COMPACTS—POLITICAL AND OTHERWISE.

Participation in political primaries means loyalty to one's party. Abiding by the result of the primaries is a political obligation.

The present campaign in Maryland ought to be of such a character as to restrain men from a tendency that is impulsive and at the same time violative of political compacts.

Compacts, whether of a political or a business character, should be kept and kept strictly. The fact that men engage in primary elections, having first given their political affiliation, binds them to the result.

One of the greatest mistakes in all primary elections, and one that casts shame upon the system, is what is termed "mud-slinging."

Primary elections are supposed to be a choice of suitable candidates for office. They are between men of the same party organization.

The main thought is to keep people true to their political obligations. Hence the propriety of keeping within due bounds and the avoidance of hasty expressions.

A FORMER LEE SUPPORTER'S OPINION OF SENATOR LEE'S RECORD

THE EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE'S SEARCHING ANALYSIS AND EXPOSURE.

Failure as Senator and Present Alliance Loses Him Support.

"Opposition to any man's candidacy for public office," it has been truly said, "need not imply any but the most generous sentiments toward the candidate personally considered."

Senator Lee, as a candidate, is being very strenuously opposed; he is also being very seriously criticised. Let us see on what grounds.

Only a few years ago—four to be exact—he denounced Gorman as the candidate of the "City" bosses; he denounced these bosses by name and claimed himself the champion of the anti-city forces of Maryland Democracy.

In his speech announcing his candidacy Senator Lee did not think, so he averred, that the people of Maryland would like to say that they were voting for a candidate put up by John Walter Smith—one man power.

Senator Lee pleaded with the people to send him to the Senate "to uphold the hands of the President." In his, Mr. Lee's mind, and the people were of the same opinion, it was imperative that the President have sufficient support to pass every Wilson measure.

William G. Ogden, in his letter to the Sun shows that these claims among others of Senator Lee do not accord with the facts in the indelible record. These measures were drawn by Attorney General Straus and were passed in spite of Mr. Lee.

Mr. Lee calls himself a "Progressive Democrat," a term that neither Mr. Lee nor his associates seem to be able to define.

Heretofore as we have said, Senator Lee has feigned abhorrence towards the very name of "Boss," he has inveighed against anything that sounded like "Organization."

Here, for instance, is a dispatch from Washington, dated Sept. 14, 1914, that throws some light on the subject.

Among the many considerations that have weighed with Senator Lee's friends in urging him to sacrifice his seat in Washington for the mansion in Annapolis is their anxious desire to see the Lee organization protected in the next State administration.

They do not have to be shown that Annapolis and not Washington is the place to mobilize a successful and lasting State organization. For every single piece of patronage to be wormed out of Washington there are scores of places to be bestowed in Annapolis.

Senator Lee's attitude as a candidate in this campaign has driven from him the political support of the many staunchest friends he ever had.

Mr. Joseph Arnold is improving his place by having his barn painted. Mr. Snyder is doing the work.

Misses Lillian Wolf and Viola Frick spent the week's end in Frederick county visiting the former's aunt, Mrs. Emory Biddinger.

Miss Eleanor Blavelt is spending a month with her cousin, Miss Nellie Barber. She also spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. Louisa Mengel.

Mr. John G. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Little, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wolf and son, Ross, took trip to York, and Hanover, Pa., to view the damage done by the storm.

Miss Ora Ogg spent Tuesday with her brother, Mr. Harry Ogg, of Mexico.

Mrs. Elizabeth Greenwood, of Ohio, is spending some time with relatives at Ogg Summit.

After a long illness Miss Ruth Arnold died Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock. Her age was 69 years, 5 months. She was buried at Deer Park, Tuesday morning, Rev. Sites officiated.

Mr. Frank Case has returned home after visiting his father, Mr. James Case.

The annual picnic of Pleasant Hill Grange will be held in Benson's grove, September 2.

St. Paul's Sunday school will hold its annual picnic in Benson's grove this coming Saturday, August 23, afternoon and evening.

Robert Root, a private policeman of the Carnegie Steel Company, at Braddock, Pa., spent a few days with friends at Emory and Fowlesburg last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bortner have returned from an extended trip through the west, which also included New York and Atlantic City.

Charles Gill, a veterinarian in the employ of the British Government, and a son of the late Murray Gill, of Boring, Baltimore county, according to newspaper reports, died on a transport on the Ocean with a cargo of horses, and was buried at sea.

Political News.

The only office to escape from the primary contest was State Senator. Mr. Warfield will be our candidate, and a good one too.

Democrats have eight for House of Delegates. It is a pinch that four will get left. The Republicans are one shy for a full number of candidates for the House.

Seven Democrats and three Republicans for Clerk of the Court, some bunch. Well only one can get the job, while nine will contribute $25 each toward the primary election.

From the complexion of the number out for Judge of the Orphans' Court, it must be some soft job. There'll be only three in the office after November.

Who wants to be Sheriff? Why five. No you don't, one's enough for us.

Oh yes, there's the State's Attorney. There are four looking for trouble. One will get it, and enemies, too, for doing his duty.

Yes, we have some trouble in our Democratic family, this fall, but there are other families that did not escape this time, and it was our neighbor, the G. O. P. Who started this Grand Old Party rumpus?

Guests Raise $15 for Milk and Ice Fund. An "Old Fashioned Party" was held at Winchester Place, August 19, for the benefit of the Milk and Ice Fund.

The party opened with a grand march of the guests, who were in costumes, and Eochontas, Cleopatra, Our Grandmother, Belle of 1860, Old-Fashioned Girl and Colonial Dame were a few of the representations.

Nearly all of the guests took part in the game of "Pinning the Bottle on the baby," a variation of the old "Pinning—the-Tail-of—the-Donkey" game. There was also a potato race.

Other out-of-town contributions received came from a woman at the Emergency Hospital, Annapolis, Md.; from Ashton, Md., and from Lutherville, Md.

THE IMPROVED "STANDARD ROTARY" SEWING MACHINE

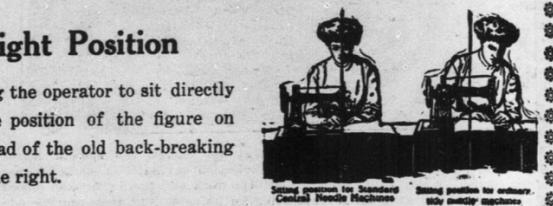

The "Standard Rotary's" wing has been a success for 30 years and is better today than ever. Over a million Standards in use. Every Standard operator is a "Standard" enthusiast.

There are many new improvements on the Standard. A new feed mechanism making an absolutely straight stitch, new shuttle cover making ample room to remove the bobbin from either above or below, a larger bobbin, larger range of stitch, automatic tension release, allowing tacking without interfering with tensions, two spool pins, automatic bobbin winder, and many other improvements.

The Sit-Straight Position

protects the health, enabling the operator to sit directly in front of her work like the position of the figure on the left of illustration, instead of the old back-breaking position like the figure on the right.

is a characteristic of all Standard machines, finely polished quartered oak, and a strong substantial stand. The head is raised into sewing position by an automatic lift.

A lifetime guarantee with every Standard machine. A complete set of nickel steel attachments. All these improvements and yet the price is as low as inferior machines.
