THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION.

Before the Wilson administration ends the people, at least those of them who are not wilfully blind, will see and appreciate the wisdom of the legislation that has been, and is yet to be, enacted for their relief from an intolerable and threatening condition of their national affairs, created by invidious class laws placed upon our statute books by many Republican administrations.

The Payne-Aldrich tariff, which was wholly in the interest of the manufacturer and most burdensome to the consumer, has been replaced with a revenue tariff which plays no favorites, and in time will fix the business of the country on a more permanent basis than it has known since 1860. Under it manufacturing will not be forced by a hot-house process to produce high priced goods for home consumption, but it will be gradually encouraged and developed on a healthful and self sustaining basis, not to be shaken as a reed in the wind by every change in the financial world.

We predict that it will prove a stimulus to inter-national commerce, and will restore our ocean carrying trade to what it was before the days of protection (?), when the sails of our commerce whitened every ocean. Moreover, it will cause a symmetrical development of all our industries without overstimulating any. Depressing conditions that are world wide, may delay for a moment, but cannot defeat this wholesome outcome.

The Currency reform measure enacted by the present Congress, when once in operation will place it beyond the power of a small body of unconscionable men to produce a panic for the purpose of intimidating legislators, or discrediting any measure of legislation that interferes with any of their nefarious schemes, or for any other reason whatsoever. It will reassure large and small business alike, and inspire with confidence the man who gives credit and asks credit, that the avenues for increased capital shall not be closed to him by artificial means, but his reputation for honesty and integrity shall receive the consideration it deserves at the hands of the Banking interests of the country. This is as it should be, and not as it has been under a decadent Republican regime.

When the Railway Securities bill is formulated into workable shape, as it will be, and enacted into law it will make accessible to the investor in that class of securities reliable data that will enable him to intelligently determine the wisdom of his contemplated investment, without being menaced by over capitalization—cleped watered stock. Investments of this class for the benefit of widows and orphans will be safeguarded as never before.

The Anti-Monopoly bill, another measure of like importance, will in due time become law, and is intended to prevent the exclusive control of the business of the country by large corporations, and for the protection of small industries against unfair encroachment by those of unlimited means, and who may be interested in compassing their destruction.

It will also promote competition, prevent the arbitrary fixing of prices, and guarantee to all who would enter upon a business career protection from unfair methods by business competitors.

If President Wilson accomplishes nothing more during his administration than the passage of these three measures, he will have done much toward the liberation of business from the thralldom which has so long held it in a dishonorable bondage, and which ominously threatened the perpetuity of our free institutions. With statesman like ken he clearly foresaw that neither of these measures alone, could accomplish the desired result, so he buttressed them each with the other, and thus rendered evasion of their several provisions almost impossible.

That a temporary demoralization of trade and business followed this radical, though beneficent, change in the financial and industrial policy of the government was to be expected, but it only remains for business to adapt itself to these changed conditions to insure prosperity to all, and not as heretofore confined to individuals and localities.

THE SEASON FOR PICNICS.

Picnics are a simple and primitive form of enjoyment. But these are elaborate and costly times. It might be thought therefore that picnics would go out of style, in an age that likes a lot of show and display.

Such, however, does not seem to be the case. The use of the automobile seems to give a certain social sanction to the informal out of doors eating. Motorists may be able to borrow money for the car, but hotel bills call for cash, and a lot of it. Automobile owners have to economize somewhere and very frequently the saving takes the form of the picnic lunch. To the men it some times seems as if the greater the inconveniences of a sport, the farther the luncheon baskets have to be totted, the more it appeals to the women of the party. To the latter, no tramp is too arduous to get the spots of scenic romance. To them the plainest fare is eaten with sharp relish under the stimulus of out door beauty.

Marriage Causes False Fire Alarm. Seven minutes of blasts from the whistle of the Passaic Metalware company, in honor of the marriage of the daughter of the superintendent, recently turned out five volunteer fire departments. The fog made the whistle audible in Rutherford, Nutley, Belleville, Garfield and Clifton and the firemen rushed to headquarters at the alarm. It took half an hour to determine where the whistling came from. The wedding which caused the commotion united Miss Sallie Karp, 217 Brook avenue, Passaic, to Michael F. Bernan.—New York Mail.

REFRIGERATORS.

The McKee Refrigerators and Ice Chests.

During the past few years there has been a remarkable development in the manufacture and use of refrigerators. Not only has the number of refrigerators in use increased rapidly, but the public is beginning to realize that it is better to have no refrigerator at all than a poor one, since an inferior refrigerator is both wasteful and dangerous. One which is not well insulated will prove wasteful because the cold air escapes through the walls, necessitating the frequent purchase of ice to keep down the temperature.

Again if the temperature is not kept down the provisions will spoil, which means not only a waste of provisions, but a great danger from germs, which multiply rapidly in warm air.

There is a certain amount of germ life in all food. Many of these germs are harmless, but there may be present bacteria of disease. The function of a refrigerator is to check the multiplication of these germs, and to eliminate them as much as possible. This will only be accomplished by a refrigerator which is well insulated, has perfect circulation of air within, and which affords no lodging place for germs where they can be cleaned out readily.

You can purchase a cheap "refrigerator" or "ice box" which to all outside appearance is satisfactory, but after all it is not a piece of furniture you need, but a scientifically constructed and sanitary receptacle where your provisions may be safely stored and preserved. It may mean a little more money invested, but you will save it on your ice bills, have less waste food, and better health, to say nothing of the greater length of time a good refrigerator will last.

A McKee Refrigerator wall is made in 8 sections.
