Sunday School Teacher-Training Notes.

The work is still going on in the county. That is good. It is also gratifying that it is better. If you care to know the best, that would be a teacher-training class in each school.

Five of Rev. W. V. Hersh's class completed Oliver's course about the close of the old year. They will doubtless hold an interesting graduating service later in the spring. Rev. Carroll Maddox's class has finished part of Hurlbut's Course. They will finish their work this year. Elder W. E. Roop, of Westminster, is the latest recruit to the ranks. He comes with a class of six. They are studying Oliver's Course, and have passed Part 2 on fine marks. Who will be the next to enroll in this great work?

Judging from news items in papers at different times your superintendent is of the opinion that there are other classes at work in the county who have never enrolled in the County Association. Why not do this? It is due your school and the county and State that you be thus enrolled. Send in your names.

Sunday school work in general, and the County work in particular has lost a valued worker in the taking away of Charles W. Otto, president of the second District Association. "The dead man was my friend." The resignation of Rev. B. W. Kindley from the State Teacher-Training work is deeply regretted. He was also State Secretary. JESSE P. GARNER, County Supt., Linwood, Md.

A Social.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Dennis Green, near Seabrook, Saturday evening, March 6. Social conversation, games and singing of hymns made the time pass all too soon. At a late hour refreshments were served. "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," was the parting song, and good nights were said.

FINED FOR GETTING MARRIED

Members of Many Organizations in the Old World Are Under Penalty to Defy Cupid.

There are certain sections and communities who realize the relation and regard it in the light of a punishable offense.

It is the rule, for instance, at All Souls' College, Oxford, England, that a fellow forfeits his fellowship if when studying the classics he should take unto himself a wife. In such an event he must not only pay the penalty, but must also present his college with a memorial in the shape of a silver cup, with the further condition that on the cup shall be inscribed in Latin, "He backslid into matrimony."

Many readers have doubtless read of the Bachelors' club in London. When a member so far forgets the principles of the club as to marry he is promptly expelled.

There is a similar organization in Germany—the Jugessen club. When ever there comes to the officials of this club any intimation that a member contemplates matrimony, he is immediately summoned for trial in the club court, with the president as judge. The culprit is allowed to explain in extenuation of his offense, and upon his skill in presenting such plea depends the amount of his fine, which ranges from 20lb to 200lb.

Fighting For Pure Milk.

So many dramatic disclosures have been made in regard to the relation between dirty milk and the excessive death rate among infants that farmers are beginning to realize as never before, the necessity of co-operation with the municipal authorities in their fight for pure milk.

Milk is certainly the most important article of food in the human diet, and it is also the most contaminable. It is, therefore, up to the farmer to see that the milk from his dairy gets to city babies in as reasonable a state of cleanliness as possible. Not that this is an exclusively baby problem, for all sorts of diseases are carried through milk. Tuberculosis is an example of this class, and a number of epidemics of diphtheria and scarlet fever have been traced to the milk supply, but when we pause to consider that one-fifth of all the babies born in the United States die in their infancy from preventable diseases, due to improper feeding of impure milk, we naturally begin to look into the cause.

I realize, of course, that not every farmer can have his milking done scientifically, but it is possible for him to produce safe milk for his own use and that of the public by very simple and inexpensive means.

He may not have an elaborate dairy outfit, but his cattle can be kept clean and perfect health with the assistance of a veterinary. It will be to his financial interest in the long run. Tar paper, whitewash and home-made cement will insure a sanitary stable at small cost.

Then there should be a covered milking pail in place on the old-fashioned wheeled pail. This will keep nine-tenths of the dirt out during milking time. All milk utensils may be kept clean by the use of a brush and a solution of soda followed by a final rinsing in scalding water. If ice is not possible for one farmer, it is not feasible for several farmers to combine their interest, and secure a supply of ice in some central place at a reasonable cost.

A Young Girl's Thoughts.

