WELCOME, VETERANS!

The 7th in Xenia To-day!

GLORIOUS RECEPTION!
A Speech from the Court House Steps!
PREPARATIONS FOR A GRAND DINNER AT THE FREIGHT DEPOT.

The Seventy-fourth Regiment is to leave Cincinnati this morning at 7 o'clock, and will arrive here before noon.

After forming at the depot they will march to the Court House, from the steps of which they will be addressed by Rev. William T. Findley.

After the speaking they will march to the freight depot, where a grand dinner will be given to the gallant veterans.

Throw the starry banner to the breeze! Hang out the latch string! Let all the people turn out! Give the heroes a fitting reception!

Greeting, gallant boys of the Seventy-fourth! Welcome, heroes! Welcome, heroes! Welcome, heroes!

Living in homes of plenty and happiness, you left them, and all their near and dear associations, and with your lives in your hands you went forth to do battle for our imperiled country and its glorious institutions.

The people are aware of the fidelity with which you have executed your trust. They have watched, with the closest attention, your conduct in the great war, and from their hearts they exclaim, "Well done, good and faithful servants!"

They have listened to recitals of your bravery, when the thunder of rebel cannon roared around you, and bloody death rained through your ranks.

You have followed the starry banner of your country's glory through blood and carnage, and to-day they bid you welcome to the hearthstones of your own homes, and the loving arms that will embrace you then, and when you return again to the field their thoughts will follow you, and their prayers will ever ascend for your safe deliverance from the temptations and dangers of the camp and the battle-field.

Let all, male and female, old and young, come out to-day to greet the veterans.

Wood Procession.
Last Tuesday was the day appointed for the second Wood Procession in Xenia.

The day came, and with it a bright sun and a clear sky. Although the roads were, in some districts, almost impassable, the farmers responded nobly to the call made in behalf of the soldiers' families.

At an early hour the streets were thronged with wagons. The active and energetic city committee were prepared to receive the contributions, and in an incredibly short space of time, the wood was distributed among the families in the different wards.

The provisions were received and dealt out, and the patriotic farmers might have been seen triumphantly exhibiting to unfortunate outsiders certain printed tickets, which seemed to denote that the performances would close with an afterpiece.

A little inquiry brought us the information, that the ladies of Xenia, whose generosity is never at fault, had provided a dinner for the contributors, and that a table was prepared in Fireman's Hall, for the feeding of the multitude.

We were unable to be present, but are informed that there was a general good time. The farmers came with good appetites, and the preparations of the ladies were sufficiently ample to provide for all.

The Committee thanked the farmers for their kind donations, the farmers thanked the ladies for their bountiful dinner, and the memory of the brave soldiers, who have left their families to serve their country, brought thankful feelings to the hearts of all.

The following is the report of the Wood Committee:

"Pugilistic" Corrected.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

If we can not have the truth, or something near it, published, we had better have nothing at all, especially when the tendency is unfavorable. Being the only witness to the affray you stated to have taken place in the "daguerrean gallery" last week, I feel it my duty to the parties, to the public, and to truth, to say:

1st. That no such scene as you described took place there.

2d. That no man was "knocked down" there.

3d. That in the trial it was not proved that any "negatives were broken." There was not one word said about "negatives" in the trial.

4th. If there was any "cracking of the learned man's affirmative" (does anybody know what that means?), I did not see it.

5th. It is an absurdity to speak of weighing "vanity" by the "ounce," and a plain contradiction to the laws of nature to say that it or anything else ever "vanished into vapory nothingness."

THE DAGUERREAN MAN.

The above was written by "the daguerrean man," and he did it through convictions of "duty to the parties, to the public, and to truth." By this it will be seen that "the daguerrean man" does something besides take "pictures"—he labors in the cause of the "public" and "truth." These are both very worthy causes and "the daguerrean man" must be a philanthropist. He says: "the man was knocked down." Glad to hear it. It hurts to be knocked down. "The daguerrean man" says nothing was said about "negatives." Sorry. We spoke of the "negatives" for the purpose of advertising "the daguerrean man's" business, for we thought it worthy of notice, as we understood he had one or two "negatives" taken on board at full length. He says that it is "against the laws of nature"—and they are very grand laws and hard to run against—for vanity to "vanish into vapory nothingness." Why, no. "The daguerrean man" is not certainly as scientific as he is philanthropic. Vanity does that way often, and by a very simple process. Can't weigh vanity by ounces? Yes, and sense is weighed that way, too, sometimes, for frequently even philanthropists haven't it to weigh in quantities as large as a pound. Communications solicited for the SENTINEL.

Longstreet Complains of the Amnesty Proclamation.

General Longstreet, on the 2d instant, says the Cincinnati Times, sent a note to General Foster, complaining that the Union soldiers were circulating the President's Amnesty Proclamation among his troops, and thus producing desertions from the rebel ranks.

General Foster replied on the 7th, telling General Longstreet that the proclamation was circulated in order to induce rebel soldiers to return to their homes; and that "it has been thought proper to issue an order announcing the favorable terms on which deserters will be received." He adds:

I accept, however, your suggestion that it would have been more courteous to have sent these documents to you for circulation, and I embrace with pleasure the opportunity thus afforded to enclose to you twenty (20) copies of each of these documents, and rely upon your generosity and desire for peace to give publicity to the same among your officers and men.

Letter from Jamestown.

How encouraging it is to know that the cause of the dissensions in the Union party of this county has at last been discovered to the satisfaction (apparently) of all parties, and the removal of it decided upon. The editor of the "SENTINEL" the editor of the "Torchlight," and all the correspondents of both papers have written on the subject of late, agree (as I understand them) that the trouble referred to, grew out of the "delegate convention" system, and that by re-establishing the "primary election" system the cause would be re-
