The report has been again revived that the Western Maryland railroad is contemplating a low grade cut-off from a point near Williamsport, to a connection with the main line again at Westminster. President Robertson, of the company, was in New York Saturday and the other officials said they knew nothing of the reopening of this project. The line has been surveyed. This was done even before the Connellsville extension was undertaken and when the road was building its line from Big Pool to Cumberland to connect with the West Virginia Central. The purpose of the cut-off is to avoid the curves and heavy grades over the Blue Ridge. The building of the cut-off may be held in abeyance for the present, it is asserted, because of the heavy expenditure of the Western Maryland on the new Connellsville line.
