Doesn't that ticket nominated Tuesday "look good to you?"

There is no reason why every Republican should not vote a straight ticket this fall.

"A winner" is the answer of every Republican when asked his opinion of the ticket nominated Tuesday.

Only a little over three weeks till the Fall Exposition. Get your pumpkins and chickens and needlework and things ready.

We would further call attention to the fact that the pemican upon which Dr. Cook largely subsisted was not preserved with benzoate of soda.

The Republican candidates for municipal and township offices are all good, clean men, and the entire ticket will undoubtedly be elected.

Milwaukee is to have a home coming, the strange feature of which will be that anyone, in view of that city's allurements, should ever have left home.

But, at this rate, even discoverers of the north pole may become much more plentiful and consequently cheaper before the next Chautauqua season.

The man who frequently remarks that the more he knows about people the better he likes dogs can add another epigram to his repertoire: No dogs, no pole.

The Hillsboro and Highland County Exposition, Oct. 5, 6 and 7, will be the biggest thing of the sort in Southern Ohio this fall. You can't afford to miss it.

It was certainly unclimatic of Doc. Cook to discover the north pole before Walter Wellman could find a piece of twine and some court plaster to mend his balloon for another

Many of our good citizens, who didn't have time to attend the primary, will in all probability find that they have plenty of leisure in which to denounce the ticket nominated.

Competent and capable business men, who are alive to the interests of Hillsboro, are the nominees on the Republican ticket and if elected Hillsboro will have the right kind of a municipal government.

This fad of discovering the north pole is getting to be such a popular pastime that it is only a question of time when folks will have to go back to roller skating or bicycle riding for diversion.

We can peer through the mists of the not far-distant future and see those eminent explorers in political realms, Col. Bryan and Senator Tillman, playing second fiddles on the Chautauqua circuit.

A Kansas editor says that "the head of Lincoln appears on the new silver half dollar, the bust of Cleveland will be on the $10 certificate and that of Grant on the $50 one. We'll get a sight of Lincoln now and then, occasionally escape an acquaintance with Cleveland, but good-bye General Grant and God bless you!"

W. N. Bean, the Republican nominee for mayor of Hillsboro, is one of the solid business men of the town and if elected will give Hillsboro a careful and conservative business administration. Mr. Bean has never before taken an active part in politics but has always been active and foremost in every movement for the advancement and best interest of the town. It was only after much pressure had been brought to bear that he consented to be a candidate and with his record as a clean, honest, successful business man and citizen, he will undoubtedly be elected by a large majority.

According to Jim Faulkner the Columbus correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer there are "big doings in the Sixth District woods." If he has it right Clinton, Brown and Warren counties have many Republicans who desire to go after Mat Denver's scalp and represent this district in congress. Ex-congressman Charles Q. Hildebrand and Senator Frank M. Clevenger, of Clinton county, Walter L. Remley, of Brown county, and John M. Mulford, editor of the Western Star and postmaster of Lebanon and Representative Lawrence Langeon, of Warren county, are all in the field according to his dope. This makes five candidates in the field and Clermont, Greene and Highland counties yet to hear from. With the convention eight months off it would seem that there will be "something doing" when it convenes.

BRANCH STORE

Of New Ironclad Opens Under Favorable Conditions at Greensburg, Ind.

The following account of the opening of the branch store of the Ironclad clothing store of this place, at Greensburg, Ind., is taken from the Daily News, of that place. The branch store is under the management of Charles McGrail for many years connected with the Ironclad here:

"The Ironclad, Greensburg's new and up-to-date clothing establishment, was opened to the public this morning, and from the first business hour to press time this afternoon a stream of people have passed through the doors.

"The establishment is an exceedingly attractive one. Everything is strictly up-to-date. The stock is spick and span and the fixtures are beautiful, convenient and imposing.

"The proprietors are exceedingly clever and sociable gentlemen and took interest in showing everyone through the place today. No one was asked to purchase, yet nearly everyone that entered the store today, and there were hundreds of them, bought before leaving. Everyone registered and will stand a chance to win the twenty dollars in gold that the management give away absolutely free. Each visitor was presented with a souvenir, a pen and pencil combined."

"The man who cries 'Fire!' or 'Murder!' in a theater," declared Judge I. G. Kimball in the District Police Court at Washington, D. C., a few days ago, in fining Isaac Kirkstein, a tailor, $25 for yelling "Murder!" in a moving picture show house "is to be classed with the man who rocks a row boat." Kirkstein had created a panic in the theater by shouting "Murder" when attendants attempted to eject him for refusing to wear his coat.

