From that time the tribe has been going steadily forward adopting pale faces singly and in classes of five, ten and if we do not time until it now number one hundred and thirty-one members, with over two thousand fathoms of Wampum to its credit and two teams in a contest for bringing in new members to be adopted on January 20th. It is expected to be the largest class ever taken in five, ten and if we do not get you just come in and we will have a class and take you in with it. We are sometimes called noisy but our motto is Freedom, Friendship and Charity, then how can we enjoy freedom if we are not allowed to whom it up when at a suitable place. So in our council chamber we have freedom for rich and poor alike on all questions.

In the nine years of their existence they have paid over 1600 fathoms of Wampum for the relief of brothers, besides other donations of more than a hundred fathoms and the good work goes quietly on.

Hoping all members as far as possible will be present each Thursday evening, as our Sachem has promised to have something interesting on hand for the next six months.

COACHES DITCHED ON PITTSBURGH EXPRESS

DEFECTIVE RAIL WAS THE CAUSE—NO ONE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

At about 10:30 Friday night No. 7, known as the "Pittsburgh Flyer" of the Western Maryland Railroad, enroute from Baltimore to Pittsburg was wrecked about a half mile east of York Road, Pa., and the lives of more than a hundred passengers endangered. The entire train consisting of the engine, baggage, express, steer dining and two day cars were derailed as the result of a defective rail. Although there were no serious injuries, yet some of the passengers and crew received slight wounds.

The rail, it is said, was broken in a number of places and when the cars were thrown from the track against the embankment the steel coaches prevented a loss of life. The engine remained on the tracks as well as the last car. After the crew had ascertained the seriousness of the wreck they proceeded to Hanover in the engine, arriving there about 11:30 p. m., when a new train was made up at Hanover and the delayed passengers were taken to their destinations. Examination revealed the fact that about 100 feet of track was torn up by the wreck and Saturday morning wrecking crews from Hagerstown and Baltimore were summoned to clear away the wreckage. One of the express cars was torn from its trucks and hurled against the embankment. The derailment occurred while many of the passengers were sleeping.

Takes Chance of Being Electrocutd In Order To Beat His Way On York-Hanover Trolley.

Exactly how he escaped the 550 volts that load down the city trolley lines, street car men do not know, but William P. Matthews, aged twenty-one, of Westminster, Md., did not lose his life, nor did he get a jolt, although he had climbed on top of the Hanover trolley car as it waited in Centre Square at 11 o'clock Tuesday night. The roof of the car is copper covered and men congregated in Centre Square who saw the dangerous escapade expected, of course, that the stranger would be electrocuted on the spot. They called the attention of Conductor Luther M. Diehl to the man and he summoned Patrolman Eric and between them they induced the man to climb down from the car. His escape was regarded as miraculous. The only explanation is that in climbing up he left the iron steps before touching the copper roof.

Matthews is a laborer on a farm near Westminster and he came to York Tuesday morning. By night he was dead broke and had no means of transportation except a ticket good on a bus line from Littlestown to Union Mills, Md. He was standing in front of Young & Busser's cigar store trying to figure out how to get to the city. He saw the Hanover car arrive. Watching his opportunity, when the conductor left the car temporarily, Matthews said he would take a chance and crawled to the car roof and was lying down when the conductor's attention was directed to him. He was locked up in the hall for the night on charge of trespassing being lodged against him. The line outside the city carries 3,500 volts, and had Matthews remained on the car roof he probably would have been killed.—Hanover Evening Sun.
