A Great Mistake.
It is a common and a great mistake for people to run their buggies or automobile year after year without having it repainted. It is even a greater mistake to have it improperly done. The purpose of paint is to protect the vehicle and improve the appearance of it. Poor painting may improve appearances a little but it will not protect it from the ravages of the weather. We do this work properly, using the same material and workmanship as on our fine new buggies. We dress top, curtains, aprons, dash and shaft leathers, overhaul and tighten the buggy generally.
We turn them out like new.
The price of repainting the regular pane seat buggy is $10. Try us.

To Be Happy.
There was once a wise woman who realized the possibilities of health for her husband and children at the family table.
She had learned by experience that pleasant conversation should wait on digestion, just as good digestion on appetite. Nutritious food she provided in variety day after day, but she went further than that. She made it a point that meal time should be hours of refreshment even more for the mind than the body.
Robert Louis Stevenson recognized humor to be a saving grace in that beautiful morning prayer of his.
"Help us," he says, "to perform the petty round of irritating duties and concerns with laughter and kind faces, to go blithely on the business of the day; to let cheerfulness abound with industry."
So the wise woman had every painful topic promptly dismissed at her board, and business cares and burdens were not so much as hinted at. Bright and gay talk only was cultivated by common consent.
The children were never scolded nor the father of the family called to book. It was not found difficult to keep the talk in pleasant channels, and the effort was amply repaid both at the time and later.

Finger Nails.
It is always amusing to speculate on the character of one's neighbor. A very simple aid in so doing is to watch the nails. If a man's or woman's nails are long and slender you may be quite certain the person is not so robust physically as the possessor of short, broad nails.
Whereas, men and women with the long, narrow type of nail are inveterate visionaries, those having short nails are almost always conspicuous by the strength of their logical powers. It is the latter who make the best and most reliable critics.
A further and almost certain characteristic of long-nailed people is their intense depreciation of themselves and their own efforts in any branch of work. The feeling almost amounts to pessimism with them. Such a point of view, however, seldom worries those possessing short nails. In fact, more often than not rather the reverse is the case; they are inclined to be overture of themselves.

Thought Samuel Was a Thief.
It was the Scripture lesson. The subject was the call of Samuel. The children had sung, "Hushed Was the Evening Hymn," which describes the call. The teacher then asked a few questions, one being, "What did Samuel do while Eli was asleep?"
"Stole his watch," was the prompt reply from one of the girls.
The teacher, somewhat annoyed at such an apparently senseless answer, called for the second verse:
His watch the Temple child,
The little Levite kept.
Now came the child's turn.
"Please, teacher, doesn't that mean that Samuel kept the old man's watch for himself?"—Strand.

Beginning Afresh.
Ralph Waldo Trine, writing in Harper's Bazar, says:
"Each morning is a fresh beginning. We are, as it were, just beginning life. In a sense there is no past, no future. Wise is he who takes today and lives it, and tomorrow when it comes—but not before it comes. The past is of value only by way of the lessons it has brought us. There should be no regrets or crippled energies that result from such. We have stumbled—all have stumbled."

Coal High Enough.
Mrs. Crimmonbeak—This paper says, dear, that aluminum will next year cost $280 for a metric ton of 2,204.63 pounds.
Mr. Crimmonbeak—Oh, well, I guess we'll still stick to coal!

You ate all your own cake and Mabel's, too, Tommie.
"Yes'm," replied Tommie.
"You'll be sick, child."
"Well, mother, you see if anybody was going to be sick I didn't want it to be Mabel."—Yonkers Statesman.
