely a cloak to hide the administrative weakness of Spain in the late war. The Spanish commission, which corresponded to the war board at Washington, had prepared a definite plan of campaign. Adm. Cervera was ordered to proceed to Martinique, where he was informed of the position of Sampson's ships. From Martinique he was ordered to Havana by a certain course on which he could be reached at several points by dispatch and supply ships. All went well according to the plan up to Cervera's departure from Martinique. No sooner had the Cape Verde fleet left Martinique than the Spanish board realized the futility of any naval operations in Cuban waters. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it is a positive fact that dispatch boats were to be hurried to meet Cervera and order him to the Philippines. Plans for coal and supplies had been carefully laid to meet this emergency. But Cervera, taking matters into his own hands, instead of following the course prescribed leading to Havana, deliberately locked himself up in Santiago.

On Cervera's Return to Spain He May Be Court-Martialed. He Was Ordered From Martinique to Havana, But Instead He Went to Santiago de Cuba and Landed His Fleet in the Harbor. PARIS, Sept. 3.—From a responsible diplomatic source it is learned that Adm