MARY PICKFORD A DUTCH GIRL.

Starred by Famous Players in "Hulda From Holland."

Mary Pickford, in wooden shoes! Clumping and bumping about the Famous Players studio, the celebrated little star was a delightful and amusing sight. Let not so uproariously funny as she will be on the screen of the Opera next Tuesday when she appears in the Famous Players production "Hulda From Holland," by Edith Barnard Delano, which is to be the Paramount feature next week.

For the scenes in this fascinating combination of comedy and pathos which transpired in Holland, the producers erected a complete Dutch village and transported hundreds of "villagers" to the spot where several days were consumed in photographing the action. When Hulda and her three little brothers leave Holland and come to America the action is transferred to Pennsylvania where Hulda's uncle resides. Of course he is a typical Pennsylvania Dutchman and there is only one place where they are to be found. So John B. O'Brien, who directed the production for the Famous Players, took his company to the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country in order to get just the proper flavor.

Hulda and the children are met in New York by the uncle but he is injured and taken to a hospital, where he remains unidentified, and Hulda finds herself alone in New York. But a kindly landlady comes to her assistance until chance and a broken skylight bring her in contact with a young artist.

In support of Miss Pickford there appear Frank Losee, John Bowers Russell Bassett, Charles Vernon, and Little Haral Hollacher.

MARGUERITE CLARK IN UNIQUE FILM.

Characterization as "Helene of the North."

Marguerite Clark's latest screen vehicle, "Helene of the North," presents this star in the most unique characterization she has yet assumed since her triumphant debut in motion pictures, under the management of the Famous Players Film Co. This latest five-part feature on the Paramount Program combines in a decidedly novel manner the cultured atmosphere of aristocratic society circles with the rugged environment of the trackless wastes of Northwestern Canada.

Between these far extremes the drama sways with uninterrupted fascination, and whether in the limitless wilds, or the warm, luxurious drawing room, Marguerite Clark is equally effective and enchanting.

Aside from the extraordinary atmosphere, the entire construction of the story is very original, beginning as it does in the fashionable home of an English society lady, and developing from that sheltered spot into the open spaces of the Canadian wastes, where a virile melodramatic plot ensues, culminating romantically in the cozy corner where the drama began.

This novel five-part feature will be seen at the Opera House tonight.

The mule would have been saved but the lightning struck it and it was found dead when it was about to be saved. The loss is partly covered by insurance.
