Death of Mrs. Emily F. Hinkle. On Wednesday last after a very brief illness, Mrs. Emily F. Hinkle, wife of Mr. S. V. Hinkle, editor of the Herald, died, in her thirty-sixth year. Mrs. Hinkle had been slightly indisposed for a few days, but neither the family nor physicians entertained any fears of the fatal termination that so rapidly followed, until Wednesday, when neuralgia of the heart set in, and, despite the efforts of her physician, she expired about two P. M. The funeral exercises took place on Thursday morning, at the family residence on East Main St., conducted by Revs. Rudisill, of the M. E. Church, and Tedford, of the Presbyterian Church. The remains were taken via the O. & N. to New Paris, Ohio, the residence of Mrs. Hinkle's parents, where the interment took place on Friday. Mrs. Hinkle was a member of the M. E. Church, and her class of little girls in the Sunday School were among the most sincere mourners. James Chesnut, J. M. Lively, Irvine Dunagan, W. M. Johnson, Geo. J. Reiniger and R. U. Wilson were pall bearers. Rev. Rudisill and Mrs. H. Mackley accompanied the family to New Paris.

Mr. Hinkle and his family have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

Card of Thanks. NEW PARIS, O., July 22, 1888. I desire to thank the columns of your paper for the kind and heart-felt sympathy that my friends, and the friends of my darling wife, for their ministrations of kindness during my recent sorrow. The sympathy thus shown was so real and feeling—as like a kindred spirit, it entered my heart and made it much more easy to endure the sad calamity.

To the ladies of the Foreign Missionary Society and W. C. T. U. for beautiful floral offerings, most beautiful symbols of the work in which they as well as the departed were earnestly engaged, I can only express my appreciation.

To Rev. J. E. Rudisill, Mrs. H. C. Miller and Mrs. J. H. Mackley, especially for my deepest and lasting gratitude, in addition to the above, in accompanying me and mine upon the saddest trip of our lives, for their consideration, may Heaven reward all.

J. H. Rickman has been appointed to deliver an annual address at the Annual Meeting of the G. U. Order of Odd Fellows, held at Harris' Station, Thursday, July 20th.

Mrs. John F. Hall, Mrs. D. H. Darling, Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Mrs. R. W. Evans, Mrs. Lee Dollison, all of Coalton, were in attendance upon the W. C. T. U. meeting Tuesday.

J. H. White, at Chicago, received the Unity Degrees of Oddfellowship, which are similar to the Subordinate and Encampment Degrees of the L. O. O. F. A branch of that kind will be organized Wednesday, August 1.

J. M. Kimberling & Bro. will open on September the 1st a Fashionable Cloak and Dress Making Shop in connection with their Store, with Miss Kate Mekling, of Baltimore, as foreman. Prices guaranteed to be as low as the lowest.

A cloud-burst at Wheeling on Thursday raised the Ohio River three feet in fifty minutes. The Main Street bridge in that city was swept away, with twenty of thirty persons hanging upon it. Twenty-five persons were drowned in and around the city, and the loss of property amounts to $150,000.

W. H. Sloan has an interesting memento of the Presidency of Wm. Henry Harrison in the form of a brass button, on which is a log cabin and the ever present barrel of hard cider. Mr. Sloan's father was a postmaster during Harrison's administration, and this button was a favorite style in that day.

See change in the advertisement of J. M. Kimberling & Bro. This firm has secured the services of Miss Kate Mekling, of Baltimore, a lady who is thoroughly versed in her profession, and will open up a first class Dress and Cloak Making Shop, on September 1st. Persons contemplating having work done in this line, will do well by calling at the store room of J. M. Kimberling & Bro. and leaving their orders. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed.

A street fakir swooped down on our town to-day and caught the boys all napping. He was an expert and swindled them out of about $50 before they could get away. He caught county officials, business men, statesmen, speculators, scrubs and all making a clean sweep. There are several fellows who are looking for a good stool jacksack to do them a square job of kicking.—The County Republican.

Tell your fellows not to look any further—we have got the animals they are on the hunt for. They have from one to three watch chains each, but they can do the kicking better than if they didn't have them.

The great firm of Sternberger Bros. goes right ahead, regardless of the warm weather, selling stack upon stack of goods. The boys never have any intermission in their immense trade, and to those who have ever had any dealings with them this is no object of wonder.

The lowest prices, the best goods, and the most polite attention to customers, strengthened by their universal reputation for square and honorable dealing, has been the secret of their success. A person who has been fortunate enough to trade with them once is not afraid to try them again. The boys are just now offering some grand opportunities to persons who would like to get a bargain. Call and see them. Corner opposite Court House.

