A special musical has been provided for the occasion. Rev. Edgar T. Read will address the Association upon the subject "The Responsibility of Parents for the Kind of Books Children Read." Several matters in reference to providing means for the betterment of school conditions in Westminster, as well as in other sections of the county, will be discussed. All members of the Association, and others interested in school affairs are urgently requested to be present.

Miss Mary Grafton Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Steele, this city, who was presented to Baltimore society this season at the Bachelors' Cotillon, will be among the bridesmaids at the wedding in Washington on Saturday of Miss Susan Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Lewis, to Major Cockrill, U. S. A., of Florida. Miss Steele spent part of the winter with her cousin, Mrs. John A. Barker, Jr., Baltimore, and is now visiting Miss Elizabeth A. Wright, in Baltimore. Miss Steele went to Washington today for the dinner to be given for the members of the wedding party.

On Friday the Finksburg Grange held a one day short course at the Finksburg church. Although the weather was bad a group of men went out with Mr. Shaw, Horticultural Specialist of Maryland State School, into an orchard to watch a pruning demonstration, while the women stayed at the church and had a demonstration on the conservation of clothing by Miss Ola Day, of the State College.

In the evening pictures were given showing the apple industry of Maryland. On account of the weather and the amount of sickness in the neighborhood there was not a large crowd present but everyone seemed to enjoy these meetings and hope to have these two specialists again sometime.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, of Reisterstown, gave a turkey dinner Wednesday, February 11, in honor of Mr. Williams, it being his birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Williams, Calvin Williams wife and son, Clarence, Oscar Williams, wife and son, Herman, John E. Williams, wife and daughter, Dorothy, Miss Bessie Williams, of Catonsville, and others. After wishing Mr. Williams many more happy birthdays all departed for their homes.

The members of Dorcas Class of Grace Lutheran Sunday school surprised their teacher, Mrs. W. H. Hetrick, Wednesday evening by going to her home in a body. It was a complete surprise to Mrs. Hetrick and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all. Mrs. Hetrick was given a beautiful gift, a token of love and esteem from the class which was greatly appreciated. Rev. and Mrs. Hetrick and children will leave after March 7 for Connellsville, Pa., where Rev. Hetrick will take up his new charge.

Samuel Hall, brakeman on the Western Maryland Railway, narrowly escaped with his life Tuesday evening of last week when he slipped and fell between the engine and platform at the station at Union Bridge. He attempted to jump on the engine of a passenger train which he had flagged, but owing to the snow he slipped and fell. He was dragged a short distance and was bruised and scratched up considerably, yet able to go to Hagarstown for treatment.

 IN MEMORIAM. *****

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Carroll E. Valentine, who departed this life two years ago today, February 20, 1918.

The month of February is here. To me the saddest of the year. My dear Carroll passed away. Two years ago today.

I stood beside your bedside, And saw your soul depart. And when I saw that you were dead, It nearly broke my heart.

Often from my heart comes a bitter cry, Why, oh, why, did my dear Carroll die. The precious one, from me has gone. The voice I loved is stilled.

A place is vacant in my home, Which never will be filled. By his loving mother, Mrs. Annie Pool.

Oh, how sudden was the summons, When the word came our brother was dead; Brother, you were called away so sudden. Without time to say Good-Bye.

But when you were called away, We know your thoughts were of us. When you were called to die. By his loving sisters, Mrs. George Zents and Mrs. Vernon Rhoten.

In loving remembrance of my friend, Carroll E. Valentine, who departed this life two years ago, February 20, 1918.

I do not know the pain he bore, I did not see him die. I only know he passed away, And could not say Good-Bye.

Gone in the best of his days, Bright in manhood's bloom; He has gone to dwell with Jesus, In the home of the pure and blest.

The sweet to be remembered, And a pleasant thing to find; Although you may be absent, You are still kept in mind.

By his loving daughter, Nettie.

In sad but loving remembrance of our darling little girl Evelyn M. Bonner, who died five years ago, February 16, 1915.

Dear Evelyn, how we miss you, As the hours go slowly by. But beyond this vale I greet you, In your home beyond the sky.

God called away our darling, The one we loved so dear. To rest secure in Jesus, Where she will have no fear.

We tried so hard to save her, The keep we could not keep. God came and gently touched her, And sweetly she fell asleep.

Sleep on, dear Evelyn, life's night is dark. We wait for the dawn to break. May we meet where all tears are wiped away, Where heartaches and sorrows are gone.

By her loving Mother and Father.

Her smiling face we see no more, Her spirit is at peace with Jesus. In the home of the pure and blest.

Rest on, dear Evelyn, our hearts are still sore, As time flies on we miss you more, Asleep we leave you in peace to rest, The parting was painful, but God knows best.

By her loving aunt, Ada.

Little Maid in the "Moon Door" Symbol of the Hope of New China

Ginling College, at Nanking, is Girls' School in Five Provinces With Population of 111,000,000—Interchurch World Movement to Aid Institution.

The way to all things at Ginling lies through the moon door. And through the moon door on the way to wisdom pass and repass, every day the 70 Chinese maidens of the "gung-gwan."

The moon door at Ginling is round as the full moon whence it has its name. And the Chinese maiden, as she steps over its high sill, may spread wide her arms and still not touch its rim with the tips of her fingers.

Some times across the court yard is another moon door, and beyond it like a smaller concentric circle, still another, leading on through that Chinese puzzle of a house, the "gung-gwan" or official residence at Nanking, China, which is now the home of Ginling College for Chinese girls—one of the three women's colleges in all China.

The moon door is but a single feature of the old place. Once inside the high stone walls that enclose it one is lost in a maze of courts and galleries and covered passages and isolated rooms.

The whole is China, old China and new. The moon doors and the architecture as a whole lend the dignity and the greatness of old China. But the laboratories and dormitories, libraries and studies made from the old rooms of state and ceremony are modern, just as the spirit of the Chinese girls who use them is modern; just as the force of America is behind it all, represented by the five American missionary organizations and the American Smith College which maintain Ginling, is modern.

One pushes ajar the halves of a moon door, latticed over paper in plum blossom and honeycomb design, and enters a chemical laboratory set up in a room with 20 windows, each framed in dragon tracery. And from the flagstones of the laboratory floor, often is scraped fungi and mould for use under the microscope.

These are typical contrasts of Ginling College, revealed through the survey of the Chinese field now being made by the Interchurch World Movement, which seeks to promote the closer co-operation of Protestant Churches of America in attaining their world aims.

Ginling College the survey shows, is at the heart of five Chinese provinces with a total population of 110,000,000—and is the only woman's college in that great area. Yet its capacity to receive young Chinese girls is limited by the capacity of the old "gung-gwan," rented since the beginning of the institution, four years ago.

Fund of $500,000

Ginling owns 37 acres of land on the hills beside the Yangtze river. In the Interchurch World Movement survey of China, there is a budget item of $500,000. It is there to show the Churches of America how they can place upon that land on the hill the library, administration building, recitation buildings, chapel—all that are needed for a modern college. Unless the fund is available by 1921, many young women of China seeking college education must be denied admission to Ginling, because the old "gung-gwan" is too small.
