

Maryland Affairs. Howard county grants is in great demand and all the quarries are at work. Locomotive miners are about to ask for an advance. It is to be hoped that a strike may be averted.

Charles W. Street, of Delight, Baltimore county, has made a crop of wheat averaging forty-two bushels to the acre.

A Philadelphia, Pa., sign painter, named Wilson, died at Fairmount, Somerset county, Monday from drinking paregoric and other drugs.

Mrs. Anna Horne's barn and contents, near Jefferson, Frederick county, was burned Sunday night. Fortunately the live stock were not pastured.

Frank B. Mayer, of the celebrated artist, died in Annapolis, on the 28th ultimo. He was one of the most prominent landscape and figure painters of this day. He was 72 years old and was equally as noted in Europe as in this country.

The St. James Hotel, Charles and Centre streets, Baltimore, was much damaged by fire early Sunday morning. The hotel has been closed for the past two weeks undergoing repairs caused by fire on July 3. The building was in the care of W. Waldman, a watchman. It is not known how the fire originated.

F. R. Kirkwood, secretary of the Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association says he is now assured, from his correspondence, that there will be as many partridges in Maryland this year as in an absence of cold rain and other causes to kill off the young birds.

Farmers along the Northern Central Railway, north of Lutherville, are being greatly annoyed by the depredations of a gang of young thieves from Woodberry who come up on the freight trains and steal their chickens, new potatoes, corn and other vegetables.

In Baltimore on Sunday Rev. A. B. Callis, pastor of Sacred Heart, St. Charles Church, Saratoga and Vincent streets, in his sermon said: "The four men who were hanged Friday had a fair and impartial trial, and, therefore, ought to have paid the penalty. I commend the judge and Governor for their faithfulness to law and evidence." Several other colored ministers used similar language.

George W. Hill, a grocer of Baltimore, packed a value on Saturday afternoon he gave the keys to the clerk and left the store in the care of W. Waldman, a watchman. It is not known how the fire originated.

News of the Week. Half of a 700-foot tunnel on the B. & O.'s main line near Cambridge, Ohio, caved in on Thursday last week.

Thomas B. Ballentine, of Norfolk, Va., has sold to a syndicate of Ohio capitalists his truck farm of over 500 acres for $225 per acre.

H. H. McConnell and his wife, an aged couple, near Cottage Grove, Henry county, Tennessee, Saturday.

At Dent's Run, Pa., on Monday, 21 horses, 1300 bushels of oats, etc., were burned in the barn of Kidd & Atherton; loss $8,000, no insurance.

Parts of Mississippi are being devastated by grasshoppers. One plantation, with 300 acres in cotton, has been ruined, and another of 2000 acres greatly damaged.

The plant of the Lacrosse Walrus car, near Lacrosse, Wisconsin, was destroyed by fire on Saturday. Loss, $75,000, insurance, $25,000.

The fire which started from a spark from a locomotive destroyed the single block lumber yard of the Northwestern Lumber Company in Stanley, Wisconsin, Saturday.

The striking motormen at Cleveland did not prevent the regular running of cars Sunday. The boycott is being continued against the troops to embarrass the company, and there is some talk of declaring martial law in the town.

Yellow fever has broken out in the Soldiers' home at Hampton, Virginia, and the United States Marine Hospital Service has taken charge. There are 40 cases of the disease in the home and there have been six deaths.

For the first time in its history Milwaukee, Wis., had a colored jury summoned last week. It was a coroner's jury, and was called together to assist in inquest over the body of one negro supposed to have been killed by another.

The Sloss Iron and Steel Company, of Birmingham, Alabama, has reorganized as the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company, and will be incorporated in New Jersey in a few days. The new organization will have a capital stock of $20,000,000.

Last year only one passenger out of 2,267,270 carried by the railroads of the United States was killed as a result of railroad accidents. For each passenger so killed 60.5 out of 100 passengers were unharmed.

An odd monument was desired by an elderly maiden lady who died a few weeks ago in Athlone, Ireland. She left a fortune of £27,000 to be spent in the erection of a church, provided that her body should be converted into a bell for use in making the toll for building the edifice.

Owing to continued trouble with members of the local unions of the Amalgamated Association of Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, the entire killing department at the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger packing house, at Kansas City, was closed on Saturday. Over 500 men are out of work.

A freight train on the Erie Railroad ran into obstruction, near Lackawanna, on Saturday night, and a fast passenger train from New York for Buffalo and Cleveland ran into the debris and was also wrecked. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train were killed and 18 trainmen and passengers were injured.

Mrs. Kate Chase, wife of a former governor of Rhode Island and the daughter of the late Salmon P. Chase, governor of Ohio, United States Senator, Secretary of the Treasury and Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, died at her home at Edgewood, in Washington's suburbs, early Monday morning from a complication of liver and kidney troubles. Her early life was brilliant, but her affair with the late Rescoe Cushing caused a divorce from her husband, and she sank into almost total oblivion.

