TWO KILLED.

Premature Dynamite Explosion Buries Men Under Rock.

Samuel Sprague, Union Bridge, and John Ciofani, an Italian, were killed and another Italian, had his arm fractured Saturday afternoon in an explosion of dynamite at the "Tide-water Cement Plant near Union Bridge. A number of other workmen made narrow escapes.

A charge of dynamite had been prepared when from some cause an explosion occurred prematurely. Sprague and Ciofani were buried beneath tons of earth and rock. The former lived 45 minutes after being rescued and the latter survived four hours. The explosion attracted workmen from every part of the quarry, who assisted in the rescue work. Sprague, who is survived by a widow and nine children, was buried Monday.

THREE UNDER AUTO.

Mr. Reifsnider, Wife and Mother in Wreck Near Keymar.

Three persons were badly injured Sunday when the touring car of David Reifsnider, near Keymar, turned turtle on the Emmitsburg State road one mile north of Lewistown. The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Reifsnider and Mr. Reifsnider's mother. Mrs. Rebecca Reifsnider, 73 years old. They were pinned beneath the machine.

Mr. Reifsnider was hurt about the face, back and arms. His wife was cut about the head and his mother hurt about the face, head and body.

While driving to Mrs. Reifsnider's home the driver lost control of the car and it almost went over an embankment. Thinking another accident was about to occur, the physician jumped and cut both hands and bruised himself about the body.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, July 28, from the house. Interment in Morgan Chapel Cemetery, Woodbine, Md.

The Good Idea.

The serious-looking man was trying hard to listen to the speaker's eloquence, but the squalling of an infant in the row of seats directly ahead gave him little opportunity. Annoyance gave way to irritation, and irritation in turn was superseded by resolve. He leaned forward, touched the mother on the shoulder and in a dispassionate tone asked:

"Has your baby been christened yet?"

"Why, no sir. Why do you ask?"

"Merely because I was about to suggest that if he had not been christened you might name him Good Idea."

"And why Good Idea?" asked the woman.

"Because," the man struggled hard to repress his feelings, "it should be carried out."—Exchange.

"Well," said Higgins, inspecting Walloper's new automobile, "there's one good thing about it—it will never turn turtle."

"How do you figure that out?" asked Walloper, much pleased.

"Oh, it just couldn't," replied Higgins. "It might turn mock-turtle, but—"

"It was five minutes later that the police had to intervene.

M. P. CONFERENCE

SUMMER MEETING STARTS AT WESTERN MARYLAND COLLEGE AUGUST 2.

The annual Summer Conference of the ministers of the Maryland Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, will be held in Baker Chapel of Western Maryland College. A large number of ministers will attend living in the College, and finding delightful fellowship "on the hill," as well as enjoying the inspiring addresses of the conference which will continue until Friday morning. Devotional services will be held each morning before breakfast, conducted by a different minister each morning; and twilight services Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings on the campus will be led by Rev. Dr. J. M. Holmes the three subjects of his talks being, "God, the Father," "Jesus Christ the Son," and "The Holy Spirit."

Rev. Dr. C. E. Forlines will give three lectures on "The Epistle to the Galatians," which will be the first of the morning programs, the fourth day at the same hour Mr. S. D. Gordon will speak, making the closing address. Mr. Gordon will be the first speaker on Monday evening—thus the first and last messages will be by this gifted speaker. The presence of Mr. Gordon, who has become famous as an author of a series of devotional books entitled "Quiet Hour Talks," is one of the great features of the week.

Besides the two addresses mentioned he will take part in many of his Thursday night, Dr. D. L. Greenfield will preach on Tuesday morning.

On Tuesday evening Judge W. F. Norris, of the U. S. Department of Justice, Washington, will speak on "The Teacher and the Book," and also again the next morning upon the subject of "The Immortal Man."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Mellor, of Detroit, will give a musical on Wednesday evening. Mr. Mellor will be remembered as the soloist of the College Commencement Sunday, June, 1914. Both Mr. and Mrs. Mellor are soloists at remarkable ability, in sweetness and power and that "some which enters into the heart. Their concert will be a rare treat.

Other addresses during the day sessions will be by Prof. Yont, on "Excavations in the Holy Land," as seen by him an member of an exploration party; Dr. J. H. M. Rowland on "John Wesley as a Physician," and Mr. W. H. Smith, of Washington, on "The Building and Dedication of the Temple," illustrated by an elaborate sectional model.

It is the earnest desire of the committee that the people of our town and vicinity attend the sessions of this conference, which will be held in Baker Chapel. Remember, all the meetings are free, no offering, (this means addresses, lectures and the musical by Mr. and Mrs. Mellor) is the only condition of admission—that you come. A very cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend. We sincerely hope you will come and enjoy the sessions of the conference.

Committee—A. Norman Ward, Edgar T. Read, Thomas O. Crouse.