A writer who signs himself "Ex-Student" occupies over a column in the Columbus Sunday Herald of the 22d in attacking the Standard for its position as editor and President of the Ohio State University are notoriously inefficient, and that until a new faculty is provided the decrease in attendance that has marked their career for the past six years, will continue. The founding of the Ohio State University at Columbus was one of the greatest blunders for which legislators are sometimes notorious, there being a ready-made Ohio University at Athens, with an established reputation, an honorable history, and a permanent but inadequate fund for its support, to which added the support of the State now given to the Columbus failure, Ohio would have an institution reflecting much more credit on her than she now has.

The meeting of the Eleventh Congressional District Convention of the W. C. T. U. was held in the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, beginning at 8:30 A. M. Among the distinguished workers of the temperance cause who were present were Mrs. H. L. Monroe, of Xenia, Mrs. Judge De Steiguer, of Athens, and Mrs. King, of Hamden, all of whom read papers, and the program as printed in last week's paper was practically carried out. Appropriate memorial services in honor of Mrs. James D. Brown, of Athens, Mrs. James Chesnut and Mrs. S. V. Hinkle, of Jackson, who have died within the past year, were held in the afternoon, Mrs. De Steiguer offering a touching tribute to the worth of Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Rev. Rudisill reading an appropriate memorial of Mrs. Chesnut and Mrs. Hinkle. Mrs. Monroe delivered an address at 7:30 to a good audience.

OBITUARY. HINKLE.—Emily Francis Hinkle, daughter of Guy and Hannah F. Bloom, was born in Preble County, Ohio, August 11, 1851. She was married to Mr. S. V. Hinkle August 14, 1872. She united with the Christian Church in New Paris, November 2, 1882. The untimely death of her husband was a shock to the entire community. At the protracted meeting in the M. E. Church, over a year since, she earnestly sought to be brought into a closer relation to God. We believe up to the time of her death she was earnestly striving to live a Christian life. The bereaved husband and his motherless children have our warmest sympathy in this great sorrow. May the God of all grace comfort them.

DEAR FRIEND AND COMRADE:—Our long and pleasant association together has bound us closer than mere acquaintances, and as your sincere and earnest friends we feel that in this your bereavement and bitter trial we wish we were able to make some lighter the burden, some less poignant the sorrow, but that only a mightier mind can do.

But we join in this assurance of our warmest, deepest sympathy with you and your little children, and hope that all with whom you and yours shall meet, may feel as kindly towards you as we do, and may be as desirous of helping to alleviate your grief.

With tenderest sympathy, we are, Your True Friends, H. OLENDORF, W. CALDWELL, JNO. H. DAUBER, Committee.

Some five weeks ago Henry H. Amos, of the firm of Amos, Shields & Co. contractors and builders of Hamden Junction, went to Chillicothe for the purpose of buying a bill of lumber and transacting other business for the firm. About nine p. m. of the evening he was there, in company with Mr. Bernstein, he started down town in the direction of the C. W. & B. to take the train home. Failing to return home when expected, his family and friends became very much alarmed for his welfare, the officers at Hamden and Chillicothe at once began a vigorous search for some trace of him resulting in nothing but finding Ames' pocket book, empty, lying near the railroad. As he was known to have some money the conclusion was at once jumped at that he had been murdered for his money and his body thrown in the river. So strongly did this theory lay hold of his friends that the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows of which orders he was a member, organized a party and went to Chillicothe and spent a whole day dragging the river. It now turns out that Amos was not killed as much as thought to be, he having been heard of at Springfield, Missouri, and later at a point in Arkansas. His absence is said to be partially explained by the fact that he left creditors in Hamden and elsewhere interested in him to the extent of about $1000. Mrs. Amos who is a most estimable lady has been in a precarious condition ever since her husband's departure, occasioned by the uncertainty as to his fate.

Female Beauty. It is a fortunate thing that all men do not have the same taste in female beauty, for otherwise they would all fall in love with the same woman, which would be awkward. Although the preferences for men for different style of form and feature vary greatly, it is, undoubtedly, a fact that an appearance indicative of health is pleasing to all alike. A woman may be without regular features, yet, if healthy, she will be beautiful to some one and pleasing to all. A sallow complexion, a dull eye, a system debilitated by unnatural discharges, in short, all the ills attendant upon the irregularities and "weaknesses" peculiar to the sex, can be banished by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