In the March Woman's Home Companion, Ida M. Farbell writes a highly interesting and suggestive article, in which she says that it is highly probable that kind parents do not know what is in their daughter's mind. Following is an extract:

"There is the Vale of Secrecy, where the grown-ups move but never admit her—whispering sometimes in her presence things she cannot understand, but which, she senses, concern her. These things she feels she must know. The impression they make on her is that, though they themselves walk in this Vale, they still think it somehow wrong—'bad.' And there are moments when she weeps because these guardians and friends are so unkind in her eyes by their concealments and winkings. She hates them at moments—they who talk so much of goodness and 'doing right.' Why, why are they not fair with her? Nothing is 'bad' to her—nothing but concealment and lying. That is the way she is made. But she will know; and she finds out, and builds up strange, distorted images of things—unclean, false notions. A few years later when she is in the high school the grown-ups will attempt to teach her something of the Vale of Secrecy. It is too late. She knows a score of things they have forgotten for, they are old and she is young. She senses that the flame of truth is being blown out. Moreover, they shock her by the lateness and the indirectness, and the humorless solemnity of their teachings."

What Every Housekeeper Should Do in March.

In the March Woman's Home Companion appears a department called The Exchange, in which various contributors give their practical ideas, distills that have developed out of their experiences. Following is the housekeeper's reminder for March, taken from this department:

"To have a thorough housecleaning, not forgetting the cellar.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

WAS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT AT SANDYVILLE.

Frances Lemar, one of the original Billy Watson "Beef Trust" show girls and alleged to be the wife of a Baltimore theatrical man, was arrested at Gettysburg yesterday on a charge of unbecoming conduct with John F. Walter, of Gettysburg. Walter's wife is prosecuting the case and has lodged a charge of assault against her husband as the result of a free-for-all fight at a Gettysburg hotel early yesterday morning following her discovery of Walter in the show girl's room.

Before being taken to jail Miss Lemar attempted suicide by stabbing herself in the side with a fingernail file, but did not seriously injure herself.

Diverting the Coal.

Heavy Shipments Going to the Western Maryland.

Cumberland, Md., March 5.—Heavy coal shipments from the Georges Creek region, via the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad, are being diverted daily to the Western Maryland Railway, and this fact bears out the statement that the Rockefeller interests are now in practical control of the Western Maryland Railway and the Consolidation Coal Company, which latter concern has heretofore controlled the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad.

It is also understood that the Western Maryland will extend their Georges Creek branch on a low grade loop into Lonaconing and beyond, and that it is the intention to open the smaller seams on both the Cumberland and Pennsylvania and the Georges Creek Railroads, and that, in addition, 2,000 acres of six-foot coal will be reached between Lonaconing and Bartons. The greatest development of the mining industry in the entire coal basin is planned, and every possible ton will be put on the market by the interests that are now the dominant factors in the Western Maryland region.

It is expected that this diversion of traffic will increase the gross receipts of the Western Maryland from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000 in the year. Not only is this taken as corroboration of the statement that John D. Rockefeller has secured a strong working interest in the coal company, but it is also asserted that the output of new mines in the Meyersdale and Somerset coal fields will be hauled by the Western Maryland east. This latter region, it is also stated, will be extensively developed.

While it is impossible to ascertain just who is backing the sinking of wells in the Georges Creek region in search of gas or oil, for which purpose it is stated that money has been laid aside, it is asserted and believed that the Standard Oil Company is really back of the movement.

A False Report.

In reading the Woodbine items of last week I noticed some severe accusations which happened to Roscoe Dayhoff, Albert Lewis and others which I believed incorrect, as no accident had happened with any of the above mentioned persons. In reading Woodbine items I notice different events which are far from being at Woodbine and should be items from other places.

The Editor at Westminster cannot see or hear what happens through the county only by his reporters, and he publishes the reports, believing them to be correct. I hope the reporters at Woodbine can find enough news at Woodbine without sending in false reports.

$12,000 Bull Shot.

Camden, N. J., March 6.—A herd of prize cattle, valued at $40,000, which had been found to be hopelessly infected with the foot-and-mouth disease, was shot today on the farm of Ephraim T. Gill, at Haddonfield, near here. Among the herd of 120 animals was Glenwood's Mainstay, a $12,000 bull, that had taken many prizes. The owner of the herd said he would place this animal in a separate grave, bury the blue ribbons he won with him and erect a monument to his memory.

Shreveport, La., Votes to Return to Saloons.

