Mrs. George Siders, aged 70, died early Tuesday morning of pneumonia. There will be brief services held on her morrow at the home after which she will be laid to rest in the Belfast cemetery.

Rev. Hunter, of Tennessee, will preach in the Presbyterian Church at 3 p. m. next Sunday. John Newkirk's residence was burned on the 22nd inst. The fire caught in the roof about 11 o'clock. The wind was blowing so high that in a few minutes the entire roof was ablaze. Almost everything in the house was lost as it was impossible to enter the house a short time after the fire was discovered.

John Michael and wife, Clarence Woodman and wife and Clyde Dunlap and wife were entertained by Robert Cox and family Sunday. Miss Bertha Syferd spent Saturday and Sunday in Sabina.

Dr. J. R. Hull and wife, of Leesburg, were entertained by Walter McPherson and wife over Sunday. Purcell Earl, who was visiting here a few weeks during the winter, enlisted in the U. S. Navy in February and has been assigned to the battleship Wisconsin as private secretary under Capt. Morrell.

Rev. J. Howard and wife, of Hillsboro, were guests of Leslie McVey and wife on Wednesday. Walter McPherson was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Homer Clevenger, near Snow Hill on Wednesday.

The property belonging to Wesley Vanpelit on Main street now occupied by Jacob Swanger and family, was sold last week to Joseph Jones. F. M. Eubanks, living near Memphis, died last Thursday after a long illness leaving a wife and ten children. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. A. Washburn, and the body was taken to Centerville for interment.

The B. & O. Railroad Company have opened a night office here with C. E. Cook, of Leesburg, in charge. John Emish, who has had the agency here for some time has given up the place and V. C. Harper, of Carbondale, was put in charge April 4.

The lecture of Grand Master J. L. Sullivan Tuesday evening was very much enjoyed by a good audience. Four beautiful solos were well rendered by Misses Elva Morrison, Louise Head, Edna Adams and Alice Horsman.

PULSE.

April 6, 1908.

Mrs. Susie Brown and her daughters, were the guests of John Brown and family, Tuesday. Miss Lola Roush, of near Mt. Orab, spent several days last week with her cousin, Ruth Roush.

Charlie Cadwallader and family spent Wednesday with Wesley Fawley and family. Quite a number from here attended stock sale at Hillsboro, Saturday.

Charlie Wents, of Hillsboro, was a business caller at J. H. Duvall's, Friday. Miss Alma Chaney and brother, Charley, were the guests of Joe Chaney and family, in Brown county, Friday.

Mrs. Lon' Barker and son, Ozro, visited relatives at Hillsboro, Sunday. William Sanderson and wife were the guests of Ben Cochran and family, near Danville, Wednesday.

Gertrude and Stella Whitley spent several days last week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cochran, and family. Orlan Cochran and family spent Sunday with C. C. Saunders and family.

Mrs. Gotham—Isn't this scandalous about the fire department's defective hose? Mr. Gotham—Yes, dear; and please don't forget my defective hose today. They need darning, you know.—Yonker's Statesman. Sally Gay—What a cunning little fellow Mr. Calliper is? Dolly Swift—Cunning? Why look at him—he's dreadfully bow-legged. Sally Gay—Yes; but that gives him such an arch look, you know.—Pick-Me-Up.

RAINSBORO.

April 6, '08.

M. B. Park and family, who have been spending the winter in Hillsboro, moved back to the farm last week. Several of the friends of Miss Magie Beath gathered at her home last Tuesday evening and gave her a pleasant surprise in honor of her birthday.

Reed Traber, of Peebles, was the guest of friends here over Sunday. The Ladies Aid Society will be entertained at the home of Mrs. J. B. Davis on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Oleta Mercer, who has been in health for some time, was taken to the home of her grandfather, Dr. D. N. McBrice, of Hillsboro, last week for treatment. Foster Bell, of Marshall, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. T. W. McCoy, Saturday night and Sunday.

The Sunday School of the M. E. church will be reorganized on Tuesday night of this week. A large monument to the memory of the late Lawyer Henry Rhoades was erected in the Roads cemetery last week.

Frank Cameron, of Cynthiana, has bought a half interest in the McNary store and the business was opened this morning under the new management. The Aid Society had a comfort knotting at the home of Mrs. C. A. West last Thursday for the benefit of the McCoy family who lost their good by fire last week.

T. M. Thoroman came up from Adams county last Saturday to note the changes in our village since he moved away. Herbert Barrett had the misfortune to have his buggy wrecked by a fractious horse as he was going to a party last Tuesday night.

W. J. Reekey attended the meeting in the interest of the traction road at Bainbridge on Wednesday afternoon. The children of the public school gave the family of Hanson McCoy a liberal donation on Tuesday of last week.

As T. W. McCoy was returning from Peebles last Saturday evening his horse became unmanageable near the Spargur school house and completely wrecked his buggy. Bert Deakye and family are moving today to the Spargur farm just south of town.

The post office of our neighboring village of New Petersburg was robbed on Wednesday night of last week. Dr. J. A. Mercer and wife were called to Hillsboro this morning on account of the serious condition of their daughter. Several of our prominent citizens will attend the traction meeting at Hillsboro today.

Silas Hodge was taken suddenly ill on Sunday night and has strong symptoms of pneumonia. Mrs. John Snider died this morning after a few months illness with tuberculosis. She leaves a husband and three small children to mourn her untimely departure.

COULD NOT DECEIVE MOTHER.

