

CHANEY'S ORPHEUM

Christmas Day & Night

Alice Joyce in
"The Riddle of the Tin Soldier"

A Two Part Detective
Feature, Very Thrilling
and of Absorbing Interest

Added Features:
John Tobin's Sweetheart,
Vit. Comedy and
The Girl Across the Way
Biograph

Big Four Reel Program. Special Matinee at 1:30 p. m.

Saturday, December 27

Mr. G. M. Anderson in
"THE DOCTOR'S DUTY"

A Superb Western Offering
of Merit

MR. G. M. ANDERSON

BIG FREE MATINEE FOR CHILDREN FRIDAY, DEC. 26, 1:30 p. m.

MARSHALL.

Dec. 22, 1913.

Mrs. B. E. Wright and wife, of Marathon, spent a few days last week with the latter's parents, Wm. Elliott and wife, and attended protracted meeting.

Mrs. Grace Kelley and sister-in-law, Faye, of Berryville, spent Wednesday with Burch Miller and family.

Harry Boatman and family, of Fall Creek, John Watts, of Bainsboro, Frank Lyle and wife, John Hunter and wife and Miss Myrta Watts were the guests of R. L. Watts and family Sunday.

Miss Grace Williams, of Fort Hill, spent Monday and Tuesday with Ray Boyd and family.

Miss Nellie Stethem, who has been teaching school at New London, returned home Saturday for a two weeks vacation with her parents, William Stethem and wife.

Miss Margaret Cameron called on Elva Spruance Saturday evening.

Don Lucas and wife took dinner with Joshua Gall and family Sunday.

Rev. Scarf, of Spring Valley, Rev. W. E. Shriver, Mrs. Josephine Saus and son, Norval, and Floyd Clyburn, of Bainsboro, Frank Lucas and wife, Roberta Lucas, of Lodore, and Jack Burnett and family were guests of C. E. Lucas and family Sunday.

Ed Cameron and wife and Misses Maude and Margaret Cameron, Elsie Bumgarner, Daisy Davis and Arch Cameron and Clarence Garen spent Sunday with Elmer Garen and family.

O. H. Hughes and wife and Miss Edie Elliott took dinner with R. R. Watts and wife Sunday.

Miss Daisy Davis took supper with Ed Cameron and family Saturday evening.

Miss Viola Sypherd, of Xenia, is home for a few days vacation with her mother.

JUDGE STEELE PASSES AWAY
Continued From First Page.

essed by few men. And amongst Judge Steele's friends and acquaintances, two subjects were constantly remarked upon: one was his gentility toward and lack of criticism of all and the other, the universal respect of others for him.

No man in the community had fewer harsh words to regret and none possessed more highly the confidence and esteem in the county and town where his long and active life was spent.

Judge Steele was a gentleman, not of the old school alone, but of every school in every time. He was not one who paraded himself as a gentleman, but by his conduct and demeanor, he forced from all who knew him the acknowledgement that he was a gentleman.

But whatever could be said of Judge Steele from a social point of view, and much more could be said, it was in his chosen profession of a lawyer that he provided his greatest usefulness and value to the community and county in which he lived. The work of a lawyer in the discharge of his duties, to his clients and the public may be compared to a dangerous weapon or a high explosive, in that its use is very valuable in the hands of one who can and will properly and intelligently control and employ it and very destructive when ignorantly, carelessly or improperly used.

Judge Steele had drunk deep of the fountain of the law and was noted for his great knowledge of its underlying principles. And coupled with this wide range of knowledge was a ready and accurate mental perception which enabled him at a glance to see with remarkable clearness the complete legal bearings of a question, all of which combined to place him at the head of the column and give his advice and judgment on intricate points of law, the weight of authority. And, when there were added to these qualities, his high ideals of personal and professional integrity, his strong sense of justice and absolute and never failing impartiality of judgment, he became the ideal, the honorable lawyer, who sheds luster upon and bring to his noble profession the confidence and respect of the people. These qualities Judge Steele was universally known to possess and their practice undoubtedly made his opinions and advice more generally sought than those of any other member of the local bar, especially during the latter half of his professional life, a position he held at the bar until failing health removed him from the ranks.

Judge Steele's mind was naturally of an analytical and investigative turn. He was a law scholar and while none surpassed him in the breadth and thoroughness of his professional knowledge, others there were more adept in the presentation and conduct of cases to juries, or as is frequently expressed, were better trial lawyers. But the best support that a trial lawyer could have in the trial of a case and valuable above his own brilliancy, however great, would be the wise, clear headed, sincere suggestions of Judge Steele. But in cases presented to the court alone, Judge Steele was pre-eminent, not alone because of his great knowledge of the law, but also because of his known sincerity and perfect frankness with courts that he would not urge on the court any proposition of law which did not have the fair and impartial endorsement of his own judgment.