Easy Money.

"Dan Patch Day" Tuesday, at the State Fair, was a success—a big success for the owner of the great horse. The match race between Dan and Minor Heir was offered as an attraction for $5,000. The fair people thought that a trifle steep, even for a drawing card. Then a contract was made giving the horseman 65 per cent. of the gate receipts in excess of the average on Tuesday for the last two years. Yesterday the manager of Dan received a check for $9945.49 under the contract.—Ohio State Journal.

Nervous Lady—Don't your experiments frighten you terribly, Professor? I hear that your assistant met with a horrible death by falling 4,000 feet from a balloon.

Professor—Oh, that report was greatly exaggerated.

Nervous Lady—Exaggerated! How? Professor—It wasn't much more than 2,500 feet that he fell.—Puck.

"Y boy," said the head of the firm. "I've noticed that you have a great head for figures, although you don't seem to be able to spell or write at all. How does it happen?"

"I studied 'rithmetic," replied the office boy, "cause I wanted to know how to figure the battin' average."—Chicago Record Herald.

OHIO DAY AT SEATTLE

Will be Friday, September 4, and Gov. Harmon and Staff Will Attend.

The Ohio Society of Seattle has been notified that Sept. 24, will be the official Ohio Day at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The club numbers among its members many of the most prominent citizens of the city, and are all active in making the day one of the most successful state days of the exposition.

Governor Judson Harmon has notified the Exposition management that he and his staff will be in Seattle on Ohio Day. They will be guests of honor at a dinner and reception in the Washington State Building, and a number of social and other features have been provided for their entertainment.

Badges and suitable pin ornaments will be distributed by the Ohio Club and at the Exposition grounds, and the day will be made a time of reunion for all visitors and former residents of the Buckeye state.

The Exposition has now nearly reached the three million mark in attendance, and the daily average promises an attendance of over four million when the gates close on October 10. The live stock show will open on September 27, and continue until the 9th of October. It will bring together the best collection of high blooded stock and poultry ever viewed in the Northwest, and the prize list of $63,000 has caused to be exhibited some of the finest animals in the United States and Canada. One of the attractive features of the Exposition has been found in the war ships of the government seen in the harbor of Seattle. The government navy yard is located within a half hour's ride from the city, and a fleet of ships is usually stationed in the bay for inspection by visitors.

Modern Woodmen Sued.

Henry Konnecker, administrator of the estate of Robert Angardt, deceased, has filed suit against the Modern Woodmen of America for $100, which he claims is due the heirs of Angardt on a policy under the insurance branch of the order. The administrator claims that proofs of death have been filed but that the order refuses to pay the claim.

Angardt died Sept. 12, 1907, and the defendant to the suit will, it is understood, claim that he committed suicide, thus forfeiting the right of his heirs to recovery of the insurance.

How Flies Seek Food.

"Common opinion," says E. T. Brewster, writing on the house-fly in McClure's for September, "has it that the fly meditates profoundly on the conduct of life, knows what he wants and why he wants it, and deliberately joins the assembly around the top of the kitchen screen door to wait for the chance to dodge in when the cook comes out.

"As a matter of fact, the fly is no such rational thinker. He has one supreme motive in life, and that is—to move toward the strongest smell. He enters the house because there are more smells inside than out, and once in, he frequents the kitchen because there are more smells there than in the parlor. The fly does not find its food by sight, but by odor only. In fact, the fly's sight is extremely poor; for nature has never solved the optical problem of making a small eye see as clearly as a large one. The customary swarm of flies around the kitchen door means only that the kitchen windows are open at the bottom, and since the top of the door is the highest opening in the room, that, rather than one of the windows, is carrying the out-draft and the smell of yesterday's soup. The moral is, adjust the ventilation so that the out-draft shall be through a screened window. No fly will ever see a door open and deliberately fly in.

"For the same reason, all unused chimneys connected with fireplaces ought to be screened just as carefully as the windows. In the cool weather of early fall when the flies are worst, the chimney-draft is usually outward. The fly never hunts for an opening to come in by; but he does head upstream to an air current which bears the savor of most human foods. Therefore, when the air of a home goes out of a chimney the fly comes in."

Can you believe your senses?

When two of them, taste and smell, having been impaired if not utterly destroyed, by Nasal Catarrh, are fully restored by Ely's Cream Balm, can you doubt that this remedy deserves all that has been said of it by the thousands who have used it? It is applied directly to the affected air-passages and begins its healing work at once. Why not get it to-day? All druggists or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York, on receipt of 50 cents.