Fond Parent Saw Unmistakably the Sad Plight of Her Son.

The famous son was coming home to pay his mother a visit. He was a pianist; had been sent abroad by wealthy friends for a four years' course in his chosen fine art; had thereafter spent a year on the concert stage there and behind a vanguard of newspaper reports of his success abroad, both musically and financially, he was now coming home.

When his train drew into the depot at Plattsville and came to a stop, the pianist, evincing the artistic temperament in his hair, as well as in his manner, descended to the platform. At the same time the crowd of enthusiastic townspeople drew aside to allow his proud but modest mother to be the first to welcome her son.

When she had reached him, however, she suddenly gave a gasp and stood stock still staring at him. The next moment she burst into sobs and fell on his neck. "Henry, my poor Henry!" the poor woman cried. "They told me you were doing so well over there, and makin' money plentiful. My poor, poor boy!"

"What's the matter, mother?" exclaimed the bewildered son. "What makes you doubt what they told you?" "Oh, Henry," she cried, unappreciated. "I kin see how you've suffered. You haven't been able to scrape enough money together to get your hair cut!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Mark Twain as a "Frost."

In the North American review Mark Twain tells the story of the Atlantic Monthly dinner to Whittier, December 17, 1877, at which he spoke and had the frostiest reception ever known even in Boston: "I didn't know enough to give it up and set down. I was too new to public speaking, and so I went on with this awful performance and carried it clear through to the end, in front of a body of people who seemed turned to stone with horror." The trouble was that he made profane use of the names of Boston's literary idols—a story of three western men who would be kings, and in the stony meantime gassed them selves off as Emerson, Holmes and Longfellow, all of whom, of course, were present at the dinner. Mark Twain says he will never be so miserable again as he was then, and the misery lasted a year or two. Lately he has had the courage to hunt up his speech in the newspaper files, and he now prints the stenographer's report of it. It would not nowadays shock Boston, but then Mark Twain has himself since then become a literary idol; in 1877 he was still a "humorist."

Wagner a True Prophet.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Richard Wagner brought Wagner stories old and new, true and false, in great numbers into the German papers. One of these, published in a Vienna paper, entitled "Jean Paul As a Wagner Prophet," is to the effect that in the second decade of the last century he wrote an introduction to one of the works of C. T. A. Hoffmann. "Before this was finished," so goes the story, "Jean Paul heard that Hoffmann was not only a poet, but a musician of no mean order, and he added to his introduction: 'So much the better, so much more seldom. Heretofore the sun god has always bestowed the gift of poetry with his right and the gift of music with his left hand upon men so far apart that we are still waiting for the man who can write and compose an opera.' The introduction is dated Bayreuth, November 24, 1813, the year of Wagner's birth, and, strangest of all, it was written in the place where the wish was later realized."

Animals in the British Courts.

The Irish terrier which exhibited its tricks the other day at the Westminster police court is by no means the first animal which has relieved the tedium of an English court of law by its antics.

In a Manchester police court a baboon which appeared in the dock with its owner on a charge of breaking into a fowlhouse showed its contempt of the court by stealing and chewing up pens under the very nose of the magistrate.

At a London court 109 frogs were produced in evidence; in another case a porcupine was exhibited on the witness table of a county court to show whether or not it was worth the money claimed for it; while among other animals which have made similar unconventional appearances in recent years have been cats, donkeys (not, however, allowed within the precincts of the court) and a baby lion.—Westminster Gazette.

Something About Calendars.

"Free calendars are scarce this year," remarked the pedant, referring to his notebook, "but if you happen to have one of 1812, 1840, 1868 or 1896 about the house it will do just as well as a 1908 calendar. And here's a hint to the thrifty—if you will save this year's calendar it can be used again in 1926 and 1964. If you would keep one 28 years you might have some fun with it then."—Kansas City Times.

Where She Caught It.

"What's the matter with you this morning, Della?" asked Mrs. Wise. "Oh, ma'am," replied the domestic, "it's the terrible carache I have this mornin'!" "Well, you should be careful, Della. All the keyholes in this house are very drafty."

You can't go wrong unless you go elsewhere

MERIT—SUCCESS

We sell cheap but we sell a heap

Have We Merited Our Success?

This question is easily answered by the thousands of satisfied patrons of this establishment. When you come into this store you are impressed with its general successful appearance. A store that in comparatively so short a time, has worked itself in the hearts of so many people who swear by it, who would not buy elsewhere anything they can get here. WHY? Because from the very beginning it has been our strictest rule to sell only goods of merit, and at prices far below the prices you have been used to paying. OUR MOTTO has, and always will be, to give you a little more than your money's worth. IT IS TRUE, we have made many friends, but we never expect to sell goods to any one through this friendship. We do, and only expect to sell goods on their own merit and the merit of their prices.

We name only a few prices in this paper, compare them with the prices you are paying—Read them over carefully.

CANDY.

If you have ever bought candy here you know, and if you have not, you ought to find out. Our fancy candies at 10c a pound are equal to any candy you ever bought at 20c a pound.

SEEDS.

Our 20 bushels of onion sets were sold out before others commenced to sell theirs. Why? Because we sold them for 10c a quart, while others asked 12 1/2 and 15c. Our garden and flower seeds are going the same way. So you want to hurry up.

We can write a whole catalogue of prices, but this paper must have something else in it beside our ad so we must let up.

POST CARDS.

We are headquarters for Post Cards. If it's new we have it.
