On last Friday evening the Greenmount congregation gave their pastor, Rev. Geo. W. Strine and wife, a reception on their return for another year. A large number of the members and friends of the congregation were present and a very pleasant time was spent by all. After several songs, the pastor made a brief address, in which he thanked those present for their co-operation in the work of the church in the past, and asked their continued co-operation also promising to do any thing he can for the good of the work and willing at any time to render any service that may be requested of him by any of the members or friends of the congregation. GOVERNOR CROTHERS

WANTS GORMAN WILL MAKE AS GOOD AN EXECUTIVE AS THE STATE HAS EVER HAD.

A Man of Character and Stamina.

In an interview in his office on Monday last, for the "Baltimore Sun," Governor Crothers said: "Some people in this State think I have made a good Governor. So, I think I have made a good one. All of them are entitled to their opinion. My term is pretty nearly ended and I know I have done the best I could. And that is what I believe Gorman will do. "May Equal Any Record. "Moreover, I have come to believe that Gorman has it in him to be as good a Governor as this State has ever had. I do not speak as his personal friend, nor even as his political friend. I opposed him in the primaries as strongly as I could. I say I regret about that, but he won fairly and I gave him my support. Not to have done so would have been undemocratic and wholly contrary to the spirit of the direct primaries, for which I have fought as long and hard as any man in the State. "Everyone who knows me, knew I would do this, but I am frank to say that I did not see my way clear to support Gorman with any great degree of enthusiasm at first. In the last few weeks I have watched his sayings with amazement. I have read his speeches and his interviews. I have noted his promises and marked the steadfastness and courage with which he has met a most difficult and trying situation. I have seen that he keeps his head and his temper in times of excitement, does not lose his nerve in a crisis and cannot be forced one way or another against his own judgment. I have seen that he is open-minded and reasonable, ready to take a suggestion and act upon advice, but at all times judges things for himself in the end and in standing by his judgment is unafraid of the consequences, political or personal. "Eager for His Election. "I have campaigned with him through this State and have talked in the last few weeks with him privately and personally, as well as listened to his public addresses, and I have come to support him with an enthusiasm and to desire his election with an eagerness that a month or so ago would not have seemed possible to me. "I am convinced that he will be the next Governor of Maryland. Wherever I have gone and wherever I have observed the people when Gorman spoke to them, it has been impressed upon me that they believed in him just as I have come to believe in him. I know that he is honest and sincere. I know that even while fighting him, I know that he is a man of character and stamina, who cannot be swayed by any influence, whether political or otherwise, to do a thing which he believes to be wrong. I believe that he is imbued with the ideas and ideals of a progressive Democracy and that as Governor of Maryland he will use his efforts to promote the welfare of this State and its people and will be a broad-minded, big Governor. "Gorman Has Convinced Them. "The people of this State are going to elect him because, somehow or other, Gorman has convinced them of his sincerity. They are going to elect him because they know that his election will mean a continuance of the progressive policies upon which the State has entered upon Democratic administration, and because they know that a Republican Governor and a Democratic Legislature would mean four years of stagnation. They know that it would mean the stopping of the wheels of progress and a long break in the movement to uphold the State. "Political conditions have changed in Maryland, as in the rest of the country. The people are more keenly interested in politics and issues than ever before. They want concrete promises and material performances from their public servants. "Baltimore city needs some vital legislation to further its interests; the State of Maryland needs the enactment of wise laws to accelerate its advancement and prosperity. You cannot get these things from a divided government—part Republican and part Democratic. That is what you will have if you elect a Republican Governor, as our party is bound to control the State Senate, and you will thus give to each party an excuse to blame things on the other. Four years of stagnation will result. "I Believe in Him. "What I have said of Gorman you can publish if you want to do so. I say these things because I mean them. I believe in him. I do not have to say this. I can maintain my record as a regular Democrat without it. I can give him my support and make campaign speeches and be credited with having done my share as a party man. The responsibility for his nomination was not on me, and it would in no way affect me personally if he should not be elected. "But I have come to feel that Gorman's defeat would set the State back lamentably; that his election will give it fresh impetus along the lines of progress; that he says what he means and will do what he says, and that there is not the shadow of an excuse for any man who calls himself a Democrat not to vote for him. "Those who have had the opportunity to see his development since the primaries and to feel the sincerity and strength of purpose in the man will support him with the same kind of enthusiasm that I have. "Wants Good Men To Back Him. "I not only want to see Gorman elected, but I want to see him given a Democratic majority in both houses so that he can make good. There are in the Democratic ticket this time a number of fine, strong, progressive young Democrats, like Fink, of Carroll county; Beck, of Kent; Harper, of Queen Anne's; Coady, of Baltimore city, and others, who can be counted upon to stand for the right things, both politically and otherwise, and stand for them firmly. They are the kind of men Gorman needs to back him up as Governor. "The time has passed when in Maryland any one man or set of men can own or run the Democratic party in either city or counties. There will be no more dominated and controlled Legislatures in this State if the Democrats are retained in power. The spirit of independence has gained tremendously in strength. The direct primary has breathed life and vigor into the masses of the Democracy. They will in the future nominate their own candidates, and the wise man in politics is the man who realizes this change in conditions and accommodates himself to it. "The time is coming—it is almost here—when rings and bosses will be mere names. They will not mean anything. The people will control. It is my conviction that Gorman realizes these things and is in sympathy with them. He will make good and he will be Governor."

MELROSE.

The Goldsborough party, in 18 automobiles, narrowly escaped Melrose by going through Bachman's Valley to Union Mills from Manchester on Monday last. The United Brethren in Melrose have enlarged their meeting house. On Sunday last there was a large crowd at the services. Charles Tracey brought a radish to town that weighed 4 1/2 pounds. It was a monster. The wheat fields present a beautiful appearance. Albert S. Coans, of E. I., who spent nearly a year here with J. A. Zepp, left for Providence last Friday. A pleasant birthday surprise was given on last Saturday evening: Geo. P. Wentz and family, aided by friends and neighbors, arranged to have Mrs. Wentz spend Saturday afternoon and evening away from home. When she returned home the house was full of people and a merry time followed. She soon learned that it was in honor of her 47th birthday. More than 100 were present. There was good music, and later on all were invited to the dining room, where many good things tempting to the palate were on the tables. After an enjoyable evening they all repaired to their homes wishing Mrs. Wentz many more pleasant birthdays.

No Republican can be elected in this county without Democratic votes