Shreveport, La., March 5.—Shreveport yesterday voted overwhelmingly to return to licensed saloons, 1457 to 42. The Prohibition forces advised voters of their belief to ignore the election, and this is said to account for the light vote cast by that side.

Francis Scott Key Monument.

The Francis Scott Key Monument committee of the Patriotic Order Sons of America met at the Renner Hotel, Baltimore, on Tuesday night. Up to this time each member of the committee has been acting independently for the best interest of the movement.

On Tuesday night the committee organized by electing W. L. Seabrook, State President, chairman; W. James Heaps, State Secretary; W. J. Carter, State Treasurer.

It was definitely decided to erect the monument at Terra Rubra, the birth place of Francis Scott Key, on Saturday June 1, just before Flag Day, 1915. Committees were appointed as follows: L. J. Staub, of Arlington; Wm. James Heaps and Wm. J. Carter, of Baltimore, to let the contract for the monument, not later than April 1st; Wm. L. Seabrook, to arrange a program and to act as Master of Ceremonies on the day of the unveiling; Preston B. Englar, of Taneytown, and W. C. Legore, of Woodsboro, as field day committee, to arrange for the picnic side of the event; Preston B. Englar to arrange for the flag staff to be erected at the Keysville school, and for the grading of the ground for the monument site.

The public schools of Carroll county are responding promptly to the recommendation contained in the resolution of the school board, and nearly fifty of them have already sent their contributions to Superintendent Morelock. The schools of Frederick, Anne Arundel and Harford counties are also in line, and those of other counties are expected to co-operate. The occasion of the unveiling will be, therefore, not only a worthy tribute to the memory of the author of the Star Spangled Banner, but a red letter day in the history of the public schools of the State. Each teacher, in sending the contribution from a school to Superintendent Morelock, is expected to send a list of names of the pupils contributing, so that the roll of those who erect the monument may be placed in its corner stone.

GERMANS SINK AMERICAN SHIP

OWNER WANTS CREW PROSECUTED AS PIRATES—SMYRNA GIVEN 24 HOURS TO SURRENDER.

Capt. H. H. Kiehne, of the American ship William P. Frye, which was sunk by the German converted cruiser Prince Eitel Friedrich, has been summoned to Washington to relate the facts in the case to the State Department. In the light of the facts as now understood, Government officials hold that Germany must make reparation for the sinking of the vessel.

The commander of the Prince Eitel Friedrich, which is now at Newport News, Va., has declared his intention to take the cruiser to sea again after it has undergone repairs. The cruiser has been sent to drydock.

Samuel S. W. Sewall, of Bath, Maine, one of the owners of the William P. Frye, announces that he has appealed to the United States Government to proceed against the Eitel Friedrich as a sea rover and against her crew as pirates.

United States Ambassador Morgenthau, at Constantinople, cabled under date of Wednesday that the British admiral commanding the fleet in front of Smyrna had given the Turkish garrison 24 hours to surrender under threat of bombardment.

The capture by British troops of over a mile of German trenches before Neuve Chavelle, in France, and the village itself, is officially announced at London and Paris. The German War Office admits that British troops entered the village "at some points."

Great Britain's plan to give effect to the naval reprisal measures against Germany was signed by King George.

HE EARNED HIS SALARY

The Man on the Job Understood His Business Right Thoroughly.

At a time when the public were hearing a great deal of new "industrial combinations" one of the newly arrived captains of industry found himself in a Western city in extreme need of communicating with the New York end of his enterprise.

He had almost completed an arrangement for the consolidation of a number of Western enterprises, but in order to obtain final authority he needed from New York it became necessary to explain, by wire to his partners, all he had done in the West.

The situation permitted of no delay, such as would ensue should he write, and such matters worse he had no cipher code. For some time the financier racked his brains to evolve some method whereby he might communicate his information to his associates in New York, but in such manner that it would be meaningless to any one else.

He could, however, think of no such method, and at last was forced to the conclusion that he must take the chance of sending the message in plain English. According he drew up the message and gave it to his confidential man to send.

About half an hour later, when the confidential man came in, he was asked whether he forwarded the wire. "Yes, sir," said the man; "but not exactly in the way you proposed. I rewrote it, the first word on one company's bank, the second word on another company's bank, and so on. In that way I sent half the messages by each company, neither half, of course, meaning anything to one in the secret. Then I sent the second wire by one company reading:

"Read messages together, alternating words."