At Columbus, last week, the four incorrigible convicts, Ira Marlett, Otis Hurley, John O'Neill and John Atkinson, in the Ohio State Prison, were placed in steel cages, which have just been completed for their special benefit. The prisoners are known as the "Prison Demons." Each one has shot or stabbed a guard or two since his incarceration. They are all life men, and though subjected to the severest punishment absolutely refuse to work. Though the warden does not admit it, it is believed the warden sooner or later will kill each other. Marlett fought like a man against being put in the cage, and it required six men to control him.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Wootley, the well-known "Bunboat Woman," who made her headquarters during the war in Hampton Roads, and who, with a base of supplies at Plasmas, for the past eight years, has peddled her wares aboard ship in almost every port on the Atlantic coast, was married again on Saturday. She took as her husband, George Rose, a tailor, at Fort Monroe, very much to the annoyance of her 29 children, four of which are adopted. In order to avoid a difference with her children, several of whom are older than her husband, Mrs. Wootley brought her sweetheart to Newport News and had the knot tied. They then left for Providence, R. I., where she has $10,000 invested.

Charles A. Yoh, chief train dispatcher of the Cumberland Valley Railroad, Chambersburg, Pa., was found dead in bed by his wife Sunday morning. Mrs. Yoh is older than her husband, Mrs. Wootley brought her sweetheart to Newport News and had the knot tied. They then left for Providence, R. I., where she has $10,000 invested.

Freights of a Tornado. John R. Musick, of Kirksville, Mo., thus describes, in the August Century, certain madcap pranks of a tornado which passed through that city on April 27.

Many strange freaks were played by the tornado. In a tree top was found a woman's hair, supposed to have been blown from her head as she was carried through its branches, yet no person was found near it. A human scalp was found three miles from the city limits, under a bridge. Notes, letters and papers were blown from the city into Iowa, and found ninety miles away. One proudest note of $400 was found in a field near Grinnell, Iowa, nearly 100 miles away, while clothing and papers were scattered along the entire distance.

One woman was decapitated by a tin roof, and her child was killed near her. Some persons who were outside the rotating current were killed or injured by flying timbers, which like bolts from the catapult of Jove, flew with deadly force for a great distance, while others in the very center of the storm escaped with little or no injury.

Perhaps the most remarkable experiences were those of Miss Moorhouse, Mrs. Webster and her son. The three were caught up in the storm, and were carried beyond the Catholic Church, nearly a fourth of a mile, and left down on the ground so gently that none were killed. Mrs. Webster had some slight cuts about the head, her son had one arm fractured, but Miss Moorhouse was uninjured.

"I was conscious all the time I was flying through the air," said Miss Moorhouse, "and it seemed a long time. I seemed to be lifted up and whirled round and round, going to a great height, at one time far above the church steeple, and I seemed to be carried a long distance. I prayed to the Lord to save me, for I believed he could save me, even on the wings of the tornado; and he did wonderfully preserve my life. As I was going through the air, being whirled about at the sport of the storm, I saw a horse soaring and rotating about with me. It was a white horse and had a harness on. By the way it kicked and struggled as if he hated that I knew it was alive. I prayed God that the horse might not come in contact with me, and it did not. I was mercifully landed upon the earth unharmed, saved by a miracle."

Young Webster says he saw the horse in the air while he was being borne along by the storm. "At one time it was directly over me, and I was very much frightened, but it would come in contact with my flying body." The horse, it is said, was caught up and carried one mile through the air, and according to the accounts of reputable witnesses, at times was over 200 feet high, passing over a church steeple. Many who were not in the storm say that they saw horses flying in the wind. Beyond being well plastered with mud, the white horse was annihilated by his aerial flight.

They Do Not Believe in the War. From the Philadelphia Post, North American, Sept. 10.

Four companies of the 12th Infantry (2d of 12th Infantry) are under the command of Acting Major French, a West Pointer, with an honorable record for foreign and domestic service. The companies—A, C, I, and E—have during the stay at Camp Meade lost by desertion on an average ten men. In addition, the reduction of their strength, private and non-commissioned officers who were members of the regiment during the Porto Rican campaign have applied for, and in certain cases received, their discharge papers. The reasons for a number of those applications, considered, however, only in secret to chiefs and tentmates, are as follows:

They do not believe in the war against the Filipinos; they mistrust the army chiefs now in power at Washington.

The outspoken statements of the dissenting soldiers tell the most significant story. That is what Opporal James A. Makey, of Company I, had to say, when his discharge was granted, after he had been in the Philippines for some time.
