New Lynchburg Paper.

The first issue of the Lynchburg News was published last week. It is a clean, newsy paper, a credit to the town, the community and its editor, R. E. Stroup. Lots of news and a liberal advertising patronage adds to its appearance typographically. Mr. Stroup in his salutatory states that the paper will be independent politically and that its object is to promote the social and commercial welfare of Lynchburg and tributary territory. The Lynchburg Industrial Club is back of the News and assisting Mr. Stroup to give the town a good paper. If the paper can be kept up to the standard set in the first issue it deserves the enthusiastic support of the citizens of Lynchburg.

Some of the foremost art and dramatic critics in America claim that the animated scenes in the actual hues of nature as presented by Lyman H. Howe whose Travel Festival comes to Bell's Opera House on Thursday, March 12, cannot be surpassed. The fidelity and beauty of these colors, they say, make the scenes resplendent beyond comparison. But even aside from this wondrous reproduction of natural colors, it is difficult to exaggerate the importance of the views in themselves. They portray life in foreign lands and under unfamiliar conditions in a manner that no amount of written description can rival. If man's chief study is mankind, surely Mr. Howe's Travel Festival is the royal road to acquire such knowledge because it reveals with extraordinary faithfulness and truth the activities and pageantry of life everywhere. What enhances Mr. Howe's exhibition above all others is the fact that he confines his reproductions to the realities of life—not to imaginary or dramatic productions—and consequently, since "An ounce of Fact is worth a Ton of Fiction," the inherent worth of this entertainment, from an educational standpoint—aside from its merits purely as an entertainment, is indisputable. adv

Wool that never saw the back of a sheep is being used largely in Europe for making men's clothes. It is known by the name of limestone wool, and is made in an electric furnace. Powdered limestone, mixed with a certain chemical, is thrown into the furnace, and after passing under a furious blast of air is tossed out as fluffy white wool.

Howe's Travel Pictures.

Forewarned is forearmed. Ladies who contemplate a trip to the Grand Canyon of Arizona and who expect to undertake the adventurous descent into the depths of the Canyon should wisely witness Lyman H. Howe's reproduction of it at Bell's Opera House on Thursday, March 12. They will not only see exactly what the trip implies but also what it involves. For one thing, they will note that no woman attempts to make the trip unless she first dons a divided skirt. In fact, this special skirt is imperative as anyone will admit after seeing Howe's reproduction. The trail at the outset seems utterly impossible of descent. After traversing the first downward mile, the grades seem to become more and more frightful. That so few accidents occur here must be ascribed to the fact that the much ridiculed mules really know much better how to scramble over or cling to the walls of perpendicular rocks than human beings do. They may slip and glide, stumble and jolt, deeper and ever deeper into the chasm, yet they are so surefooted and manifest such sound discretion that there really is not so much cause for fear as the conditions seem to warrant.

Thrilling rescues of survivors from an ocean greyhound during a terrible gale; a conflagration of several hundred thousand barrels of oil; an aeroplane ride over Paris; the wondrous forms of marine life; a study in palmistry; yachting scenes off Monte Carlo; and a motor ride through the French Alps are some of the other big features to be presented. adv

All Meat Guaranteed To Be Sweet

We have installed a "York Ice Machine," the latest device for keeping meat cool and having the same temperature regardless of the changes of the seasons. The freezing process is a dry one, absolutely free from moisture. The evaporation of ice is bound to cause some moisture which tends to alter the sweetness of the meat. This is the most up-to-date plant in Southern Ohio. Call and give us a trial.

75 per cent of the wire which goes into fencing is made by the American Steel & Wire Co. It matters little to them who weaves it into fencing. They get their profit. But compare American with any other and you will find you are getting more pounds for your $ than any other fencing made. That is the real life of the fence. All we ask is weigh other fences with ours. We will abide by the result.