"CONEY" AN UNCERTAINTY

For Maryland State Firemen's Convention—Unable to Entertain.

There is still considerable uncertainty as to whether or not Woodbridge, Md., will be able to entertain the annual convention of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association, which takes place in June, in conformity with their invitation to the association at the convention at Westminster last June, when several other towns, including Cambridge, intended to put up a contest necessary to have the convention held at the respective cities, and who promptly withdrew from the proposition when Lonaconing was suggested. The Maryland Volunteer Firemen have been here on several occasions, and they would rather come here than go to any place in the State, so that the other towns which were after this year's convention appreciated the futility of their efforts if required to contest with Lonaconing. So it came about as previously stated, that Lonaconing was unopposed when the time came to select a place for this year's meeting, and the invitation presented by Lonaconing's representatives through Mr. Peter C. McFarland, was received and promptly accepted amid uproarious applause, so enthusiastic were the State Firemen at the prospect of a visit to the good old town of "Coney." The condition of affairs makes an exceptionally embarrassing should it now become necessary to withdraw the invitation and notify the executive committee of the Firemen's Association that they will be unable because of a lack of interest and support on the part of our prominent citizens and business men. The others—the average citizen and the community in general—take the convention in general and will do all they can to help the home company, but it takes money for a Firemen's Convention and, therefore, unless the citizens and the business men co-operate with the local firemen's committee and extend financial assistance, there will be no alternative other than to notify the State Association of our failure. It is said a committee from the Fire Company recently made a tentative subscription tour of those business houses which will—always do—profit the most from a Firemen's Convention and all such enterprises, and the result of the canvass was less than $200. It is needless to say that those who will profit the most from the large crowds that will be brought here for the greater part of an entire week early in June, will "tighten up" to the limit of $200—or even $500—it will be useless for the Fire Company to proceed with the arrangements as it would be unfair to expect the merchant, the dry goods, furniture and like business houses to donate even 50 per cent. of the amount required, inasmuch as they will be benefited probably not more than 10 per cent by all the money spent here during the convention week. It has come to the point now, however, where the business men who will benefit through the convention must come forward with a liberal and generous contribution or pledges on subscription, otherwise the affair must be called off, the colors of the town's hospitality lowered for the first time and the offers of the association notified that they must select another town in which to hold this year's convention, in order that the executive board may have time to make such selections, and the town thus chosen may have time in which to make necessary preparations also. The situation is acute and requires prompt action on way or the other.—Cumberland Times.

DAMAGE SUIT TO BE TRIED

Against Springfield Hospital—Managers Held Liable.

The Circuit Court for Carroll county was engaged in hearing arguments had against the Springfield State Hospital in the case of E. Frank Ely and wife against the Springfield State Hospital, Dr. Clarke, its superintendent, Governor Goldsborough and the other members of the board of managers.

Mr. Ely and wife brought suit for $25,000 following an injunction they had against the Springfield State Hospital and Dr. Clarke to restrain the pollution of a stream running through the hospital grounds and then to the Ely property. The suit was brought against the hospital, Dr. Clarke, the Governor, Comptroller and Treasurer of the State, and John Hubner, William H. Forsythe, Thomas J. Shroyer and the other managers of the institution, claiming they were personally liable.

It was also held that as the hospital apparently had no property, suit could not be brought against it. The court decided that the members of the board of managers of the hospital can be held personally responsible if they cause a pollution of the stream on the Ely property and the case will now have to be tried.

A Democrat at Last.

Francis Sidney Hayward, who has been appointed as Deputy Surveyor of the Port upon the recommendation of Surveyor Guy W. Steele, will assume his duties at once, although the resignation of James Campbell, whom he succeeds does not take effect until April 30. Mr. Campbell has been given a furlough with full pay for 60 days.

Mr. Hayward was promoted from a $1,800 clerkship in the auditor's department. His new position pays $2,500. Surveyor Steele said Wednesday that Mr. Campbell had not been forced out, but that finding that he could not attend to the active supervision of the men that was expected from him because of his age he had decided to retire. He is 71 years old and has been in the service for 17 years.
