The greatest war drama ever produced is "At Napoleon's Command," which will be shown at The Forum on Friday night for the first time in this city. Hundreds of men and horses are shown in action and the battle scenes are simply immense. You will agree with us when you see it. In addition to the above a fine split reel comedy will be shown entitled, "Their Idols" and "Foist on His Own Petard," making a big three reel show. Only three performances, at 7, 8 and 9 o'clock. Some time ago Charles Perry came to Batavia and copied the deed for the Erastus Hulick farm situated about three miles from Batavia. He then got William Morrical, of Oxford, interested in the place and then sold the place to him for $3500, $1750 of which was in cash, Morrical giving a mortgage for the balance.

Mr. Morrical came up to Batavia last Saturday to take a look at his farm and get the deed recorded but he found out that Perry did not own the farm and never had been heard of here. Perry has a good start and enough money to take him to safety, and the chances for Morrical recovering his money look mighty discouraging. —Clermont County Democrat.
