A considerable increase in the number of persons killed or injured on the railways of the United States during the months of January, February and March, 1910, is shown over the corresponding period of last year.

The total number killed during the quarter was 1,100, and 21,232 were injured. This was an increase of 466 killed and 6,110 injured as compared with the corresponding period last year.

After many months of discussion and experimenting, the French Government has decided not to adopt aluminum coinage. This is on the recommendation of the Commission of Scientists whom the government appointed to consider the subject.

A certain number of aluminum coins were made as a test, but the lightness of the white metal which was one of its chief recommendations has condemned it.

With United States Senator Thomas P. Gore reasserting his charge that he had been offered a bribe of $25,000 to influence his actions in Congress, and with J. J. Accidents to children from wagons, automobiles and street cars have increased to such an alarming extent in Cincinnati, that a campaign has been started to lead children away from the dangers of playing on the street, and the peril that lies in electric wires.

To this end, a booklet has been prepared for use in public schools, which not only recounts the various types of accidents that have occurred in the past, but also cautions the children against many of the careless practices they now indulge in.

A pair of storage battery locomotives have been installed at the Little Bridge yards of the Metropolitan District Railway in London.

They are intended to be used as switching engines about the yard, which is not equipped with the third-rail system. They are also to be used in hauling wrecking trains, and at night for moving ballast trains. Each accumulator is in a large, airtight container of a battery and 80 cells containing 21 plates each. The battery has a discharge capacity of 179 amperes for eight hours, and for short periods may discharge as much as 800 amperes.

Mr. Frederick W. Feldner, an attorney, Mrs. Mollie Feldner, Mrs. Dorris Mergenthaler, Mr. Fritz Mergenthaler and Paul Jones, chauffeur, of Baltimore, were instantly killed late Tuesday afternoon while riding in a large automobile near Cape May, N. J.

The auto was struck by a fast train on the Pennsylvania Railroad and torn to pieces, while the bodies of the occupants were scattered along the tracks. The crossing where the accident happened is a double one, and both the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroads cross at grade within 20 feet of one another. It is almost impossible to see approaching trains on account of a high corn field, and the absence of safety gates and flags added to the danger.
