HARIG ACQUITTED.

Did Not Take Jury Long to Make Up Its Mind.

The Advocate last week published most of the testimony in this case, and its readers are therefore in a position to judge for themselves whether the verdict of not guilty is in accord with the evidence. It is the opinion of most persons that the evidence given by witnesses for the State was sufficient to acquit the prisoner. This testimony showed that Mahon had been drinking; that he sought Harig and applied offensive epithets to him; that his conduct toward Harig was such that his friends pulled him away and tried to hold him; that he broke away from his friends and lurched toward Harig.

The location of the bullet hole in the vest was strong evidence in support of the contention by the defense that Mahon put his hand to his hip pocket. This hole was in a part of the vest that would have been completely covered by the coat had the latter been in its ordinary position. Putting the right hand on the hip pocket would draw the coat back toward the shoulder and leave the vest exposed. The coat was not touched by the bullet.

It was not necessary to prove that Mahon had a revolver on his person, or that he was in the habit of carrying one. When a man, in a wrangle, puts his right hand to his hip pocket, it cannot be expected that his antagonist shall wait to see if it is a bluff.

To set off this silent evidence, one witness for the prosecution swore that Mahon's friends were pulling at his coat-tails, and this was given as a reason why the coat was not in the path of the bullet, but the jurors were evidently not impressed by this theory.

The jury was out an hour and twenty minutes. The first ballot showed 9 for acquittal and 3 undecided. On the second ballot all voted for acquittal. Harig returned to Baltimore Wednesday.

BEE-KEEPERS TO MEET

WILL ASSEMBLE AT FIFTH REGIMENT ARMORY THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3

Great Week for Farm Products in the Monumental City

The bee-keepers of Maryland will hold their first meeting in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, on Thursday, December 3. The object is to form a permanent organization. Following are some of the topics that will be discussed by experts:

What is the best variety of bees for Maryland?

What is the best way to winter bees in this state?

Do the bees die or starve of cold as a rule?

What are the best honey plants in Maryland?

May bee-keeping alone be depended upon for a livelihood?

How to detect and control bee diseases.

The handling of bees.

What is the best way to dispose of honey?

Which is considered more profitable, comb honey or extracted honey?

How can swarming be prevented?

How can injury from the moth be prevented?

What is the best remedy for the bee moth?

All bee-keepers in Maryland should make it a point to attend this meeting. The great need of such an organization in this State is evident to all. Let us have a strong, active association. The addresses and discussions of subjects pertaining to bee-keeping will be of much benefit to every bee-keeper in the State, no matter to what extent he or she is interested in the industry.

We are fortunate to have Drs. Phillips and White, and Mr. Root, to address this meeting, as they are among the most able men of the country to discuss their respective subjects.

Come prepared to ask questions and give experiences that you have encountered in handling bees.

It is desired to have a good exhibit of honey, wax and bee-keeping apparatus in conjunction with the meeting. All bee-keepers should send or bring a sample of honey, either in comb or extracted, and also wax. About ten pounds or more of each will make sufficient display by each individual. The bee-exhibit will be located with the large exhibit of fruits, vegetables and flowers made by the Maryland State Horticultural Society and the Maryland Cereal and Forage Crop Breeders' Association. As this exhibit will be installed Monday, November 30, all bee-keepers should send their exhibit by express, prepaid, addressed to T. B. Symons, 5th Regiment Armory, Baltimore, Maryland, so that it will arrive there by Monday, November 30. If it is impossible to send your exhibit, bring it with you when you come.

Please write the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland, at once, stating about the size of exhibit you will send or bring, as it is desirable to know the amount of space to reserve for the general bee exhibit.

All exhibits will be judged and awards given for the best of each kind. The bee-keepers will meet in the 5th Regiment Armory, Hoffman St., near Linden avenue. The hotel headquarters will be at the Rennet, corner Park avenue and Lexington street, where all bee-keepers and friends will be given the rate of $1.50 for one in a room, and $2.50 for two in a room, on the European plan.

The State Grange meeting will be held in the 5th Regiment Armory, on December 3 and 4. The bee-keepers who are members of the Grange can therefore attend both meetings at their pleasure.

The Maryland State Horticultural Society will hold its meeting and exhibit in the Armory on December 1 and 2. All bee-keepers should try to come early to attend its meetings, and cooperate in making an exhibit of fruits and vegetables.

The Maryland Cereal and Forage Crop Breeders' Association will also hold its annual meeting and exhibit in the 5th Regiment Armory, on December 1, 2 and 3. The bee-keepers are invited to attend its meetings and send samples of products of this character for exhibition.

Let everyone come, and attend these meetings which are held for the advancement of all interests represented.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE.

Not Thought Disease Will Become Epidemic in This State.

Some consternation has been caused in this neighborhood by the discovery that the dreaded foot-and-mouth disease, now creating havoc among cattle in Pennsylvania and New York States, had broken out at Lineboro, this county, on the farm of H. M. Kneller. Dr. R. H. Mackie, State veterinarian, visited the farm Monday and found that the whole herd of 22 cattle were infected. These were condemned, as were 51 pigs, and will be killed as soon as men can be found to dig the deep graves necessary.

Neighbors are loath to go to the Kneller farm for fear they may carry the contagion to their own cattle. Quick lime will be spread over the bodies to hasten decomposition and to kill the disease germs.

Dr. Mackie said he did not believe a quarantine against Maryland would be established. "I think the government will only find it necessary," continued Dr. Mackie, "to lay an embargo against that section in Carroll in which the malady has appeared. There is no prospect of its spread."

The meat of cattle suffering from this disease is said not to be infectious, but the milk, butter and cheese is most poisonous to the human system.