But it was as a judge that Judge Steele performed his greatest service and that was the place where he signaled his great power as an expounder of the law and proved the far-reaching thoroughness of his understanding of the law as well as the possession of those invaluable qualities of temperament: Patience, justice and impartiality, which form the indisputable proof of strong moral character and convictions. Judge Steele served approximately 10 years upon the Common Pleas bench of this district, from Feb. 1872, to Oct. 1881, and long before the close of his service, was looked upon as one of the fairest and most thoroughly equipped members of the Ohio bench. It was while serving on the bench that he was thrown much with the late Judge R. A. Harrison, of Columbus, who for years before his death, was considered the head of the Ohio bar. Mr. Harrison was so impressed with Judge Steele's legal attainments and his broad and ready grasp of legal questions that he offered Judge Steele a partnership with him in the practice of law in Columbus, which was as high a compliment to Judge Steele's ability as is seldom received by any one.

Judge Steele never sought political office. On numerous occasions political preferment was his for asking, and, for the acceptance, but he was so devotedly wedded to his profession and its duties were so agreeable to him that he steadfastly refused to step out of his profession, though only temporarily, for political official life. Though busily engaged with professional duties, Judge Steele was always ready with a helping hand for

EVERYTHING MUST GO

We are closing out our entire stock of Millinery Goods regardless of cost, as we are going to quit business. We are going to do this if possible by the first of the year, no matter how great the sacrifice.

UNEXCELLED OPPORTUNITIES FOR BARGAINS

Hats for Children, Misses and Women, in Velours, Beavers, Plush and Velvet. Ribbons, silks, velvets, fancy feathers and wings, veiling of all kinds, large French head plumes, infant's underwear, coats and hosiery. Children's hats, flowers, etc. Everything sold at cost and below.

We give a few prices below which show how heavily we have cut our prices:

- Children's hats, value $1 to $3, sale price 25c to $1.00
- Beautiful Trimmed Hats, 98c, former price $4 and $5
- Baby Caps, value 50c to $2.50, sale price 25c to $1.00
- Infant's Underwear, coats and hosiery, value 25c to 50c

Your Choice in this SALE for 10c

Cohn's Millinery Store

West Main Street

HILLSBORO, OHIO

Fancy
urniture
or riendly
resides

Buffets, Rockers, Day-
enports, Parlor Sets, Mirrors, Divans, Bookcases, Hall Racks and Costumers

Buy
autiful
eds and est
edding

Bed-room Suits — All kinds in newest designs
Mattresses, Springs,
Chiffoneers, Chifarobes
and Dressing Tables.

Men!
ust
ove
uch

Save them many steps
by buying a Hoosier
Kitchen Cabinet. It is so useful that it must be seen to be understood and used to be appreciated.

OUR PRICES ARE WITHIN THE REACH OF ALL
WHEN AROUND OUR WAY PLEASE MAKE US A CALL

West Main Street

KINCAID & SON

FURNITURE DEALERS AND FUNERAL DIRECTORS

Hillsboro
Ohio

Lang's Smokery

NEXT DOOR TO HILLSBORO BANK

CIGARS, CANDIES, AND PIPES,
DOLLY VARDEN AND LOW-
NEY'S CHOCOLATES, SPAR-ROW'S & JOHNSON'S CANDIES

richer heritage to those he has left behind. He passed with the great satisfaction that comes from consciousness of a life well spent and duties well performed.

Misses Mildred Morgan and Bertha Bell will entertain a number of the younger set tonight with a dance at Bell's New Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgar Barrere, of Circleville, Miss Edith Gardner, of Washington C. H., and Ben B. Nelson, of Cincinnati, were here to attend the funeral of Col. George W. Barrere.

Agricultural machinery imported by Egypt during the first six months of this year has a value of $530,000 against $350,000 in 1912 and $260,000 in 1911.

WE OFFER THE MOST EXTENSIVE LINE IN

Fountain Pens

In fact, we handle the best which are offered for sale in the United States and sell them under guaranty at reasonable prices

Frank Emmerling

Jeweler & Optician

"Not the only time we wish you well,—
But one of the many, many times —
MERRY CHRISTMAS!"

THE SPIRIT OF
this 1913th Christmas-time prompts
us to express our Appreciation to the community collectively and to each of our friends individually, for any part they have played in making this a most prosperous year for us.

May December 25th be numbered among your YULETIDE memories as the Happiest Christmas of them all,—is the wish of

The Farmers & Traders National Bank