THE STORE
THAT SERVES
YOU BEST

The Hochschild, Kohn & Co. Store was founded in 1897. It began with a plain announcement of its policy and its intentions.

A clear contract was made — is still made, and will always be made—with every customer. This is the contract—it is printed on the back of every sales-check:

Our System
Reliable goods only, at uniformly right prices. For all articles returned, if unreturned, and within reasonable time, we shall willingly refund money.

Baltimore's Best Store is the store of progress. It is not ideal, but it is striving to be. Its aim is to please—to satisfy; and it never loses sight of the mark. It is the accepted and avowed shopping place of a great many people, in Baltimore, throughout Maryland, and in almost every other state in the Union.

What David J. Lewis Has Done For The People

Figures compiled by Charles E. Key, 1110 Munsey Building, Baltimore, showing comparison of rates charged by the express companies and those charged by the United States Parcel Post System, between Baltimore and New York. The Hon. David J. Lewis is responsible for this great service to the American public. He is now candidate for the United States Senate and his election would be a fitting reward for this act by which the entire nation is benefited.

CONGRESSMAN TALBOTT INTERVIEWED.

The following interview of Congressman Talbott was published in the New Era, an independent paper at Towson. To interview Congressman J. F. C. Talbott on the Naval Program pending before the House of Representatives is an easy matter; to talk to him about his own re-election to office brings forth an enthusiastic smile, which makes him look ten years younger, and enough confidential predictions to fill columns of newspaper space; but, to get an expression from "Marse" Fred as to his attitude on the Prohibition question, or an opinion as to which side he thinks will be victorious in the "Dry" and "Wet" fight, is a matter for a machine, yet to be invented, which will expose the mental workings of the mind as the X-Ray reveals the physical activities of the body.

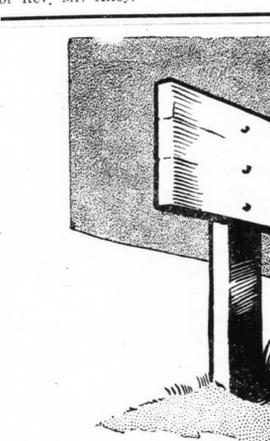

Seated in an easy arm chair in his office in the Law Building, Congressman Talbott graciously received the representative of The New Era, but when informed that the visit was one, strictly for publication purposes, the cheery smile faded from his face which took the expression of being not only careful of what he said, but how he would say it, and the interview, or so much of it, as was participated in by him, resulted in but three statements.

"The people must settle the Prohibition question for themselves: I am absolutely hands off." "Whatever the results of the election are on the Prohibition question, I bow down to the people's will" and in answer to a question as to his own re-election, which made his face glow like that of a new-born babe after its bath, he said, "And I will win, as usual, by a handsome majority."

While Congressman Talbott would not discuss the Prohibition issue at all, he admitted that many of his friends had approached him on the question and that the same answers had been given to all who came to him for advice or information. He said that, in his own campaign, it was natural for him to hear others talk on the subject and that he was surprised to hear from some who he had supposed would vote "wet," were going to vote "dry" and some who he had supposed would vote "dry" were going to vote "wet" and that was the extent of his opinion as to how the county would go at this coming election on this question.

A number of liquor men of the county, and it is especially noticeable that some of the worst of Baltimore county's saloon owners, who have heretofore been more or less prominent in the Democratic ranks around election time, have deserted Talbott in this election, and give as their reason that he could have prevented the "dry" and "wet" election from coming before the voters this year, while on the other hand, there are a number of saloonkeepers in the county who claim that the Prohibition issue was inevitable and had to be faced, and Talbott thought the time here when the people themselves should decide the question without any political interference, either at the legislature or at the polls, while the people at large, appreciating about's action in keeping heads off and realizing that he is absolutely living up to his promise to keep heads off, are making up for him many times more votes than he will lose through the disgruntled efforts of a few of the rum sellers of the county.