Secretary Wilson, of the United States Government Bureau of Agriculture is aiding Dr. Mackie, and every effort will be made to stamp out the disease.

Y. M. C. A. Building.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Wantz building Monday evening to consider the proposition to furnish a building for a headquarters for the Y. M. C. A. members of Westminster. Rev. Dr. T. H. Lewis presided. Two propositions were submitted, one to purchase the Derr building, Main and Short streets, meeting rooms and gymnasium on the second floor, erect an auditorium in the rear, with an arcade entrance through Moore's drug store, the whole involving an outlay of $35,000.

The other proposition was to remodel the Montour House, West Main street, lower the first floor and build gymnasium in the rear, involving an outlay of $10,000.

A committee of 5 was appointed to consider these propositions, and get the sentiment of our citizens.

Powwow of Red Men.

Westminster lodge of Red Men had a banquet at their rooms in the Davis building Wednesday evening. The banquet was preceded by a parade, in costume, on horseback, in which 27 members and some of their guests took part. After going over the trail, the Indians gathered at the forks of the road and burned a "pale face" at the stake. There were 40 visitors from Manchester, 30 from Patapsco and a number from other near-by lodges. It was a very enjoyable affair.

GEIGAN WINS MARATHON

ONLY ONE WHO FINISHED IN RUN FROM WESTMINSTER

Took Just Four Hours to Run 26 Miles

The first Marathon race ever held in this state, run over a 26-mile course, starting at the Advocate office, this city, and ending at Electric Park, was yesterday won by John H. Geigan, of the Cross Country Club.

Shortly before 10 o'clock those who had gathered to witness the start were discouraged by receiving a telephone message from Baltimore that 12 of the 15 men who were to start had missed their train and could not participate. This left Geigan, Korge and McDonagh to make the race, and they got away at 11.25.

McDonagh took the lead, while Korge and Geigan followed. The first half of the course (from Westminster to Reisterstown, was much more difficult than the last half, for the hills were long and steep and there was a slippery surface of mud. The men made excellent time over this first 12 miles and passed Hittshues' Hotel, at Reisterstown, in the following order: McDonagh, 1.05; Korge, 1.11; Geigan, 1.15.

A change in the positions of the runners took place just after they had passed Reisterstown. Korge, who had maintained a fast pace, broke down and could not do better than a walk. Geigan, with his steady lope, slowly overtook him, and, in a short time, had left him in the rear. He could not overtake McDonagh, however, for the latter, with his good wind and easy stride, kept a lead of over a half mile. The runners passed Owings Mills, which is four miles this side of Reisterstown, in the following order: McDonagh, 1.45; Geigan, 1.50; Korge, 2.15.

A mile or two past this point McDonagh sprained his tendons in the calf of his left leg, which caused him to have to cut his gait to a walk. Despite this he continued and passed Garrison in the lead at 2.05. Geigan, keeping up his steady trot, diminished McDonagh's lead by more than half between these two points. McDonagh gamely kept on, in spite of the sharp pain that each step caused him, and held the lead until midway between Garrison and Pikesville. Then he was forced to relinquish it to Geigan. Up to this time McDonagh had run in perfect form. He made the first 10 miles in 1 hour and 8 minutes, and the first 15 miles in 1 hour and a half. This is excellent time for these distances. His wind was sound when he was forced to drop out, and, until his leg gave away, seemed a sure winner.

After McDonagh dropped out, Geigan was left alone in the race. He kept up his steady stride and passed Pikesville at 2.42. Accompanied by G. E. Towson on a bicycle, he slowly but surely closed up the final four mile lap to Electric Park and reached there at 3.25, having taken just four hours to cover the 26 miles between Westminster and Electric Park. M. J. B. McDonagh, although he did not finish, was awarded the second place, and F. A. Korge, third.

RAILROAD TO AID FARMERS.

Pennsylvania Railroad Will Establish Experimental Farms.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, always on the alert to do everything which will help the country through which its roads run, has determined to establish experimental farms on every one of its divisions, and to place in charge of these farms the very best farming talent which can be secured in this or any other country. President McCrea has determined that the railroad shall take its part of the responsibility for the cultivation of the farming and trucking lands of the Peninsula.

These farms are to be established for a two-fold season. First, to demonstrate to the farmers and truckers the best and most profitable crops to grow on their different lands; second, to establish a closer union with the farmers and truckers of the Peninsula, to confer with them as to the best crops to grow and to help them in the selection of the best markets for the shipment of their produce.

These experimental farms are to be established as follows: One on the Delaware Division, one on the line of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway, one on the line of the Maryland, Delaware & Virginia Railway, and one on the line of the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad. It is the intention of the Pennsylvania Railroad to purchase good farms and establish thereon the best experts in the different lines of agriculture. The corps of experts will be composed of men who can give the best advice as to the kind of crops the different soils will best produce, as to the kind of trucks to plant and the way to plant them, as to fruits, berries and grain crops and the best kind of fertilizers to use and the best methods of cultivation. In fact, these farms will be models in their line and will all be at the disposal of the farmers and for their information.

President McCrea is of the opinion that there are hundreds of thousands of acres of land on the Peninsula which are not producing what nature intends them to produce and that the farms should within a few years so educate the people along the most improved lines as to increase the output of produce and fruits enough to cause the railroads to double their capacity of the present time. The Long Island Railroad has had these farms in operation for several years and it has caused the lands along the lines to so blossom that they resemble the garden farms of England. There should be no waste land on this Peninsula, so the railroad people think, but every acre should be under cultivation all the time and every acre should be made to produce at least twice what it is now producing.