CARDINAL REACHES 81.

He spends Anniversary Quietly in T. H. Shriver's Home.

Cardinal Gibbons spent his 81st birthday Friday as a guest of T. Herbert Shriver at his home near Union Mills. He has spent many of his birthdays there, for he wants to be away from the hustle and bustle of Baltimore and dislikes any formal notice being taken of the anniversary.

The Cardinal spent the day as he spends most of his days when at the Shriver home. He said mass in the domestic chapel at 8 o'clock. There was a dinner in his honor at midday. Those present besides the Cardinal and the members of the Shriver family were the Rev. Joseph C. Mallon, of this city, and the Rev. John S. Cuddy, of Taneytown.

In the afternoon the Cardinal sat on the porch in front of the Shriver home and read some of the messages of congratulation sent him. He then took an automobile ride and returned later to the house to spend the evening in reading and meditation.

Brewster's Millions at Opera House Tuesday, August 3.

Robert Brewster, a scion of a well-to-do family, elopes with Louise Sedgewick. Peter Brewster, disheveled and ragged, returns to be reconciled to the marriage, and later drives the young couple from their home. A little son, "Monty" blesses the union. When Monty is a full grown man, Peter Brewster dies and bequeaths a million dollars to him.

The newly acquired wealth staggers Monty Brewster and he is about to launch into the new life as one of the predatory rich, when he receives a communication from an attorney in the West, advising him that his uncle, George Brewster, has left him seven million dollars, contingent upon his getting rid of the million dollars left to him by Peter Brewster.

"Peter Brewster mistreated your mother and father and I do not want you to touch a dollar of his money. If you spend the million left to you by him and can, at the end of a year, show receipts that you have judiciously spent, not squandered this million dollars, my attorneys will turn over to you my worldly possessions, aggregating seven millions. You must own nothing of value at the end of the year," said George Brewster, and Monty, learning for the first time that Peter Brewster had mistreated his parents, begins to spend the million.

He invests the money in a sure looking proposition in Wall Street in an effort to dispose of some of his unwelcome money, and the proposition turns out a winner. He backs a flabby fat pugilist, hoping to lose, and wins.

There is a clause in the will of George Brewster which says that Monty must not tell anyone of his desire to spend the million and his friends think he has suddenly lost his mind. Everything Monty touches with the hope of losing some of his money, turns out just the reverse, and he wins. He has a most terrible time disposing of the undesired millions.

Finally, in a desperate attempt at magnificent spending, Monty hires a palatial yacht, invites several dozen friends to accompany him and goes on a long cruise. The friends mutiny in mid-ocean, thinking him suddenly insane the way he is squandering his wealth, threaten to lock Monty up and Monty, to frustrate them, runs up a signal of distress. It costs him two hundred thousand dollars to be salvaged by a passing steamer, and the end of the year rolls around with Monty flat broke.

He has squandered the entire million dollars, possesses a room full of receipts to show how every dollar spent, and his sweetheart Peggy, believing him to be a pauper, consents to marry him. His friends, believing him broke, endeavor to press money and jewelry upon him, all of which he must not have in his possession or he loses the seven million. He dodges his friends in net by the attorney and presented with seven million dollars, and everything turns out happily.

EASTLAND TOPPLES WITHOUT WARNING

842 BODIES TAKEN OUT; MANY MORE IN HULL—2500 PERSONS ON BOARD.

Chicago, July 24.—More than 1,000 persons, most of them women and children were drowned today within a few feet of the land by the capsizing of the steel steamer Eastland as it was about to leave its wharf in the Chicago river with 2,500 relatives and friends of employes of the Western Electric Company for an excursion across Lake Michigan. The ship rolled over on its side in 25 feet of water within five minutes after it began to list.

Coroner Hoffman at 11 o'clock tonight said, according to information at hand, he had hopes that the total dead from the capsizing of the steamer Eastland would not exceed 1,000. The number of bodies in the morgue, according to official count, was 442. While others were added later, there was some duplication, it was discovered. The coroner said that any bodies in addition to the 842 were in the river or the hull of the steamer Eastland.

Several persons were taken alive from the cabins of the ship after it had lain on its side in the river for four hours, but the 300 others said to be in the hull are all dead.

Under the glare of searchlights tonight scores of men worked in the hull of the vessel to remove the bodies. The steamer lay on the bottom of the river, one side protruding like a monument to the hundreds it had drowned as it turned over.

Revised figures showed 176 bodies had been identified. Of 114 partially identified bodies 47 were men, 48 women, 7 boys and 12 girls.

Members of the crowd waiting outside the armory stored the doors late tonight and the police were forced to use their clubs to drive them back. Several persons were injured, it was said.

With 10 high-powered searchlights playing over the scene from roofs of neighboring buildings and the interior of the ill-fated steamer illuminated with electric bulbs, the hunt for bodies continued after dark.
